Three motion picture theaters were bombed early this morning as the first violence and the newest flareup in the war between 104 independent houses and the Motion Picture Operators' union. The theaters have been operated since Sunday under the protection of an injunction and with imported operators from New York.

At the very hour of the attacks eighty-five of the imported operators were gathered in a meeting in the Auditorium hotel for the purpose of receiving a warning to "be careful of themselves on the job and off the job." News of the bombings was flashed to Ted Levin, representing the theater interests and one of the speakers of the meeting, and he immediately requested police escort for the operators to their downtown hotels. The escort was given.

These Theaters Bombed.

The theaters bombed are the Ridge, 1550 Devon avenue; the Olympia, 4619 South Ashland avenue, and the Ray, 2638 East 75th street. Damage to the Ridge was estimated at $5,000 by Harold Lasker, 6200 Sheridan road, the owner. Damage to each of the other houses was not more than $200.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles E. Lounsbury was advised of the bombings and asked the detective bureau to request Evanston police to arrest for questioning Joseph Kramer of 1000 Main street, Evanston, steward of the operators' union. This was done and Kramer was locked up at the Rogers Park police station for questioning by Lounsbury. Other officials may be quizzed, it was said. Thomas E. Maloy, president of the union at a salary of $25,000 yearly, is said to be in New York. Maloy is now under indictment for conspiracy.

Bombs Almost Simultaneous.

The three bombs were exploded within a period of 18 minutes and undoubtedly at a prearranged hour. The first blast occurred exactly at 1 o'clock in the rear of the Olympia theater. The second was at 1:04 o'clock in the rear of the Ridge theater and the third occurred at 1:18 o'clock in the rear of the Ray theater. In all cases, detectives said, it was evident that the terrorists hoped to destroy valuable sound machines and special acoustics systems.

Windows in the neighborhoods of the theaters were shattered. The most severe damage was done to the Ridge theater. There the heavy steel door was blown in, the floor ripped, and the sound machine probably impaired. The explosion broke almost every window in the rear of the three story apartment house at 1551 Schreiver avenue, in back of the theater. Two girls asleep on the third floor were showered with flying glass and slightly cut. They are Elaine Katzenberg, 10 years old, and Roslyn, 6.

Owner Assails Maloy.

Mr. Lasker, owner of the theater, inspected the wreckage and bitterly denounced the union. "Maloy, Reynolds, and other officials of the operators' union are pulling a fast one," he told police. He said that a former union operator had been seen driving around the theater in the company of several strange men for two days.

Comparatively small damage was done to the south side theaters. A dozen windows crashed in the settlement house of the University of Chicago at 4630 Gross avenue when the Olympia theater was bombed. Windows were broken and plaster loosened in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. James Laskaris, 4617 South Ashland avenue, and Miss Pearl Smith, 4613 South Ashland avenue. No one was hurt. Aaron E. Saperstein, president of the Independent Theater Owners' association, is owner of the Olympia, and the Golos brothers own the Ray theater.

The trouble between the theaters and the union began several weeks ago over the efforts of the former to employ only one operator instead of two, as the union insists. Finally the union men were locked out and operators were imported from New York. The city electric inspectors' office, through the acting head, C. K. Cregier, refused to issue licenses and an injunction was obtained last Sunday preventing him from interfering.

"KIDNAPED" N. Y. BROKER APPEARS IN POLICE STATION

New York, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Police headquarters announced that Charles M. Rosenthal, 23 years old, a stock broker of Lawrence, Long Island, who, according to his family, was held by kidnapers for a $100,000 ransom, walked into a Bronx police station today. He is said to have told detectives that he was thrown from an automobile at 158th street and Walton avenue, but that he landed uninjured and immediately hastened to report to police. They refused to discuss the case pending the arrival of high police officials.

The Rosenthal family in their Long Island home said they had been notified of his appearance at the police station, but knew nothing of the details or where he had been since Aug. 11, the day of his disappearance.

FREES DOG FROM CATCHER'S TRUCK AND GOES TO JAIL

Edwin C. Bailey, 32 years old, 1706 Dodge avenue, Evanston, loves dogs. He went to jail for one yesterday.

He was tinkering in his bicycle shop in the rear of his home when he heard yelps of distress on the outside. Bailey stepped out of his door, just in time to see Policeman Ernest E. Erickson, town dog catcher, close the rear door of his truck on a yellow mongrel.

As Erickson mounted to his seat, the sympathetic Mr. Bailey opened the rear door. The temporary prisoner leaped out and dashed away with canine cries of joy. Policeman Erickson seized the dog liberator and took him to the station on a charge of interfering with an officer. He was locked up until he gave $50 bond

BUSINESS AREA OF ST. LOUIS IS ROCKED BY BOMB

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 28 (Friday).—(AP)—A bomb which exploded with terrific force after apparently having been thrown from a passing motor car rocked the downtown district of St. Louis early today. The bomb tore a hole a foot in diameter in the sidewalk in front of a cigar store and racing handbook office in the 100 block of North Seventh street and broke scores of windows.

The cigar store and handbook at which police said the bomb was hurled, adjoins the Buder building, in which the St. Louis Times is published, and is less than two blocks from the Globe-Democrat building.

Suitor of Lost Widow Claims She'll Return

Cornelius O. Pierson, correspondence suitor of a Park Ridge widow who has been missing since July, last night declared that the widow and her three children would return "in due time." Pierson, arrested yesterday at his home in Clarksburg, W. Va., where he is alleged to operate a matrimonial bureau, at first refused to answer questions concerning the widow, Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher, on "advice of my attorney."

Pierson denied that he had been a suitor of Mrs. Eicher and declared that he had come to Park Ridge last June to "pack her furniture" after she had sold her house to a Charles S. Rogers of Pittsburgh. Police then called his attention to 54 letters bearing his name and addressed to the widow, in which plans for marriage were discussed and the writer outlined a life of ease and wealth after "our marriage."

Expect Pierson to Talk.

Later Pierson became a bit more responsive to questions, and late last night Clarksburg police telephoned Park Ridge authorities that they expected him "to talk before morning." In addition the police declared that they found what resembled bloodstains in Pierson's home and also some silverware which belonged to the Eicher home.

The prisoner replied that he and the widow were "only good friends" and that she looked to him for financial advice. Concerning his trip to Park Ridge Pierson declared that he had "seen Mrs. Eicher off on the train for Colorado" and that he believed she had gone there to marry Rogers. He said that he returned in several days to start "the children on the trip to be with their mother."

Wife Appears at Jail.

It was after the neighbors had reported the children missing that Harold W. Johnson, chief of police of Park Ridge, investigated and found the house stripped and Pierson in the garage packing the family's belongings. Pierson was questioned at that time and told to return the next day. He did not report to the chief as ordered and disappeared after having told neighbors that he was going to marry Mrs. Eicher.

Chief of Police C. O. Duckworth of Clarksburg found letters in Pierson's possession showing he operated a matrimonial agency and was courting women in various parts of the country in the same manner that he courted Mrs. Eicher.

Shortly after Pierson's arrest a red haired woman appeared at police headquarters, saying she was the wife of the prisoner. She declared his name was Harry F. Powers, and that she had married him in Oakland, Mo., in June, 1927.

Chief Johnson of Park Ridge was told that the prisoner probably would refuse to waive extradition to Illinois. Thereupon Chief Johnson, who had already sworn out warrants charging Pierson with kidnaping and murder, swore out a new warrant accusing Pierson of kidnaping, and forwarded it to Springfield with a request to Gov. Emmerson for an extradition warrant.

The investigators yesterday found additional letters received by the widow, some of them from matrimonially inclined prospects in other parts of the country. This indicated that Mrs. Eicher, in her ambitions to win another husband, had communicated with other mail order marriage bureaus.

City Is Swept by Rainstorm and Lightning

Chicago and its environs, from Kensington on the south to Highland Park on the north, were swept by a severe electrical storm last night. A heavy downpour of rain accompanied the lightning, and from all parts of the city and from many suburbs came reports of subways and basements flooded. On Chicago's North Side the lightning struck at more than twenty points, shattering trees and light and telephone poles, ripping out radio wires, and in some instances setting fire to houses and apartment buildings.

At the Willow Springs crossing of the Chicago and Alton railroad, Walter W. Zetzemtz, 22 years old, 6430 South Damen avenue, blinded by the heavy rain, drove his automobile into the path of a passenger train. His car was demolished, he was dragged more than 100 feet and critically injured. At the Holy Cross hospital he was said to be suffering from a skull fracture.

Lightning Hits Seminary Steeple.

The steeple of the Presbyterian Theological seminary, at 2330 North Halsted street, was struck by lightning and set afire. One hundred and seventy-five theological students, residents of a nearby dormitory, rushed into the street in the downpour to help the firemen fight the blaze.

Dr. John Timothy Stone, president of the seminary, heard the crash when the steeple was struck. He rushed out into the storm and called upon the students who were helping to fight the blaze to pray. Dr. Stone and his students knelt on the rain soaked grass and offered a prayer for the safety of the building.

The firemen were unable to get into the steeple and by the time they had raised a fire tower and trained a hose on the fire an hour later the rain had put out the blaze. The damage was estimated at $5,000.

Railway Station Flooded.

The second floor of the La Salle street railroad station was flooded when a spout from the roof to the basement of the building gave way under the terrific pressure of water. The Leander Stone grammar school at Leavitt street and Rosemont avenue was struck by lightning and slightly damaged.

Lightning struck the radio aerial of the Warren avenue police station and gave the operator, Peter Rice, 1567 Greenleaf avenue, a severe shock. The bolt also put the station's private phone out of commission for a while.

Sets Fire in Apartment.

At 426 Oakwood boulevard lightning, in the form of a huge ball of fire, tore down the side of the apartment building along a radio wire and set fire to a curtain in the flat of James Byer. At 3700 West 26th street the radio store of the Delight Utilities company was fired by lightning.

Although the loop district and the north side suffered from a tremendous downpour, the heaviest rainfall apparently was on the south side. Jackson park driveways were completely flooded, the 57th street station of the Illinois Central was under water for some time, and manholes at 63d street and Stony Island avenue and at 69th and Dorchester were blown open from the pressure of the water in the sewers. Automobiles were stalled all over the south side.

Police and Firemen Busy.

From shortly before 9 o'clock until after 10 the police and fire departments were busy answering calls from householders whose basements were flooded. It was estimated that the police alone received more than 100 calls for help within an hour.

C. A. Donnel, government meteorologist, predicted cloudy and cooler weather for today, with a possibility of showers early this morning.

Members of the special grand jury revealed yesterday that its eight months of investigation of the entire police force is concluded with this tribute: "For honesty, integrity, and efficiency Chicago's police department is second to none in America."

The jurors who made this announcement are among the so-called insurgents, who were convinced at the inception of the inquiry that the police as a body were corrupt and who battled all the way through to prove it and then finally joined with the majority in the report which is to be made today to Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court.

Jurors Assail Prohibition.

These jurors said the entire jury had come to the conclusion that prohibition laws had done great harm to the country and that wherever there is graft and corruption its causes are largely due to Volsteadism. It is an utter impossibility for any police department to enforce prohibition when many of the "best people" have no compunctions about violating it, the jurors will report. And many of the jurors were classified last January as prohibitionists.

The twenty-three men who come from all walks in life and who have collectively been called "a high class grand jury" recommend the repeal or modification of national prohibition as a necessity to the raising of the standards of all police departments.

Declare City Maligned.

Other features of their final report, to be rendered today, are as follows:

They denounce those Chicagoans who have gone to other cities and given exaggerated and false accounts of crime conditions here and brought Chicago into disrepute. Eight months of an intensive investigation convinced them that Chicago has been maligned and that instead of being a crime center it is a peaceful city with a police department whose activity and efficiency is seldom equaled by the department of any other city.

The reputation of "sin soaked Chicago" was given it, the report says, by loose talking, malicious persons seeking to make an impression on audiences and who, when called upon to prove their assertions, failed to do so.

Reformers Under Fire.

Reformers who sought to capitalize the reputation misapplied to Chicago are treated scathingly by the jurors. These reformers were called as witnesses and asked to give any evidence they had of corruption in the police department or anywhere else and it is said not one of them presented a bit of actual proof, but repeated hearsay founded on nothing tangible.

The jurors tell of being called to serve as a patriotic duty to their community to uncover crookedness and expose any graft that might exist. They made a thorough and impartial investigation, they assert, and worked hard at it. They questioned nearly 1,000 witnesses. They were responsible for raids in which nearly 800 men and many women were arrested, half of whom were found guilty in the municipal courts.

Speakeasy Owners Quizzed.

Speakeasy owners were called before the jury and asked about protection payments to police. There followed denials of money given to policemen although the threat of federal prosecution was made and also offers of immunity if the bootlegger had bribed any policeman. The witness were afterwards turned over to the government, along with the evidence seized in their places, but they continued to insist they had made no graft contributions to police.

A committee of the jury went to New York and conferred with the heads of a graft investigation under way there. They obtained suggestions and information which proved useful on their return here, but still, it is reported, no important evidence of corruption was found in the Chicago police department.

Investigators Roam City.

The jury spent practically all of its $50,000 appropriation and hired dozens of investigators who roamed the city seeking evidence that policemen were doing anything unlawful or taking bribes or were in any conspiracy or alliance to break the laws or permit them to be broken. At one time the jury had 25 investigators, a staff of policemen assigned to it whose diligence and activity is commended.

State's Attorney Swanson and Assistant State's Attorneys Charles J.

Mueller and Charles E. Lounsbury are thanked by the jurors for the help and coöperation given and the work of Mueller and Lounsbury, who were assigned to the investigation by Mr. Swanson, is praised in the report.

That there is some graft and corruption in the police department the jurors say they believe, but they assert that it is no more than could be expected in any other body of 6,000 men recruited from all nationalities and occupations. As a body, the police department, they will report, compares favorably with any other unit of its size and kind.

Before prohibition there was graft in the police department but it was sporadic and rare, the report will say. Prohibition has stirred up a general disrespect for law, created many criminals, and had a tendency to demoralize the police department but the jury finds it has largely recovered and its morale is now high.

Too much advance notice was given that this jury would be impaneled and charged with the duty of investigating the police department, the jurors say. If any corruption then existed those involved had time to cover up, to make terms with witnesses of coach them in perjured stories.

They Make No Excuses.

The jurors declare they do not think they need make any excuses for not having indicted any one. Nothing of an indictable nature was presented to them, according to the report, nor were they able to find any evidence to justify an indictment or to sustain the previously made charges against the police.

In the fourteen months of Acting Commissioner Alcock's administration of the department the department has made a highly creditable record in crime activities, according to the forthcoming report. Approximately 75 per cent of all murders and manslaughter cases in that time have been cleared up through arrests or the death of the perpetrator, and in an additional 12 per cent of the cases the murders have been solved, but the murderer has not been caught.

A number of innovations related by Alcock are listed in the report, including the vagrancy bureau, department of criminal investigation [The Scotland yard detail which is to work on unsolved crimes], the radio equipment which gets a police squad in two minutes or less to the scene of a crime. Mention also is made of a police college to be in existence in a few weeks.

Captains' Assets Investigated.

The story is told of the examination of the financial affairs of all captains and high police officials without mentioning names. The jury decided that if graft was as prevalent as rumor had it the captains' wealth would show it. In the main, the jury found that the captains' "came clean."

The jurors subpoenaed bankers to produce all records of transactions with any of the fifty-four captains named on the writ, and their wives and other close relatives. They did the same with stock brokers, bond houses, building and loan associations, and safe deposit vault companies.

Every real estate transaction of recent years was scrutinized and representatives of the grand jury examined the record of titles to every piece of property in the city, seeking land and buildings owned by captains or other high police officials.

More than half the captains were found to have no more money in the bank or real estate or personal property than could have reasonably been acquired on their salaries. These captains were immediately eliminated from further consideration.

Other Captains Questioned.

All but two of the captains whose worldly goods were more than a $4,000 yearly salary would provide, were questioned before the jury under oath. One of the two is away on an extended furlough and the other is in a hospital.

Most of the captains questions were able to explain the sources of their money in a manner satisfactory to the jury: Legacies, fortunate investments and legitimate profits.

A small percentage of the wealthy captains offered explanations that were considered silly by the jurors. The jury frankly states its disbelief and recommends that the records of those accounts be kept for some future investigation.

The conclusion of the grand jury is that it is the courageous and proper thing to do to speak of the good of the department and to make true findings in exoneration of the police force rather than to give consideration to scandal mongers who would condemn all because a very few are bad.

Grand Jury Report Praises Police

CAB CO. ACCUSED OF SELLING SHORT MEASURE ON GAS

The Yellow Cab company was charged yesterday by City Sealer Grein with giving short measure on the gasoline which it sells to its drivers, following an inspection of the pumps of the company. Suits will be filed against the company, charging that pumps at seven of its garages were short—in some cases as much as half a gallon on a five gallon measure of gasoline, Grein said.

JOE GREIN.

Although a city ordinance requires that all gasoline pumps be tested every six months, those of the cab company had not been tested since they were installed several years ago, Grein asserted. At the garage at 324 East Huron street, he charged, the manager forbade inspectors to test the pump until he was threatened with arrest.

Thomas Hogan, vice president and general manager of the cab company, replied with a statement in which he said:

"Mr. Grein might have been fair in his statement had he told the full facts, namely, that in the ten garages of the Yellow Cab company there were as many pumps found overmeasured as under measured, and some were absolutely accurate. He complained that in one garage the local manager objected to the examination of his pump, but he failed to state that as soon as this was called to the attention of the management orders were given to give the inspector free access."

Learning of Mr. Hogan's statement, Mr. Grein asserted he had been fair in his inspections. "There was not one pump which was overmeasured," he declared. "On the other hand, every pump was undermeasured from one pint to one-half gallon on every five gallon lot."

COOPERAGE PLANT BURNED.

AUSTRIAN WALKS ACROSS ENGLISH CHANNEL ON SKIS

DOVER, England, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Karl Naumestnik, an Austrian, walked across the English channel today. He did it on "water skis"—canoelike devices equipped with cross pieces and capable of being operated backward or forward by a standing or sitting ski walker.

Naumestnik started out from Cape Griz Nez, France, at daybreak with a fishing boat as convoy, and stepped on the English shore near Dover shortly after 4 p. m., the first person ever to walk the channel.

Old City Hall Jobholders Congratulate Him.

Edward F. Moore, waif of the previous city administration, who was adopted on Wednesday by Gov. Emmerson in an effort to build up the latter's organization in Chicago, is to take his new post as west park commissioner next week. The former deputy commissioner of public works and heavy duty cog in the wrecked political machine was receiving congratulations yesterday from its followers, many of whom he had put on the pay roll in the old days.

Moore entered the political arena through his union activities. He has been known chiefly as a job dispenser. As former business agent of the Hoisting and Portable Engineers' union he was a Democrat. He switched his politics to climb aboard the band wagon of the old administration as it mounted to its zenith.

Moore served as a member of the city board of examining engineers from 1916. In 1921 he was appointed assistant chief engineer of the sanitary district and clamped on to both posts. Later he became superintendent of the district's former department of maintenance and operation. Moore lost this post when the department was abolished, and another bureau serving the same function was established after Timothy J. Crowe became president of the drainage trustees.

At the time Crowe said he was dissatisfied with Moore's laxness in running the department. Pay roll expenditures during Moore's administration reached $3,402,192 in 1926, which was $453,927 over the budget appropriation, Crowe said.

In an interlude to his sanitary district service Moore was questioned by the grand jury investigating the murder of Assistant State's Attorney William H. McSwiggin. Moore was asked whether he was riding in McSwiggin's automobile on the evening in April, 1926, when the prosecutor was slain. McSwiggin's father had said his son left home declaring he was going to see Ed Moore. Moore said he was not with McSwiggin.

After his service with the sanitary district Moore was given the chief post under former Commissioner of Public Works Richard W. Wolfe. Here he was credited with giving jobs to friends of the city administration and with discharging employés sponsored by anti-administration aldermen. Moore was sponsored by Homer K. Galpin, former chairman of the county Republican central committee. Galpin left the state to evade a grand jury investigation into vote frauds at the 1928 primary, and returned at the expiration of the statute of limitations.

The sponsorship was considered a reward for Moore's work in handling jobs in the sanitary district. In his new field he proved he had learned his task. In one division of the office the pay roll was trebled in three months with the advent of Moore, the records show. Other pay rolls rose. Jobseekers were told they must establish a connection with Moore before they could find work.

Target in Various Scandals.

During the height of his power with the old order, Moore was nominated as Republican candidate for a vacant sanitary district trusteeship at the November, 1928, election. Hundreds of letters were circulated in his behalf by Charles E. Patterson, partner in the Universal Equipment company. Patterson urged the election of his "good friend."

Democrats disclosed seventeen $25 and $37.50 a day trucks on the rolls of the public works department in the names of Patterson and his partner, J. J. Walsh. Moore's opponent, Ross A. Woodhull, termed the Patterson letter an example of "timely gratitude." Moore was defeated.

With his defeat and the casting of Galpin from the administration ranks, Moore steadily lost ground. He was a target of attack from all quarters on departmental scandals. He was shorn of his patronage power early in 1929 when Wolfe notified all bureau heads that he had taken over the handling of all jobs and contracts.

Two other committeemen of the old régime were given jobs with Moore by Gov. Emmerson. They are Waldemar J. Roehler, also appointed to the west park board, and Andrew C. Metzger, former county commissioner, who was made chief grain inspector. They, too, will assume their duties next week.

Bandits Bind Three in St. Clair Hotel; Get $74

Three bandits entered the St. Clair hotel, 162 East Ohio street, yesterday and escaped with $74 after binding three employés with adhesive tape. The auditor, Miss Margaret Hosier, her assistant, A. J. Haley, and another employé, Miss Rosaline Jones, were taped up by the robbers, who threatened them with pistols.

LYNCH TO LEAD FINISH FIGHT ON KIDNAPING GANGS

Gamblers Join in War; New Prosecution.

Aroused by the kidnaping of John [illegible], part owner of a racing news bureau, who was freed Wednesday night and returned to his home in Lake Geneva early yesterday after the reported payment of $50,000 ransom, powerful gambling groups, it became known last night, are organizing to fight to a finish professional kidnap gangs which have located here to prey on wealthy gamblers.

Leading in the fight will be [illegible] is cooperating with authorities of Cook county, and of Walworth county, Wisconsin, and has consented to investigators that he believes he can identify two and perhaps more of the men who abducted him. His willingness to assist in the prosecution of the abductors is a departure, so far as law officials are concerned, from the traditional silence and nonco-operation of previous kidnap victims.

Syndicates Join in Fight.

In addition to Lynch's desire to terminate the activities of the gang which captured him is the pledge of several syndicates, reports state, to join in a finish fight. "The gambling fraternity has decided to battle the kidnapers to the end," declared one [illegible] last night. "This case will be cleaned up first, however."

Members of the gambling fraternity in collaboration with prosecutors in wiping out kidnap rings was based not merely on Lynch's experience, it was said, but on the realization that the kidnap racket, originated elsewhere, is beginning to find a foothold in the Chicago region.

Another factor, it was reported, was the admission by Lynch to Pat Roche, private investigator for the state's attorney's office, that he overheard his captors discussing plans for the kidnaping of other men. Lynch gave the names of the intended victims to the investigator, it is said. They are reported to be powerful in gambling circles.

Lynch to Visit Bureau.

Lynch rested comfortably at his home in Lake Geneva last night, but was available to only a few visitors, among them Roche. He will visit police headquarters tomorrow at the detective bureau to look over pictures of ex-convicts who are believed to have kidnaped him. Also visiting the bureau will be James Hackett, wealthy Blue Island gambler, who was abducted for ransom last spring. The same mob seized Hackett and Lynch, police believe.

Investigator Roche spent several hours at the Lynch home yesterday. At the same time his men were seeking Al Capone, who was reported to have been the actual go-between, representing Lynch, in the payment of the ransom. Capone, it is said, "double-crossed" Roche in handling the deal, detectives believing that he could transact the deal at a spot where they could catch the kidnapers.

Ransom Demand Raised.

Those close to Lynch remained silent on the reported part of Capone in procuring the turfman's release. They were reticent also as to the payment of ransom, a matter which Lynch denied. However, Benjamin Cohn, his attorney, admitted last night that "Lynch really didn't know whether or not any ransom had been paid." From another source it was learned that the ransom demand had been raised from $50,000 to $75,000 less than five hours before Lynch's release. Originally the demand was for $100,000.

For a few minutes last night a touch of added mystery was given to the Lynch case. That was when Roche and a squad drove to the Lynch home. In the car with them was a man. Reports flew about that he was a prisoner. Later Cohn said that the man was James Regan, an associate of Lynch.

Roche Hidden in Car.

Regan and Roche remained inside the car. When their car drove away only the chauffeur, two detectives, and Regan were seen inside the machine. Roche apparently was missing. A reporter followed the automobile and a short distance out Roche suddenly appeared in the car. He had concealed himself on the floor of the machine for some reason which was not explained.

Late last night more details of the Lynch kidnaping filtered outside. Besides the abduction three men, supposedly members of the kidnap ring, rented a cottage near Pell lake, close to Lake Geneva. They said they would expect two more men. The woman owner of the cottage bombarded them with questions, and the men deserted secretly a short time later. The license number of their car was the same as that on the machine in which Lynch was abducted.

The woman's story, volunteered to Deputy Sheriff Arthur T. Thorson of Walworth county and to Roche, was considered important. She said she could identify the men. Another possible witness may be Herman Lynch, a friend of Lynch. He admitted that a ransom probably had been paid for Lynch's liberation. Prosecutors of the kidnapers, if caught, will be either in Cook or Walworth county. The abduction occurred in Illinois, but subsequent developments occurred in Illinois.

FOUR DAY FETE FOR LINDBERGHS OPENS IN TOKIO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Aug. 28.—[Friday]—The four-day official reception for Col. Lindbergh started today. The Lindberghs arose at 7:30 a. m. The day was sultry, but the colonel left his residence at 9:30 a. m. for the ministry of communications wearing a dark summer suit. He was accompanied by Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes and Count Kabayama.

He was presented with a memento of his visit at the communications office and then called on the ministries of war, navy and foreign affairs, then calling upon Premier Kakatsuki and the mayor of Tokio. At noon he was joined by his wife at the Aviation Society headquarters.

This afternoon Ambassador Forbes will give the Lindberghs a reception at the Tokio club. The ministries of communications and navy will honor the visitors at a banquet tonight.

FATHER'S COURT FIGHT ON SON MEETS FAILURE

A father had his 18 year old son before Judge J. William Brooks in the Boys' court yesterday on the charge that the youth broke a window in the family automobile. The father, Jerry Kolaitis, 956 Harrison street, interpreted the deed as disorderly conduct, and asked that the judge compel the boy to pay for the broken glass.

Nick Kolaitis, the son, has an impediment in his speech and had difficulty explaining that "my father doesn't like me and pushed me through the window. But I'm willing to pay."

Judge Brooks found that the elder Kolaitis could not speak English. "It is too bad," he said, "there are some things I would like to say to you."

He dismissed the case against the boy and sent him to Dr. Deno F. O'Connor, his personal physician, to learn if something could be done for the impediment in the boy's speech.

PASS LOUISIANA BILL TO JAIL COTTON PLANTER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Baton Rouge, La., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—A bill prohibiting the planting, gathering and ginning of cotton in Louisiana next year was passed unanimously today by the house of representatives and sent immediately to the senate where like action is predicted by Gov. Huey P. Long, its sponsor. The measure is contingent on similar bans being proclaimed by states having 75 per cent of the cotton acreage in 1930.

The vote in favor of the bill was made unanimous, 77 to 0, after Representative Stanley McDermott of New Orleans, who had strenuously opposed it, was permitted to change his vote to the affirmative, stating that he did so "to exhibit a united front to the world."

Later the senate agricultural committee unanimously approved the measure as passed by the house. This action assured early consideration of the bill on the senate floor. The senate was not in session late today but will convene again tomorrow morning.

Provides Fine and Jail Term.

The bill, as passed by the house, makes it a misdemeanor for any person, firm or corporation to "plant cotton seed to raise cotton, to gather cotton, and to gin cotton in Louisiana in 1932." The penalty provided for violation of the act is a fine of not less than $100 or more than $500, or imprisonment of not less than 10 days or more than 60 days for each offense.

The bill empowers the state commissioner of agriculture to cause to be destroyed any cotton found growing in 1932. Gov. Long, who was a spectator during the debate in the house, called the action taken "a complete adoption of the resolution of the conference of the cotton growing states of America held in New Orleans last Friday."

Urges Other States to Act.

He further stated that if other governors and legislatures of cotton growing states would take similar action within the next two weeks, cotton would soon be selling at from 15 cents to 20 cents a pound throughout the world.

"With this year's crop, we have on hand in America more than 24 million bales of cotton, enough already to supply next year's demand," he said. "It would be a crime for the legislatures of the cotton growing states to allow this opportunity to restore prosperity to their people to pass."

Egypt Urges World Action.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—(AP)—New efforts to reduce the cotton farmer's surplus crop and fatten his pocketbook came today from domestic and international quarters.

An expression of interest in possible world action to stabilize cotton prices was received from Cairo, Egypt, and at the same time Senator George [Dem., Ga.] arranged a conference of southern senators with the farm board.

Meanwhile attention was directed to Louisiana where the house of representatives approved Gov. Long's bill prohibiting growing cotton next year.

Senator George summoned senators from nine cotton states to meet here tomorrow and canvass the general situation with the board. They will discuss his plan for the payment now by the board of 6 cents a pound and 6 cents in October, 1932, for the cotton of those farmers who contract not to plant next year. Other proposals also will be discussed.

The information from Cairo came to the state department through the American legation there. Egypt produced 1,461,000 bales last year, chiefly long staple. That was a reduction over the last two years. The acreage for this year has been decreased by 19 per cent. Her exports are taken principally by Great Britain.

A formal note containing the Egyptian government's expression was said at the state department to be on its way to Washington.

BOARD OF ASSESSORS GETS ALL THE FACTS FROM THIS TAXPAYER

In only one letter out of 200 received in reply to the 5,000 sent out demanding personal property schedules from taxpayers, has any personal property been listed, Assessor John E. Conroy declared yesterday. The letter said:

"We have never bought, sold, or held any stocks, bonds or other securities during the period of April 1 to June 1, 1931, and it is with extreme pleasure that I furnish you with this information. If we had done any business we would have been in the 'red.' This corporation consists of 1,000 letter heads and 1,000 envelopes in a safe in a loop office.

"Also with pleasure I advise you that in this same safe is some of the finest beer you have ever drunk. And should at any time any member of the board of assessors desire a drink of this beer he may have it with the compliments of the writer."

The assessors refused to disclose the name or address of the concern.

R. O. T. C. Alumni Vote to Organize National Group

At a meeting last night the R.O.T.C. Alumni association of the United States elected a board of governors and voted to incorporate in Illinois as a national nonprofit organization. The association was formed here last June by former cadets of the Chicago high schools. Its purpose is to combat pacifism and the agitation to abolish the R. O. T. C. in the public schools. The governors elected are Brevet Lieutenant O. Howard McCaslin, chairman, and John Bernhart, Fred Schulz, James N. Mantzoro, Lawrence Hopkins, and John Raptis. The service bureau of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is acting as a registration place for former cadets who wish to enroll.

BUSINESS MEN'S POLITICAL MOVE MARS G. O. P. DAY

Dire Forebodings Rule at State Fair Rally.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—Nature and the decision of Illinois business to go into politics on a big scale and on a "we want a change" basis, combined this afternoon to dampen the celebration of Governor's day at the state fair here.

B. W. SNOW. [Acme Photo.]

Just as the program was starting the skies darkened and rain began to fall. The drizzle continued and even the parade of a Chicago special train contingent that reminded observers of the delegations the old city hall machine used to send down for Len Small failed to brighten the atmosphere.

But even earlier in the day the mental gloom around Gov. Louis L. Emmerson had been started at the state house by the filing of incorporation papers for the federation of American business, which is said to represent twenty-five lines of business and industry that have determined to protect themselves against a continuation of present political conditions in the state as well as in the nation.

Many Leaders Not There.

Many of Illinois' biggest Republicans were here today. There also were significant and notable absences.

The application of the Federation of American Business Men for a charter from the secretary of state was closely scrutinized as it went through regular channels.

"To reawaken in the hearts and minds of our people," ran one of these sections, "a genuine wholesome and personal interest in the affairs of our local, state, and national governments, so that able men may be encouraged to serve the government in public office, that a new respect may be created in the minds of the people for law and legislature."

It Sounds Like Trouble.

"Reawaken," "new respect," and other expressions were taken to mean that the new movement is not satisfied with the present situation at Springfield.

Gov. Emmerson issued no statement whether he will be a candidate for a second term and there were no formal announcements from others considered of importance, and it was believed that one factor in the developments from now on will be the program of the business federation.

Snow Active in New Federation.

It was pointed out with interest that among the incorporators of the new organization is B. W. Snow, chairman of the Cook county Republican central committee, whom Emerson is trying to put on the shelf. Snow was not among those present today and has opposed the governor's plan of trying to run Republican politics in Chicago by picking up the discredited elements of the machine that stayed with the last Republican administration until the voters sunk it. It is believed here that Snow, while being that rare thing, a business man active in politics, is the only man listed in today's charter application who understands practical politics. On this theory it is predicted he will be in the inner councils of the business federation when its policies are determined upon.

Other incorporators are Charles A. Wilson, James E. Bennett, William T. Galloway, R. R. Mansfield, Mark W. Bickwell, V. E. Staff, H. B. Godfrey, James A. Coughlin, Edward J. Dies, and J. A. O. Preuss.

The expected evidence of the Emmerson-excity hall alliance was provided by the arrival of the Chicago delegation consisting largely of state employes who, it was said, had been paid their regular day's pay without labor in return for buying their $5 round trip tickets.

Democratic chieftains were laughing yesterday at the boast of Emmerson's Chicago forces that they had rounded up 38 of the 50 members of the Cook county committee. They said they took it for granted that all their own fifty members would be here for Democratic day without urging. But the actual showing of the Chicago Emmersonians was considered disappointing. As nearly as could be counted in the grandstand there were only about thirty Chicago ward committeemen on hand.

Payrollers Are There.

All of these were from the announced Emmerson list headed by Dan Serritella, former city sealer, and including the four committeemen given state jobs during the last week, others promised appointments, and a number who are in charge of the distribution of jobs in their wards.

It was considered more significant that there were big gaps in the list of those who might have called at the governor's box to pay their respects. Among those who missed the celebration were Charles S. Deneen and Roy O. West and their principal followers such as District Attorney G. E. Q. Johnson, State's Attorney John A. Swanson, United States Marshall Laubenheimer and Postmaster Leuder of Chicago.

Another leader of a considerable Republican group, not only in Chicago but downstate as well, was missing. That was Edward J. Brundage, former attorney general. Another of Chicago importance who was not seen was Robert E. Crowe, former state's attorney. Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick was reported to be on her western ranch. Len Small, as had been expected, and the recent Republican mayor of Chicago, were absent.

ROB ICE CREAM MANUFACTURER.

Constantine Giovan, president of the Drexel Ice Cream company, 3000 Shields avenue, was robbed of $400 last evening by three armed men who entered the office while he was alone.

Business Men's Federation Program Outlined by Snow

The Federation of American Business Men, which is seeking an Illinois charter to launch a nation-wide movement next week to "get the federal government out of business," may prove an important political factor in the next presidential campaign, as well as in congressional campaigns.

While it will not foster an independent party and will have no slate of candidates of its own, it will seek pledges from both primary and election candidates for offices in both parties, and will give active support to the candidate who endorses the principles of the organization.

"We will most definitely take a leaf from the political notebook of the Anti-Saloon league," said B. W. Snow, one of the organizers of the federation, yesterday. "Our methods of operation will not be worked out until next week, but they will be nonpartisan, much as the methods of the American Federation of Labor, seeking our ends with candidates of both parties, supporting those who support us.

Communism vs. Individualism.

"Things are coming to a point in this country where there must be a showdown between those schools of thought which advocate on the one hand the doctrines of communism and those who still hold to the American system, individual liberty as citizens and individualism in industry.

"Government competition with business is responsible in a large measure for the present depression and the financial uncertainty that clouds this country. Private capital is being withdrawn from business because of the fear of competition with tax moneys collected for governmental operation. This money is being hoarded in safe deposit vaults or put into nonproductive governmental securities. This affects not only industry but the welfare of all those who have invested in bonds and stocks and mortgages, all who hold insurance.

"We propose to force the government out of the business and industries which it has invaded. We recognize the right of government to regulate the conduct of commerce and business to the extent necessary to insure the security of citizens, but we denounce government competition with its citizens as subversive of the liberty and welfare of its people."

Quotes Coolidge and Hoover.

In its declaration of principles the new organization calls attention to comments by President Hoover, former President Coolidge, and others. While President Hoover's theories of American individualism are sound, according to the sponsors of the federation, many of the activities of his administration, such as the farm board, are just what the organization desires to get rid of. They will operate politically to bend congress to cripple or cast aside such boards. How this antagonism to Hoover acts will work out in the next campaign remains to be seen. A recent comment by Mr. Coolidge formulates exactly the attitude of the business men toward these matters. This follows:

"When the government goes into business it lays a tax on everybody else in that business and uses the money that it collects from its competitors to establish a monopoly and drive them out of business. No one can complete. When the government really starts into a line of business, that door of opportunity is closed to the people. It has always been an American ideal that the door of opportunity should remain open."

The proposed organization structure of the federation, which is now being actively promoted in twelve states, includes a national council and state councils, tapering down into precinct leadership and membership. There is to be a national headquarters, with departments of coördination, organization, education, research, speakers, and legislative.

INCOME, LUXURY TAX PLAN GIVEN TO REVENUE BODY

"Permanent Relief" Seen in Proposal.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

An ambitious program of "permanent relief" from the financial difficulties of the local and state governments, of which the big feature is an income tax, was presented to the governor's revenue commission last night at its session in the Union League club.

The text of the report was not given out, but it is said to have been signed by the three members of the subcommittee—Earl Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural association; George F. Nixon, real estate operator, and Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank.

Luxury Sales Tax Proposed.

In addition to the recommended state income tax, it was also proposed that a consumption tax or sales tax on luxuries be inaugurated. From these two new taxes it was roughly estimated, without any thorough investigation, that $60,000,000 could be obtained in normal and in prosperous times, and possibly $40,000,000 under present conditions, according to the gossip relative to the report.

It is said that the plan outlines a scheme by which this estimated $60,000,000 could be taken off real estate taxes, but the legality of the scheme will probably be passed upon by other attorneys before the tax plan is presented to the public. The designers of the income tax plan, supplemented by other new taxes, are said to have estimated that this plan will take from a fourth to a third of the burden off real estate.

Relief for Real Estate.

It is understood that the governor's commission feels that real estate should be given substantial relief. City real estate interests urged the commission to recommend legislation which would fund the 1930 taxes, because they claimed thousands of owners haven't the money with which to pay. The commission turned down that idea as "impossible" for the 1929 or 1930 taxes. The proposed income tax, as an offset for real estate taxes, it is thought will counteract alleged ill feeling of real estate against the commission.

Representatives of real estate groups have told a representative of THE TRIBUNE that they are not only "sore" about the attitude of the commission, but also offended because of the method by which the commission works. They think that when a definite proposal by a subcommittee for legislation is presented the people who will pay the taxes under the plan should have the privilege of reading what is proposed before the commission members are definitely committed for or against it.

Urges Cut in Expenses.

In addition to the income and supplemental taxes proposed last night it is said that the report urges a substantial cut in governmental expenditures, a reduction in the cost of financing, and education of the public to prevail upon it to pay taxes regularly, as in days gone by. Cutting the high cost of government appeared to be a policy of the governor's commission, until Chairman Joseph K. Brittain as chief interrogator eased up in the number of pointed questions asked of the south and Lincoln park boards.

The commission devoted considerable time to a discussion of the income and luxury tax scheme, but did not arrive at the point where it was ready to take a vote.

Some of the members wanted to be certain that the income tax would not be "just another tax"—an added tax; and others wanted an income tax—if at all—which would not be a double tax, especially on the wage owner who is buying his own home.

On the luxury tax there was much conversation on what should be classed as a luxury for the purposes of the tax. After many suggestions had been made one member asked how much in taxes could be obtained from the sales tax on the list suggested. It then developed that the commission appeared to need more information on the amount of sales of each listed luxury.

COUNTY'S RICH TO BE CALLED IN DRIVE FOR TAXE

Board Seeks Persona Data of 500 Citizens

JOHN R. CON

Cook county's 500 wealthiest men will be called before the board of assessors in a new drive to put personal property on the tax books, Assessor John E. Conroy, secretary of the board, announced yesterday.

At the same time he said that the assessors will engage as an adviser in personal property matters Attorney John Voigt of Charleston, Ill. In 1905, he said, Voigt was so successful in a campaign to get personal property on the assessment rolls in Coles county that that year Coles county, with a population of 70,000, had three times as much personal property listed as Cook county.

How Plan Will Function.

The plan of calling in wealthy men follows a method used by Voigt. They will be asked to file personal property schedules commensurate with their wealth. If they refuse, their schedules are considered too low, Conroy said, the board will proceed to make its own assessments on the basis of the listing given the citizen by such national credit information agencies as Dun's and Bradstreet.

The first 500 persons called will only a start, he said. Other wealthy citizens will be summoned later.

Demands Court Order.

Although the county board on Monday granted the board of assessors $115,000 and the board of review $25,000 in emergency appropriations which the two bodies asserted were necessary to complete their work this year, the money will not be paid out unless a court so orders.

Michael J. O'Connor, deputy county controller, who warned the commissioners when they made the appropriations that they were illegal because the county has no funds in sight with which to meet them, yesterday reiterated his refusal to pay unless forced to do so by mandamus proceedings.

Supported by Attorney.

He found an ally in Thomas Nash, attorney for County Treasurer McDonough, who declared that under present budgetary laws the treasurer cannot pay out any money for appropriations such as were made by the board.

"If mandamus proceedings are instituted," Attorney Nash said, "I only part in the proceedings will be to refer the law to the court. Perhaps I will be able to glean a different meaning from the law than we do. However, he will order the county treasurer to pay the approved bills."

HENRY E. AYERS.

The grand jury was reported to have voted a true bill late yesterday afternoon against a prominent Chicago ex-banker or group of ex-bank officials in the investigation of the Cook county banking situation ordered by State's Attorney Swanson. The true bill, according to reports at the Criminal court building, charges embezzlement.

The action followed the presentation of special evidence of secret witnesses by Assistant State's Attorneys Henry E. Ayers and Leonard Rice, who are in charge of the investigation. The identity of the person or persons named and the bank involved, were ordered withheld until arrests are in charge of the investigation.

Shroud Case in Secrecy.

The secrecy in the case was prompted by the experience of the state's attorney's office last September when true bills were voted against Roscoe H. H. Luckenbill, president of the defunct Exchange State bank, and four officials on charges of embezzlement. Luckenbill has escaped arrest.

In a four hour session dealing with bank conditions the jury heard eleven witnesses tell about the affairs of six more closed banks. Prosecutor Ayers asked the grand jury to recess the investigation for a day, as he is preparing specific evidence against two banks which he will present tomorrow.

Witnesses in Bank Probe.

Joseph P. Savage, school board trustee and attorney for the receiver and the bond holders' protective committee of the Garfield Park State bank, testified before the grand jury. Early in the week Savage charged that books and records of the bank were missing. John E. Sullivan, receiver for the bank, and Gertrude Shields, clerk in charge of the missing files, were other witnesses. Miss Shields is said to have testified that the records were in the bank when she left the bank after it was closed.

In the investigation of the Crawford State Savings bank, Henry R. Otte and William J. Rathke, receivers, were witnesses. Edwin Patterson, paying teller of the Berwyn State bank, was another witness. Frank Murphy, receiver for the Citizens Trust and Savings bank, was questioned.

Francis L. Boutell, attorney for Lazarus Krinsley, receiver for the Fullerton State bank, and Mr. Krinsley testified concerning the affairs of the bank. Thomas P. Roberts, as receiver for the West Town State bank, was the last witness heard. He is said to have reported that the bank expects to reimburse depositors in full.

Seek to Aid Depositors.

The recently organized United Depositors' association has invited leaders of finance, commerce, and industry to attend a closed meeting at the Association of Commerce this afternoon to formulate a coördinated plan of aiding depositors of closed banks. The appeal was made in letters sent to the Clearing House association, Chicago Real Estate board, Chicago Bar association, State Street Merchants' association, Chicago Federation of Labor, Samuel Insull, the executive committees of the Circuit and Superior courts, and Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court.

Tentative proposals to be submitted at the meeting were appended to the letter. These include plans for the pooling of undefaulted bonds, mortgages and other assets, totaling $40,000,000, and issuance of depositors' certificates for interest in the banks, control of liquidation of other assets, resignation of receivers from control of $12,000,000 tied up in trusts at Springfield; immediate distribution of $15,000,000 in cash on hand, simplification of court procedure, legal work and sharing of expenses, suitable machinery for criminal investigation.

U. S. PERMIT IS GIVEN FOR WORK ON OUTER BRIDGE

The last official obstacle in the way of completing the outer boulevard bridge was removed yesterday with the granting of a permit by the war department at Washington authorizing the construction of a bulkhead on the south side of the Chicago river. Contracts probably will be let in October and work started not later than November, according to Linn White, chief engineer of the south parks.

The war department permit provides for straightening of the south bank of the river and the construction of a bulkhead from a point just east of the new bridge west to the intersection of the projected extension of Wacker drive and the new Field boulevard. Construction of the bulkhead is to cost $200,000, according to Mr. White, to be shared jointly by the Illinois Central railway and the south parks. The permit also provides for the reconstruction of docks along the south bank of the river.

TITLED AVIATOR REPORTED LOST IN CHINA SAFE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 27.—Viscomte de Sibour, who has been reported lost since he took off from Peiping on Aug. 8 for an airplane flight to Nanking, is safe. It is said that news of his safe arrival reached London shortly after he disappeared, and friends and relatives have been in communication with him ever since.

De Sibour's disappearance occurred shortly after he and his wife, the former Violette Selfridge, daughter of Gordon Selfridge, London department store owner, arrived in Peiping by airplane from Paris.

De Sibour hopped off for Nanking with the intention of bringing British Minister Sir Miles Lampson back to Peiping for a visit and seemingly disappeared.

CAR FERRY CHIEF TO RETIRE.

Manitowoc, Wis., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—W. L. Mercereau, general superintendent in charge of car ferries of the Pere Marquette Steamship company, is to retire Sept. 1, it was announced today by the company.

SPRAGUE WARNS CITY'S DRIVERS TO STOP STRIKE

Threatens Action Before Civil Service Board.

Commissioner of Public Works Sprague took action yesterday to end the strike of city garbage wagon drivers and chauffeurs, which, he charged, constitutes a menace to the city's health.

A. A. SPRAGUE.

He sent letters to all of the striking employés ordering them to return to work or face proceedings to deprive them of their ratings and seniority on the civil service lists.

He asked Assistant State's Attorney Charles E. Lounsbury, head of the racket bureau of the state's attorney's office, to conduct an investigation with a view to determining whether leaders of the union can be indicted for conspiracy against the public health. Lounsbury assured him that he believed there was enough evidence to justify grand jury action.

Warning to Strikers.

Commissioner Sprague said that if the striking men do not return to work, steps will be taken at once to break the strike. This will be done, he said, either by advertising for strikebreakers or by letting contracts for garbage removal to private parties.

The letters threatening action before the civil service commission were sent to 117 chauffeurs, 109 helpers, and 300 teamsters, all members of the Sanitary Teamsters and Chauffeurs' union, who walked out on Wednesday in an effort to enforce their demand fo ra minimum of five days' work each week. They had been working four days.

The union chauffeurs of the seventy-nine private trucks hired by the city for removal of garbage and refuse, although they are also on strike, are not affected by the threat of civil service action, since they are paid by the owners of the trucks.

Commissioner Sprague replied to the charge of Fred Sass, secretary of the union, that the city hall administration refused to cut down the number of private trucks employed and use idle city equipment, a move which Sass said would provide sufficient funds to give the union members five days' work a week.

"We have ten tractors idle at present," Commissioner Sprague said, "and a sufficient number of trailers to use with them. But those trailers have to be hauled down alleys by teams on their trips to pick up garbage, and we haven't the teams. We have not been neglectful of that situation in this office."

Stresses Peril to Health.

The necessity of laying off 1,200 city street cleaners because of the lack of trucks to haul away the refuse which they collect will further complicate the health situation, the commissioner said.

"This strike," he said, "is clearly a case of conspiracy against the public health. I am going to ask Mr. Hornstein if it is not possible to obtain indictments against those responsible for it."

Informed of Commissioner Sprague's statements, T. J. Keegan, recording secretary of the union, said:

"We will call Sprague's bluff. He's got nothing on us. We didn't call the strike. It was decided upon by a vote of the members at their regular meeting.

"If Sprague puts on nonunion men we will ask every union which has city employés among its members to declare a sympathetic strike."

MAMMOTH DO-X IN GOTHAM WITH 53 PASSENGERS

Biggest Airplane Lands from Norfolk.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 27.—[Special.]—The mighty DO-X, largest heavier than air sky cruiser in the world, came to New York today, ten months out of Friedrichshafen. The giant German flying laboratory, which had crossed the South Atlantic, touched four continents, and weathered fire and storms, appeared little the worse for wear as she settled gracefully on the waters of the harbor to discharge the 53 passengers who had made the last lap of the flight, a three hour journey from Norfolk.

LIEUT. CLARENCE SCHIDRAUER.
[Acme Photo.]

The drumming of her twelve huge motors rose above the roar of welcome from the 15,000 crowded into Battery park. Tiny speedboats shot out to bring the passengers and crew of 17 ashore, as a dozen airplanes circled above the big flying boat like sparrows teasing a hawk.

Roars Up the Hudson.

It was 12:36 p. m. when the silver winged DO-X coasted to a jarless landing. For half an hour she had roared up the Hudson, past the new George Washington bridge, and back along the Jersey shore. There was a brief ceremony at pier A and interviews in which passengers told of four couples dancing for an hour in the cabin as the ship sped up the coast line and Horst Morz, German ministry of commerce observer, played his concertina.

Then the crew returned to the DO-X, forty-six guests, among them your correspondent, boarded the ship and she rose easily from the water and raced toward North Beach airport, where she was anchored for her stay in New York.

Reception Set for Today.

Capt. Fritz W. Hammer said no definite plans had been made for the return trip to Germany. The ship will be inspected tomorrow after the officers and crew have been given an official reception by the city.

In her flight up the Hudson and later up East river to North beach, the DO-X flew at a few hundred feet altitude and those on the ground could see the passengers through the portholes.

The harbor was alive with tugs, ferryboats, excursion steamers, and yachts. Only one occasion for alarm arose.

The DO-X has flown approximately 30,000 miles since she was built in 1929 and her present journey represents a 12,500 mile voyage. None of the passengers who started from Germany almost a year ago made the complete trip. Only the crew saw the voyage through.

Designer's Son Aboard.

Dr. Claude Dornier, designer and builder of the plane, was not aboard, but his son, Maurice Dornier, was a passenger and Paul Brener acted as the designer's personal representative. Lieut. Clarence Schildhauer of the United States navy, who made the voyage as guest pilot, was enthusiastic about the DO-X.

The trip from the bay to North beach was a delightful experience. The huge sea boat rose without any great effort and with considerably less bumpy sensation than one experiences aboard a full sized yacht. There is a minimum of vibration and conversation is possible without shouting, as the motors are high above the passenger cabin. The DO-X was very steady in flight, even in the bumpy air this afternoon. The cabins were surprisingly quiet, too.

Rudolf Cramer von Clausbruch, one of the pilots of the DO-X and the one who set her down on the bay, intimated that the big ship might stay permanently in New York.

DIVORCEE SUES WIDOWER OF 60; SEEKS $50,000

The praecipe of a suit asking $50,000 from P. J. Peterson, 60 years old, 1009 Vine street, Winnetka, was filed in the Circuit court yesterday by Mrs. Florence Kramer, 45 years old, 3817 Fullerton avenue.

Attorney Irving Eisenman, who represents Mrs. Kramer, said that Peterson had been her suitor for fourteen years. When the two first met, according to the attorney, Mrs. Kramer was married, but she obtained a divorce after listening to the pleadings of Peterson. Later, however, Peterson, a widower, refused to marry her, although he had often promised to do this before the divorce, Eisenman said. Mrs. Kramer has an 18 year old daughter.

Ted Newberry Is Freed from Charge of Vagrancy

Ted Newberry, reputed north side gang chief, was dismissed by Judge Theodore Ehler in the Felony court yesterday when he was arraigned on a charge of vagrancy. The vagrancy warrant was served on Newberry when he appeared in the federal court recently on a liquor charge. Assistant State's Attorney Frank Mast told Judge Ehler that he had no evidence of vagrancy against Newberry and asked that the charge be nol-prossed.

INSURANCE TAX TO CITY DROPS, MAYOR IS TOLD

Collections from two sources of the city's miscellaneous revenue have fallen off $131,704 so far this year, as compared with collections in the same period last year, and indications are that the loss for the whole year will be still greater, Controller Szymczak reported to Mayor Cermak yesterday.

The collections were the 2 per cent tax imposed by state law on all premiums paid in Chicago to foreign insurance companies and the payment by the Commonwealth Edison company of 3 per cent of its gross receipts as compensation to the city.

Insurance tax collections so far this year were $255,593, as compared to $345,596 in the same period in 1930. compensation payments fell to $2,468,. The Commonwealth Edison company's compensation payments fell to $2,468,789 to date this year as compared to $2,510,500 in the same period last year.

SCIENCE calls them papillae—those thousands of clusters of sensitive taste-buds on your tongue.

Your papillae ... when functioning properly, give flavor, zest to your cigarette—your food.

Like other parts of your body, they become tired by over use ...

So when everything goes tasteless—look to your papillae! They probably need refreshing.

Care for your taste-buds, your papillae. Care for them by avoiding dry mouth, a condition of recognized prevalence.

If you enjoy smoking a lot—and who doesn't!—chew Wrigley's frequently. Wrigley's between smokes, by stimulating a free flow of saliva, keeps the taste-buds moist and fresh and definitely relieves dry mouth. Thus, scientists say, the sensation of taste is intensified.

If you'd like more enjoyment of your cigarette and your food, keener appetite and better digestion, chew Wrigley's regularly between smokes and between meals.

At the cigar stand, take your change in Wrigley's.

Wrigley's JUICY FRUIT—the delicious fruity flavor that you get alone in Wrigley's Juicy Fruit. There is only one Juicy Fruit Gum. There is nothing that is even nearly like its rich, full fruity flavor. If you have never tried Wrigley's Juicy Fruit, you have missed a real taste treat! Your cigar counter carries it—buy a package the next time you stop for your smokes

MOTHER FRANTIC AS BABY SUFFERS FROM ECZEMA

Resinol heals him quickly

"When my baby was a few weeks old eczema broke out on his body. I tried various treatments but none of them seemed to give him any relief. He only grew worse and cried all the time. I was almost frantic. A friend of Mother's suggested Resinol Ointment. I got a jar and in about a week's time the improvement was amazing." Doolittle holds the American speed record with 245 miles an hour in a seaplane in 1925, although there is some dispute about that, as Lieut. Alford J. Williams is credited in some records with 266 miles an hour in a seaplane. In 1929 a British supermarine Rolls-Royce seaplane was driven by Lieut. Augustus H. Orlebar 357.8 miles an hour the day after the Schneider cup races. Maj. de Bernati drove an Italian seaplane at the rate of 318 miles an hour in the Schneider races. The best time for a land plane was made in France, when a ship was driven at the rate of 278.4 miles an hour.

894 AIRPLANES IN MOCK BATTLE AT ITALIAN CITY

Spezia Is "Destroyed" During War Game.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Aug. 27.—King Victor Emmanuel, Premier Mussolini, cabinet ministers, and high army officials early this morning watched enemy air raiders completely "destroy" Spezia, Italy's most important fortified naval base. The attack and bombardment, however, was only part of the aerial war games which began today. The raiders were part of the Italian army, designated as "party B" to represent an enemy.

Other interested spectators, who left their beds at 2 a. m. to watch the spectacle, were citizens of Spezia, who remember two real raids made by Austrians during the war.

Mussolini Flies to City.

Premier Mussolini flew to Spezia last night in a hydroplane piloted by Gen. Italo Balbo. At 11 p. m. all traffic in Spezia was halted, and at 1 a. m., the first signal of the approaching raid was given by screeching sirens. Immediately all electricity was shut off throughout the area, and the city and nearby areas were darkened, as in actual wartime. At 2 a. m. the first roar of motors was heard as the attacking force, composed of 496 planes, reached their destination. The giant bombers flew at a high altitude, guarded by small pursuit planes.

A force of 398 defending planes roared into the sky to meet them, and within a few minutes a terrific "battle," was being waged high in the sky. So bright was the moonlight that spectators were able to follow all movements of the planes.

The attacking group dropped many bombs, each illuminated, so observers could trace their course and gauge the accuracy of the aviators' aim. Meanwhile the small fighting ships whirled and swooped through the air in mock battle as the defending force sought vainly to prevent the "destruction" of the city.

The judges later decided that the attackers had destroyed the arsenal and railway station, laid the town half in ruins, and had forced the fleet, anchored in Spezia bay, to take to the open sea for safety. They also decided that half the population had been killed by gas bombs.

On the other side of the peninsula fifty airplanes at dawn carried out a mimic bombing raid on Ancona, dropping 300 paper bombs.

France Shows Air Defense.

A smoke screen hid the industrial center of Pompey, near here, with such great success that reconnaissance planes were unable even to photograph the factories.

The first day of a three day demonstration of land and air forces on France's eastern frontier also included an experiment in stretching wires from six captive balloons to hinder the passage of possible enemy squadrons flying in the direction of Nancy or Toul along the valleys of the Meurthe and Moselle.

FRANCE CREATES SEPARATE BOARD OF AIR STRATEGY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 27.—That tremendous stress is being placed on aviation by French military authorities was demonstrated today when the cabinet voted to create a supreme aerial board of strategy, similar to the superior army council. Five general aviation corps divisions were also created.

This decision definitely establishes an autonomous air army, but at the same time it insures a closer liaison of the ministries of the army and navy, following the Italian formula.

Marshal Petain has been appointed to the aerial council and his work on the special mission for organizing the country's aerial defense remains distinct.

CLEVELAND WILL OPEN NATIONAL AIR MEET TODAY

Noted Pilots to Compete for Prizes.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—While the number of world famous pilots here is increasing hour by hour, in anticipation of the opening of the eleventh national air aces tomorrow night, so is the atmosphere of intense secrecy as mechanics assemble new types of speed planes in locked hangars.

Spirited competition for $30,000 in prizes for the two big speed events is forecast by the light chit chat that passes from one speed polit to another—little if anything is said of planes and less is said about the the important characteristics of the entries in the speed races.

Word has been received the commander of the DO-X plans to bring his 50 ton flying boat to the races. Meanwhile, completion of the new U. S. S. Akron is being rushed in order to have the navy's best in the air above Cleveland.

Four foreign aces, Lieut. Col. Mario di Bernardi, Italy; Flight Commander R. L. R. Atcherly, Great Britain; Capt. Boleslaw Orlinski, Poland, and Maj. Alois Kubita, Czecho-Slovakia, are grooming their planes. Lieut. Al Williams, famous navy flyer, flew in this afternoon after sitting in a wet cornfield all night. Maj. Ernest Udet, German war ace credited with sixty-two planes, will fly in the morning from New York.

Amelia Earhart Putnam has announced she will race in her Lockheed Vega as well as demonstrate her autogyro. Lee Schoenhair is ready to test his Sweet Kiss, Thompson trophy race entry.

LANDIS NAMES PEORIA MAN TO AIR BODY POST

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Elwood Cole of Peoria was today appointed secretary of the Illinois aeronautics commission by Maj. Reed Landis of Chicago, the commission chairman. Offices will be maintained in this city and Chicago.

Cole received his aviation training in the navy during the war. In making the appointment, Maj. Landis announced the division of the state into four districts, to be supervised by one or more commissioners.

Find Police Killing of War Veteran Justifiable

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of justifiable homicide at the inquest into the fatal shooting by police of Harold B. Young, 36 years old, a world war veteran living in Fairview. Young was shot when he resisted arrest with a hatchet after being chased five miles in his automobile.

Charges Mate Is Jealous and Hides All His Money

Mrs. Hattie Miner, 5855 Magnolia avenue, filed a suit for separate maintenance in the Superior court yesterday against her husband, Joseph, charging he had hallucinations which caused him to be jealous of her and to hide all his money. She also asked an injunction to restrain him from disposing of property valued at $150,000. The suit was filed by Attorney Albert Sabath. Miner is the head of a furrier's concern at 195 North Wabash avenue. The Miners were married in 1913. They have four children.

FRELINGHUYSEN $10,000 NOT IN CANNON'S LIST

Never Reported in Anti-Smith Campaign.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—Nineteen "pipe lines"—to employ the description read into the records of the senatorial campaign funds committee today by Senator Dill of Washington—carried the funds handled by Bishop James Cannon Jr. between eight accounts in five banks.

SEN. C. C. DILL. [Acme Photo.]

In all, during the latter part of 1928 and the early part of 1929, there was transferred $137,670 from account to account in a criss cross of deposits and withdrawals. In the end, however, according to the testimony of Basil Manly, committee investigator they "had a way of pouring a considerable amount of the money entrusted to the bishop for political purposes into the bishop's personal accounts."

The sum of $8,000 given to Bishop Cannon by E. C. Jameson, New York insurance man, as a contribution to the anti-Smith campaign in the South had been "definitely identified," said Manly, as having gone to purchase a certificate of deposit from the First National Bank of Blackstone, Va., in the name of James Cannon Jr.

Had Republican Backing.

With Mr. Jameson himself on the stand, and with Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], personal and political friend of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, an interested questioner and listener, the committee learned that the anti-Smith campaign in the south headed by Bishop Cannon had active Republican backing.

Mr. Jameson told of talks with former Senator Joseph S. Freylinghuysen of New Jersey and C. Bascom Slemp, Republican committeeman from Virginia and former secretary to President Coolidge, in which they told him of their plans for an independent organization. He told of letters to James W. Good, western manager of the Hoover campaign, and of a talk with Hubert F. Work, national committee chairman.

He asserted they did not wish to appear personally in support of a dry Democratic drive to beat Smith.

"They passed the buck to Slemp," he said. "It was a question of political ethics."

Frelinghuysen Gave $10,000.

It was Senator Frelinghuysen who introduced Jameson to Slemp, the committee learned, and Slemp, who brought about Jameson's meeting with Bishop Cannon. Senator Frelinghuysen himself contributed $10,000 to the bishop's anti-Smith Democratic committee, the evidence showed. This sum, it was testified, was never officially reported. Manly, the committee's investigator, said that neither Frelinghuysen nor the anti-Smith committee reported this contribution.

The greater part of the day was devoted, however, not to the political angles of the case but to the bishop's tangled accounts.

Yardstick in hand, Investigator Manly stood before an easel and flipped the huge sheets of brown paper on which were written the records of the bishop's transactions. It was one of these exhibits — eight squares representing the various accounts, with pathways connecting them to show the routes and amounts of the transfers—that inspired Senator Dill's "pipe line" terminology.

Uses Yardstick.

Out of $68,717.54 deposited in what Investigator Manly called "political accounts" maintained by Bishop Cannon in the former Continental Trust company of Washington, $28,278, according to the tracings of Mr. Manly's yardstick, eventually went into "personal accounts" or was placed to the bishop's credit on certificates of deposit, or was used to curtail his personal note.

Only $22,544.30, the investigator's figures showed, went to the anti-Smith Democrat account in the American National Bank of Richmond. And $17,895.24, said Manly, could not be accounted for.

Tinkham Charges Recalled.

Of the $65,300 given Bishop Cannon by Mr. Jameson, and which Representative George H. Tinkham [Rep., Mass.] charged the bishop had diverted to personal ends, $29,750 went into the "political accounts" in the Continental Trust company, Mr. Manly testified.

The $8,000 used to purchase the certificate of deposit was part of that sum. Much of the remainder, Mr. Manly intimated, followed a somewhat similar route. At least, he showed large checks went into Bishop Cannon's account in Richmond a day or so after the Jameson contributions had been deposited in Washington. Previous to the deposit of the Jameson money the Washington account was less than the sums subsequently sent to Richmond.

"It is not proved," Investigator Manly admitted, "but there is a logical inference that it was the Jameson money which was so transferred."

CLEANER CAUSES CAPTURE OF ACID VANDAL SUSPECT

Albert Westcott, 30 years old, 4447 Greenwood avenue, was arrested yesterday after David Iacone, manager of one of the seven Checker Cleaners shops, which were visited by acid throwers on Aug. 14, had seen him on the street and informed police that he was one of the terrorists.

When he saw Westcott, Iacone, who manages a Checker shop at 1030 East 63th street, telephoned police and then followed Westcott until he sighted a detective squad which had been directed by radio to go to Cottage Grove avenue and 47th street and make the arrest. Later five other employés of Checker shops identified Westcott as an acid thrower.

He denied the charges, stating that he was a laborer and had no connection with the cleaners and dyers' affairs. He had no police record.

SENT TO ELGIN HOSPITAL.

Charges of disorderly conduct against John Fadden, 54 years old, 3010 North Karlov avenue, who threatened to kill himself unless his night school teacher, Miss Margaret Gerrity, 35 years old, 921 Wolfram street, married him, were dismissed yesterday by Judge Thomas A. Green. Fadden has been committed to the Elgin State hospital.

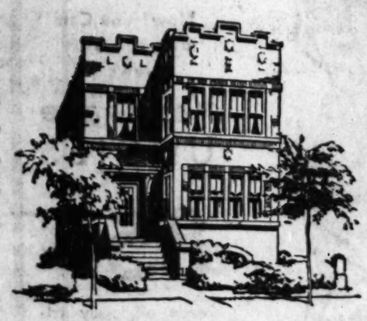
COAL ‡ HEAT ‡ COSTS ‡ LESS

To make coal heat cost even less

CLEAN your heating plant



It has been estimated that it costs $1207.20 less every five years to heat this building at 6645 South Richmond with coal than with the next most economical fuel. To enjoy in your own home proportional savings with coal, keep your heating plant clean and in good repair.

NEXT winter one thing can run your heating bill up quicker than a month of sub-zero weather . . . that is soot on your furnace fire box or the plates and tubes of your boiler.

This is true no matter what fuel you burn . . . and no matter how slight that film of soot may be. When the film is as imperceptible as one-thirty-second of an inch thick it causes a ten per cent loss in heating efficiency; as it increases in thickness, there is a corresponding increase in fuel waste.

To keep your heating plant free from this soot film costs only a few dollars. As you can readily see, to let the soot accumulate costs many, many dollars.

Your coal merchant, if he is a member of the Chicago Coal Merchants Association, will gladly look over your plant for you and tell you whether or not it needs cleaning. His expert advice will cost you nothing. This is simply one of the ways in which he is trying to help you save money on your heating bills.

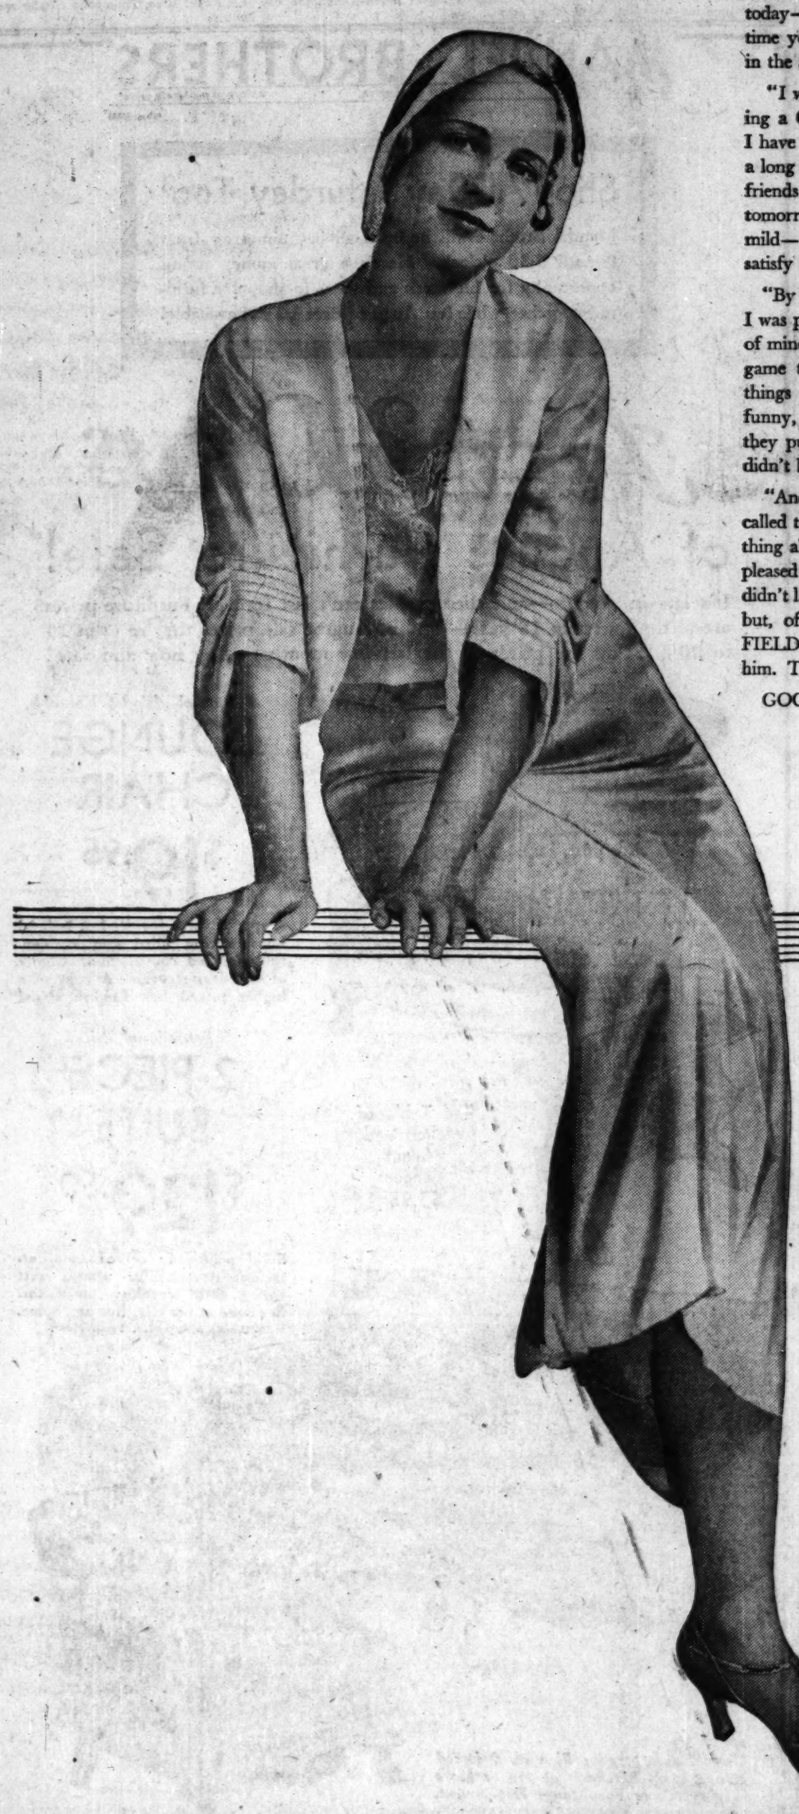
"I'm older than you think I am . . .



"BUT I remember some of the things that I heard when I was younger.

"I was told to watch out for one of those so-called friends who is so mighty glad to see you today—almost going to hug you; and the next time you see her, is holding her head high up in the air and won't even speak to you.

"I was thinking about this while I was enjoying a CHESTERFIELD cigarette. You know, I have been smoking CHESTERFIELDS quite a long time, and they are not like some of our friends—one thing today and another thing tomorrow. They are always the same—always mild—always so pleasing in taste. They just satisfy all the time.

"By the way, that reminds me of something. I was playing bridge recently with a girl friend of mine and two men, and after we finished the game they began lambasting a whole lot of things and folks. Some of the talk was right funny, you couldn't help laughing; but, really, they pulled down a whole lot of things, and didn't build up anything.

"And that reminded me of a salesman who called to see me the other day to tell me something about CHESTERFIELD. The thing that pleased me more than anything else was that he didn't lambast and cuss out any other cigarette; but, of course, he thought that CHESTERFIELD was the best . . . And I rather agree with him. They do satisfy."

GOOD . . . they've got to be good!

LD RIDE OVER N ROAD SAVES DAY FOR GANDHI

to Catches Train on Way to Conference.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SIMLA, India, Aug. 27.—Mahatma Gandhi, India's Nationalist leader, took a ceremonial bath today, repeated a sacred litany 1,008 times and, garbed in a thin, wispy shawl and loin cloth, made a wild dash from his little hut in the Himalayas through 100 miles of twisting and dangerous road to the railroad station at Kalka. He caught the frontier express for Bombay, where he will embark Saturday morning for London and the round table conference.

MAHATMA GANDHI

Today was "purification day," so Gandhi cleansed himself of sin through the ceremonial bath. The litany he chanted on behalf of his followers, and to keep them at peace during his absence. The wild night ride he made because otherwise he would not reach Bombay in time for the ship, and therefore would, after all, miss the round table conference.

Night motoring is strictly forbidden on the stretch of rough and dangerous road used by the mahatma, but that fact did not deter him. He had just two hours to drive 100 miles, and he had only a small car in which to do it. He whizzed around sharp turns and roared past startled sentries without slackening speed, his few remaining teeth chattering at every bump, but he was on time when the train departed, with a few minutes to spare.

His shawl appeared somewhat disarranged when he climbed out of the driver, and his bald head was glistening in the moonlight as he climbed aboard. A small group of adherents were present as he ended his dash, and as the train bore him away they beat the track and shouted, "Long live our savior!"

It was announced today that an agreement had been reached between the government of India and the Nationalist congress on points of the bald "peace" pact.

WOMAN AND BOOMER FREED.

Charges of disorderly conduct against Mrs. Rose Lowen, 35 years old, 10212 Lowe ave., mother of two children, and Melvin Grigsby, 21 years old, a roomer, were ordered by Judge Donald B. McKinley yesterday when the woman's husband, Emil, could not be prosecuted.

U. S. AND PARIS GRANT BRITAIN BIG 'CRISIS' LOAN

House of Morgan Comes to Rescue.

ver down, unless the British treasury wishes to continue to avail itself of the same volume of credit, in which event new bills will be issued to replace the maturities. In this manner the credit can be kept revolving.

In 1925 credit was opened in connection with the return of Great Britain to the gold standard and was contemporaneous with a $200,000,000 gold credit opened by the Federal Reserve banks in favor of the Bank of England. Neither the British treasury nor the Bank of England ever drew upon the credits obtained at that time. It is expected, however, that the British government will want to utilize a portion of the credit now under discussion.

Respond to Plea.

The proposed credit is expected to be participated in by a syndicate embracing the leading banks in New York and throughout the country. Tentative inquiries on behalf of the British government as to whether this market would be prepared to advance a credit have met with a favorable response, not merely from New York banks, but from important banks in other sections of the country who were sounded out by New York financiers.

The French portion of the credit is expected to be approximately equivalent to the American portion, but it may take a slightly different form. It is possible, bankers here suggested, that the French banks may wish to offer some of the bills to the public. The American banks are expected to retain whatever bills they receive through the operation of the credit for their own investments.

Precisely what use the British government will make of the funds placed at its disposal by the credit bankers here did not state. It is presumed that the money will be employed to protect sterling exchange.

Rush to France by Air.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 27.—Having found the original $250,000,000 credit recently accorded her by American and French banking groups insufficient to bolster her tottering finances, Great Britain is asking for another huge credit grant from the United States and France, the ministry of the finance announced in an official communique tonight.

Sir Frederick Leith Ross of the British treasury, accompanied by a representative of the Bank of England, arrived by airplane from London today. They conferred with French bankers all day and an agreement embodying their request for more money is expected to be reached tomorrow.

No official figure is mentioned, but it is reported to be $400,000,000 on a long term credit, half of it to be floated in New York and half in Paris.

Expect Announcement Today.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Aug. 27.—Following discussions in New York and Paris, an announcement is expected tomorrow of an international credit for Britain similar to the credit arranged in 1925. New York bankers, it is said, have agreed to give Britain a new short-term credit of at least $300,000,000.

This credit, which is taken here as fresh evidence of the United States' confidence in the new national government, will, it is said, be furnished by the Morgan group and be established before parliament meets Sept. 8. The loan was hinted by Prime Minister MacDonald in a speech broadcast Tuesday.

Although details of the transaction are a closely guarded secret, financial quarters in London were full of rumors tonight. It is said the loan will have no direct relation to the proposed war loan conversion, though the existence of the loan will make the situation easier for the conversion scheme on which Chancellor of the Exchequer Snowden has set his heart.

Hoover O. K.'s Loan, Report.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—President Hoover, it was reported late tonight, discussed the proposed bankers' loan of $400,000,000 to the English government in his conference with New York bankers and Secretary Mellon at the White House conference last night. According to reports in credited circles, the President placed his sanction on the credits which the American bankers are expected to make to the English government.

Gustave Corduan III., 18 months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Corduan, 5413 Windsor avenue, was drowned yesterday in the private swimming pool at the Corduan summer home at Camp Lake, Wis. Corduan is president of the Corduan Manufacturing company, Inc., 415 North Carpenter street.

FIND ELUSIVE "MR. MONTAGU" IN NOVA SCOTIA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 27.—Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, who vanished from public view immediately after his arrival in Quebec last week, is in Nova Scotia. While reporters of New York, Montreal, and other cities were combing their cities for the elusive banker he was calmly proceeding on his way to Digby, where he is resting at the Chalmers home, known as the Pines, and on the seashore.

Montreal newspapers were convinced by their failure to trace him that he had gone to New York to confer with bankers with a view to obtaining a large short term loan to help the British government balance its budget and to support the pound sterling. So far there is no sign that he has made any move.

Mr. Norman had adopted the name "Mr. Montagu" in the hope of disguising his identity. His closely cropped Van Dyke beard and a black velvet beret gave him away, but he steadfastly refused to talk to reporters, saying he had come to rest.

WORSE THAN WAR!

50,510 members of the A. E. F. were killed in action or died of wounds during the eighteen months that we were engaged in the World War.

51,400 persons were killed in automobile accidents during the eighteen months ended December 31, 1930. The number of automobile deaths may exceed 35,000 in 1931. Truly, the situation is worse than war!

There is no panacea which will quickly reduce the number of automobile accidents. No law, no great achievement in highway construction, no basic improvement in automotive design can stop people from maiming themselves and their neighbors on our streets and highways, even though better laws, better highways and better cars all help. The automobile accident problem is primarily a personal problem. Every automobile driver must realize that and do his part. Every pedestrian must feel his responsibility. And if each driver would make it his business to operate his car in as careful, considerate and courteous a manner as possible, and if each pedestrian would keep on the alert when he is crossing the streets or walking on the highways, our automobile casualty list would be materially reduced.

Just a little less hurry, a little more courtesy and consideration for others, and a little more attention at all times, whether walking or driving, would save thousands of lives and prevent hundreds of thousands of injuries.

A second of time will not replace a human life.

BRITISH LABOR DECLARES WA ON NEW CABIN

Out of Politics

LONDON, Aug. 28 (Friday)—The London Daily Herald, Labor party organ, said this morning was "able to announce" neither Prime Minister MacDonald nor Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, would seek reelection for parliament at the next general election.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The enemies of Great Britain's national government spoke this afternoon. A declaration of war was issued by the council of the headquarters of the labor movement of England, now led by Arthur Henderson, former foreign minister, in a manifesto calling on the "masses of the people and all men and women of good will" to aid in turning the present cabinet out.

The document pastes villain's labels on Uncle Sam's chin and blames him for the downfall of the MacDonald government last Monday. No mention was made of the United States' recently published charges that American banks demanded a reduction in the dole as the price for fresh loans, which thereby brought about the resignation of the late MacDonald cabinet and was liberated with unmistakable indignation.

U. S. Target of Another Shot.

A new wrinkle appears in the document which makes Uncle Sam the target of still another shot. The leaders in Great Britain believe the New York banks dictated these terms in order to prevent the dole from spreading to America.

The manifesto was issued as a compilation of today's meeting of the trades' union general council, the national executive committee of the labor party and the consultative committee of the parliamentary labor party. It asserts that causes and crisis "not yet revealed" have been about the fall of the Labor government and the substitution of a coalition for which labor repudiates all responsibility—of persons acting without authority of the people.

It declares that the national government is determined to attack the standard of living of the workers in order to meet a situation caused by private banking interests, in which the public has no voice.

Rings in Uncle Sam.

Then it rings in the United States by stating:

"The government seeks to effect a complete change in national policy because the nation's resources are not only diminished, not because the nation cannot afford to provide for the unemployed, not because the budget cannot be balanced, but primarily because financial interests decided that this country is setting a bad example for other countries in taxing themselves to provide necessities for the people.

The manifesto adds that the national government plans a fundamental reversal of the social policy built up in the country by Labor, and has aroused the entire labor movement in determined opposition."

Denies England Is Broke.

It denies that Great Britain is bankrupt and points to $2,000,000,000 of British capital invested abroad, insisting that Great Britain is still one of the greatest creditor countries and is still adding to its assets.

The basis for "constructive opposition" on which the MacDonald ministry program will be based was outlined. It recommends schemes for the immediate difficulty by developing the country's foreign investments, by temporary suspension of the sinking fund, taxing fixed interest bearing securities and other unearned income and "measures to reduce the burden of war debts."

The manifesto concludes with an appeal for support "in its defense of true national interests and its constructive efforts toward a new world order."

Meanwhile, Secretary of State Stimson returned to London this morning and went immediately to 10 Downing street where he had breakfast with Prime Minister MacDonald. They applied the finishing touches to the conversations on international affairs. Mr. Stimson will return home on the Leviathan tomorrow.

Two Seized as Chicken Thieves; About to Eat

Two men, believed to be the thieves who stole forty chickens from Joseph Gosieski, 41 years old, 12640 Wentworth avenue, Wednesday night, were arrested yesterday with two women companions just as they were about to sit down to a chicken dinner at 10732 Torrence avenue. All four were taken to the Eastside police station when Gosieski identified eleven of the fowls running around their backyard. Those held are Ramigio Trebi, 26 years old; Louis Rottus, 26 years; Mrs. Amelia Orventiv, 26 years, and Mrs. Isabel Cervantes, 35 years old. They claimed that they had purchased the chickens last May.

Resident of Memorial House Arrested as T

Miss Irene Williams, 35 years old, guest at the Harriett Hammond Memorial house, 1001 East Dearborn street, was arrested last night by two detectives from the Chicago avenue station, in the room of another guest, Miss Ruth Miller. Miss Williams was taken to the station at the North Racine avenue police where a charge of larceny was lodged against her. The arrest followed complaints from guests of the home that their rooms had been ransacked. Miss Williams said she broke into Miss Huff's room by error.

BRITISH LABOR DECLARES WAR ON NEW CABINET

Calls on Masses to Aid Turning It Out.

LONDON, Aug. 28 (Friday).—(AP)—The London Daily Herald, Labor party organ, said this morning it was "able to announce" that former Prime Minister MacDonald, Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, would seek reelection for parliament at the next general election.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The enemies of Great Britain's national government broke this afternoon. A declaration of war was issued by the combined headquarters of the labor movement of England, now led by Arthur Henderson, former foreign minister, in a manifesto calling on the "masses of people and all men and women of good will" to aid in turning the emergency cabinet out.

The document pastes villain's whiskers on Uncle Sam's chin and blames him for the downfall of the Labor government last Monday. No mention was made of the United States, but published charges that American banks demanded a reduction in the dole as the price for fresh loans and thereby brought about the resignation of the late MacDonald cabinet are reiterated with unmistakable implication.

U. S. Target of Another Shot.

A new wrinkle appears in the document which makes Uncle Sam the target of still another shot. Labor leaders in Great Britain believe that New York banks dictated these terms in order to prevent the dole from spreading to America.

The manifesto was issued at the conclusion of today's meeting of the labor union general council, the national executive committee of the Labor party and the consultative committee of the parliamentary Labor party. It asserts that causes of the crisis "not yet revealed" brought about the fall of the Labor cabinet and the substitution of a coalition—by which labor repudiates all responsibility—of persons acting without authority of the people.

It declares that the national government is determined to attack the standard of living of the workers in order to meet a situation caused by private banking interests, in which the public has no voice.

Then it rings in the United States, stating:

"The government seeks to enforce a complete change in national policy among the nation's resources suddenly diminished, not because the nation cannot afford to provide for its unemployed, not because the budget must be balanced, but primarily because financial interests decided that the country is setting a bad example to other countries in taxing the rich to provide necessities for the poor."

The manifesto adds that the national government plans a fundamental reversal of the social policy brought to the country by Labor, and "has roused the entire labor movement into determined opposition."

Denies England Is Broke.

It denies that Great Britain is broke and points to $3,000,000,000 of British capital invested abroad, insisting that Great Britain is still one of the great-est creditor countries and is still adding to its assets.

The basis for "constructive opposition" on which the MacDonald economy program will be based was also outlined. It recommends solution of the immediate difficulty by mobilizing the country's foreign investment and temporary suspension of the sinking fund, taxing fixed interest bearing securities and other unearned incomes, and "measures to reduce the burden of war debts."

The manifesto concludes with an appeal for support "in its defense of the national interests and its constructive efforts toward a new social order."

Meanwhile, Secretary of State Stimson returned to London this morning and went immediately to 10 Downing street where he had breakfast with Prime Minister MacDonald. They applied the finishing touches to their conversations on international affairs. Mr. Stimson will return home on the Berengaria tomorrow.

Two Seized as Chicken Thieves; About to Eat 'Em

Two men, believed to be the thieves who stole forty chickens from Frank Gaiuski, 41 years old, 12640 Caronlet avenue, Wednesday night, were arrested yesterday with two women companions just as they were about to sit down to a chicken dinner at 3232 Florence avenue. All four were taken to the Eastside police station when Gaiuski identified eleven of his birds running around their back yard. Those held are Ramigio Trebino, 39 years old; Louis Rottus, 26 years old; Amelia Orvontiv, 26 years old, and Mrs. Isabel Cervantes, 35 years old. They claimed that they had purchased the chickens last May.

Resident of Memorial House Arrested as Thief

Miss Irene Williams, 35 years old, a guest at the Harriett Hammond McCormick Memorial house, 1001 North Dearborn street, was arrested last night by two detectives from the East Chicago avenue station, in the room of another guest, Miss Ruth Huff. Miss Williams was taken to the annex of the North Racine avenue station where a charge of larceny was to be placed against her. The arrest followed complaints from guests at the home that their rooms had been ransacked. Miss Williams said she got into Miss Huff's room by error.

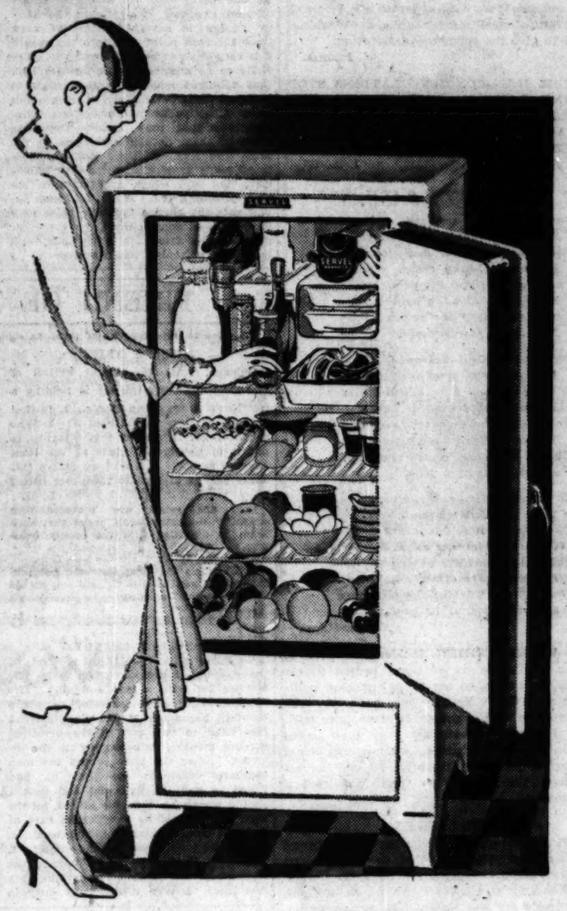
HOW TO BUY Electric Refrigeration

WEIGH THESE 8 MAJOR POINTS



why you should buy the Servel Hermetic Now!

HOUSEHOLD refrigeration is a twelve months necessity, as every housewife knows. Now you can enjoy the tremendous daily convenience of Simplified Refrigeration—and actually save money!

For the Servel Hermetic provides worth-while daily economies over yesterday's methods. It takes electric refrigeration out of the "luxury class"—makes it a simple necessity for every family!

1 Lower Prices—The low prices of the Servel Hermetic are within comfortable reach of modest incomes—and really generous credit terms make payment easy.

2 Lower operating cost—The Servel Hermetic requires remarkably little electric current—gives you "carefree" refrigeration at a saving too big to be overlooked!

3 Lower upkeep cost—The Servel Hermetic frees you from the bother and expense of kitchen repairs, intricate adjustments or replacement of parts. Its extreme simplicity assures longer years of "carefree" refrigeration for the least possible cost a day.

Come to the nearest display

Come to the Servel Display nearest your home (addresses below). See the Servel Hermetic yourself. Let us explain its many outstanding features. Compare it point by point with any refrigerator you choose.

Then order promptly for immediate installation—and enjoy Simplified Refrigeration right now! There's no installation problem. We simply set your cabinet in place and plug it into the wall socket.

WHICH of the many different electric refrigerators will you choose? Which one will give you the greatest possible satisfaction—give you "carefree" refrigeration for the fewest cents a day?

Let these 8 obviously outstanding points guide your choice! See the Servel Hermetic NOW! Then compare it with any other in these 8 ways.

1 Sealed Refrigerating Unit. Always ask one question first: "Is the refrigerating unit hermetically sealed?" For the sealed unit marks a great advance in electric refrigeration. The refrigerating unit of the Servel Hermetic is hermetically sealed, with all moving parts locked in a permanent bath of oil.

2 Simplicity. Complicated moving parts cause friction and wear—shorten the life of an electric refrigerator. The Servel Hermetic requires fewer moving parts—is the simplest electric refrigerator ever produced.

3 Shelf Space. You want a roomy refrigerator to hold all your foods without crowding. The Servel Hermetic gives you more, usable shelf space—with plenty of room between shelves.

4 Flat, Useful Top. The Servel Hermetic has the only sealed unit placed in the base of the cabinet. This leaves a flat, clear top for your convenience as extra kitchen shelf space—and places all interior shelves at more comfortable working height.

5 Noise. The Servel Hermetic is the quietest electric refrigerator. It starts quietly. It stops quietly. And this quietness is built-in, by expert engineering—to last indefinitely.

6 Natural Cooling Draft. In all electric refrigerators the unit collects warmth from the food chambers and distributes it to the room. The Servel Hermetic is the only electric refrigerator cooled by a natural draft of lower level air. This insures more efficient operation—eliminates all fans, belts and pulleys.

7 Ice Cubes. The Servel Hermetic gives you extra ice—plenty for every social occasion. Even the SE-4 (for smaller families) freezes 6 pounds of ice—three trays with sixty-three cubes. Rapid freezing makes even larger amounts available in emergencies.

Compactness is vitally important to apartment house owners and apartment house dwellers. It has caused the Servel Hermetic to be chosen for hundreds of new buildings—and installed in hundreds of old ones now brought up-to-date.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

FOLLY IN LOUISIANA.

Gov. Huey Long's bill to prohibit the growing of cotton in Louisiana next year on condition that the other cotton states do likewise is being rushed through the Louisiana legislature. It is a revolutionary measure, upsetting traditional concepts of liberty and the rights of property, but that point scarcely needs stressing. The question of constitutionality may be left to the courts.

At the moment it is more important to observe the economic consequences of such measures. It is inconceivable that the folly implicit in the bill is not evident to the intelligent citizens of Louisiana and the other cotton growing states. The Louisiana legislature, and certainly Louisiana's governor, have not sought the advice of the abler minds in their state, for had they done so they could not fail to be impressed with the fact that any considerable reduction in the south's cotton production will result inevitably in greatly increased activity in other cotton growing regions completely out of American control. Our southern states are not the only possible source of cotton for the world's consumption. Even today the south is feeling competition from overseas. If we abandon cotton raising even temporarily we will have given our competitors an advantage which otherwise they might have taken years to acquire.

Cotton is an export commodity. A restriction of production which might prove effective if applied to a commodity consumed wholly or largely within our tariff boundary will only serve to stimulate production elsewhere if applied to a commodity sold in the world markets in competition with the production of a dozen other nations. The more effective the Long program is in raising the price of cotton, the more certain it becomes that the south will regret its error when it is too late.

In America we seem peculiarly inclined to the belief that if a policy, however unwise, is only stated to be in the interest of an economic class suffering from some misfortune, the policy will prove successful in ameliorating the misfortune. A special odor of sanctity attaches to such words as "cooperative," "trade union," and "association." Any measure of whatever nature which is said to be in the interest of these organizations is accepted as desirable legislation by great numbers of persons in and out of our legislatures.

It need scarcely be pointed out that this kind of thinking can lead to disastrous action. Sympathy for the misfortunes of our cotton farmers and a high opinion of the purposes animating their associations ought not to blind intelligent men to the errors of policy put forward in the name of the cotton growers. Stupidity is none the less stupidity because it is well intentioned.

THE FARM BOARD IN THE FLYPAPER.

The American shipowners' complaint that they were overlooked is only the latest of a number of irritations registered against the wheat-coffee trade arranged by the farm board. The millers foresee the loss of some of their normal export business. The coffee dealers in this country are disturbed. The farm politicians complain against the sale of old wheat when the farm board might have bought new wheat for the barter. It is a safe prediction that every business interest which touches the affair at any point will find cause for dissatisfaction.

That was inevitable. Whatever the farm board does now with its wheat and its cotton will be wrong, pretty much as everything that a man who sits on flypaper does to extricate himself is wrong. The man made his mistake when he sat, and the farm board made its mistake when it attempted to corner a commodity market and rig the price. If the wheat market a year ago had been allowed to function in its normal fashion wheat prices, no doubt, would have declined, but the decline would have resulted in the consumption of the nation's grain production. Instead, prices were advanced arbitrarily with the help of some hundreds of millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money. American wheat remained uneaten because our government had made it more expensive than the wheat from other lands. Today, even after the Brazilian trade, the government still has some 200 million bushels of last year's wheat on hand, and as long as that remains a marked recovery in prices is unlikely.

Any attempt of the government to dispose of its accumulation will be opposed by those who have this year's wheat to sell in competition. On the other hand, any tendency on the part of the government to hold its wheat will be opposed by the taxpayers who are footing the storage bill. The farm board can be rescued from its difficulties only by a major war or a crop disaster, neither of which appears imminent.

The difficulties under which the board is laboring must be regarded as typical products of governmental attempts to operate business ventures. The heavy cost will be minimized if the lesson has been learned.

HIGH PRESSURE SUBDIVISIONS.

The extent of tax delinquency in Cook county is alarming, but in one respect it is susceptible of considerable exaggeration. Many hundreds of the delinquencies are to be found in subdivision properties which were sold at inflated valuations in the boom years through the efforts of high pressure salesmen. In a recent study Mr. Al Chase showed that in a typical subdivision, containing some 450 lots, taxes for 1928 had been paid on only seven and taxes for 1929 on only 69. The lots had been sold on the installment plan and in no case, it appears, had the payments been completed and title acquired by the new owner.

It is unfortunate, of course, that many thousands of persons have lost money on these ventures, but plainly, no good will result from permitting the present disorganized condition to continue any longer than necessary. The lots are at present a liability to the community. They are not and for years to come will not be used for houses, and as matters stand they cannot be used for truck gardening. To the lot buyers the land is now of no value. The sooner this situation is liquidated by the county the sooner the land can be restored to some kind of usefulness and the sooner it will again yield taxes to the local governments.

QUEBEC'S DISCIPLINED DEMOCRACY.

The Liberal party of Premier Taschereau scored a brilliant victory in the provincial elections in Quebec. Most observers had expected that Mr. Taschereau would continue in office, but anticipated a greatly reduced majority for his party. They thought many voters incapable of resisting the blandishments of the so-called Conservative party which offered the citizens everything which demagoguery could invent.

The forecasters underrated the common sense of the French-Canadian. Times may be hard, but the Quebec voters did not allow themselves to fall into the error of thinking that the difficulties of the moment are to be solved by government charity. As taxpayers they knew that what the government gave by way of relief it must take away in the form of taxes. The voters regarded Mr. Taschereau's pledge of relief in the form of moderately increased public works expenditures as preferable to any of the bait offered by Mr. Houde.

It is encouraging to find somewhere a disciplined democracy which knows the limitations of political action. Democracy is forever threatened by human gullibility and the human desire for ease and security. It takes training, discipline and good sense to resist the blandishments of the politicians. England succumbed; Australia succumbed; New Zealand succumbed. Chicago was on the point of succumbing. The world-wide depression of recent years has, of course, made the offers of the political medicine men more attractive than they have been in years; the man with a backache is far more susceptible to the sales talk of the snake-root bitters vender than is his neighbor without an ache or a pain.

Quebec suffers from the depression, but the people of the province have stood firm against the political quacks. The friends of democratic government the world over will find encouragement in the results of the election.

NATURAL GAS FOR CHICAGO.

The bringing of natural gas from Texas to Chicago is an important event in the industrial development of the city and region. Its significance is emphasized by the prompt action of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company in the announcement of a new gas rate schedule which, if approved by the commerce commission, will reduce rates 3½ per cent for 97 per cent of the general domestic consumers and 22 per cent for home heating.

This would be good news at any time, but in a period in which business and the community generally are feeling pressing need for economies it will be especially appreciated. The gas company is to be congratulated upon its enterprise in making this new resource available and sharing its benefits with its customers. The saving to the latter, it is estimated, will come to nearly a million and half dollars annually.

SAVE THE GREAT LAKES FISHING INDUSTRY.
[The Detroit News.]

There is one great natural resource of the United States and Canada, the use and exploitation of which stands in need of international regulation. This is the food fishes of the great lakes.

The past has revealed that it is hopeless to expect eight states and one province, all harboring different ideas on what should be done, to get together and lay down a uniform, reasonable, practicable and enforceable fishery code. Joint meetings of the interested officials over the past few years have brought plenty of promises but the situation is as muddled today as it has been since regulations were first considered. Eight different states and one province have nine different sets of regulations and practically all of them have been fighting international regulation, to the great detriment of the commercial fishing industry and its future.

Incidents are constantly arising bringing to attention the ridiculousness of the situation. A short time ago 2,000 pounds of perch were confiscated from fish dealer in Detroit. They were under the nine-inch limit for perch as prescribed by the Michigan law. They were caught in Ohio waters by Ohio fishermen where an eight-inch perch limit is in effect. If they had been taken in Canadian waters they would have had to measure at least eight and one-half inches. On the same day another shipment of perch was confiscated from a Traverse City fish dealer. These were also under the nine-inch Michigan limit, but were legally caught by Wisconsin fishermen in Wisconsin waters, where a seven-inch limit persists.

And so it goes all down the line. The size of fish, mesh of nets, weights of fish, open fishing seasons, species that may be legally taken and waters that may be fished commercially all differ.

The situation is parallel to that which existed before Canada and the United States got together and enacted the migratory bird treaty to preserve the bird life of North America. Before that time there were 48 different sets of migratory bird hunting restrictions in the United States and every province in Canada differed from the others. Today uniform laws and protective measures have replaced all of this and saved many species from extermination. What has been accomplished with our bird life can be accomplished for the fisheries of the great lakes. If this great food resource is ever exhausted through unwise and silly differences in regulation, the size of the calamity certainly will come home to all of us.

LOTTERY PROS AND CONS.

EDITOR LINE: Your suggestion of a national lottery for the benefit of the unemployed stands the acid test. It contains 100 per cent more moral components than the begging shams offered to date. Said schemes were summed up by a generous giver when appealed to, who replied: "Yes, here is 10 cents for charity and $9.90 to see that it gets there."

Candidly, I believe if your suggestion were put in practical form and paraded before Senator Couzens that he would sponsor a bill. As he already is heralded as a cheerful giver, perhaps he would advance enough money to get the lottery in working order and to keep its morals clean until profits began to accrue.

The government is morally bound to protect its people. Other governments have done this by means of lotteries. But what I like most about your suggestion is the freedom from cant and hypocrisy. You admit it is a form of gambling. We have "fake" lotteries, baseball pools, policy rings, and the greatest sham of all—prohibition—which THE TRIBUNE has opposed for years! Hoping your sane suggestion will ripen and bear fruit.

Harve: Read with interest your suggestion for relief for the unemployed via the national lottery route. The idea is so good I had thought of it myself, but had not the means of giving it publicity. THE OPERATOR FROM 93D ST.

Wake-Line: Suggestion of an authorized government lottery could come only from a person familiar with racetrack gambling. Our nation could not countenance such lack of morals. It is far better that many persons go hungry, if necessary, than that funds be raised by such questionable means. OPPOSED.

HTW: Bully for you! A national lottery is just the thing. It's what this country needs even more than the proverbial "good 5-cent cigar." Every one of us would buy one or more tickets. If we lost a few dollars, we'd not be hurt any, and we'd know the bulk of our speculation had gone to a good cause. If we did happen to win, hooray! Even our stiff-necked mountebanks at Washington ought to give the scheme consideration.

For bruise and scar and blemish
Become a heavy cross.
The grumbles and the grouches,
The ouches and the pain . . . .
Just slash away the prices
Nor let a fear remain.

The time of final clearance
Is when your grief is worst.
What shall you then but laughter
When painted bubbles burst?
You'll skim no cream by weeping
Where pitchers have gone broke,
But all the world comes cheering,
A sob becomes a joke.

So advertise your bargains,
Your sad defiated junk.
There is no new adventure
On a ship forever sunk.
Calamity? But drive!
For mourners old and sad.
Help all the world make clearance
Of trouble—and be glad.

IT IS A REFRESHING incident of politics, with whose pettiness we of these United States are woefully familiar, to see three opposing political parties of Great Britain join forces for the common good of that country. It gives more faith that the English, however set they may be in their opinions and customs, will emerge from their complex problems, financial as well as social, without the disaster so freely predicted a short time ago.

LEAD POISONING IN BIRDS AND BABIES.

IN Stoddard's magnificent study of quails there is a report of a condition that may interest mothers of young children. One day he found a quail unable to escape from a deep rut in the road. He captured the bird and found him paralyzed in the legs. On another occasion he found some quail that flew poorly. He captured these and found them weak in the wings. Study of the birds showed them to be suffering from lead paralysis—sometimes in the legs and sometimes in the wings. On opening the crops he found lead shot. Search of the fields where these birds had been ranging showed the presence of much shot. The sequence was as follows:

The region had been frequently hunted over. The many hunters of this and former years had left many shot here and there among the pebbles on the ground. Quail, searching for grain, or for pebbles to grind it in their crops, had swallowed shot. These had remained in their crops and absorption from them had produced lead poisoning. This in turn had caused neuritis of the legs and wings. The birds had lead paralysis.

A fair number of babies suffer from lead poisoning, the cause being lead paint rather than lead shot, as in the case of quail. A baby left to himself is likely to pick up things. Whatever he picks up is likely to go straight to his mouth. Babies suck paint from toys, bassinets, cradles, carriers, the bars of the bed.

Most paints contain some form of lead salt. This is especially true of the enamel paints. These fine, shiny, substantial, glossy protectives are just the types of paints that a baby can most easily break off and carry into his mouth or gnaw off and swallow. They tempt the baby to indulge in several instinctive acts. Once the lead paint gets into the mouth it is very likely to be swallowed and quite likely to be absorbed. The dose of lead thus acquired may be large enough to be fatal. It is more likely to bring about colic. Constipation and pallor are other symptoms that may result. Doubtless some of them develop weakness in the arms and legs. Mothers will probably recall many symptoms which their babies have had and which are found in the lead poisoning list. If so, let them investigate the chance that the baby may have gnawed some paint from a toy, or picked some from his shiny bed, and that lead poisoning has resulted.

TIGHT SHOES.

J. H. writes: Although my sad experience must be an unusual and extreme one, it will doubtless serve as an excellent warning to other girls against careless selection of shoes and hose. I am now only 27 years old and have found it necessary to have two toes cut off from one foot, and a third from the other, as the result of having for about ten years continuously worn very high heels and shoes which were too short and tight.

Both of my second toes had become hammer-toes, and the big toes had been bent inwardly with the joints enlarged. On the left foot the end of my big toe had somehow been twisted so that the nail became deformed and, about six months ago, began to grow into the flesh. I consulted a doctor about what could be done with my second toes and he said that they were so rigidly deformed that they could not be straightened. I thought my shocks would never end when he said that if I was sensible I would let him cut these two toes off at the same time he removed the end of the big toe.

To make a long story short, my two toes were cut off. Here I am at 27, with both my feet permanently disfigured, having sacrificed three toes on the altar of vanity.

I am not alone in my class, for in every swimming pool there will be found loads of misshapen toes, numbers of bunions and hammer-toes, and, frequently, a girl who has lost one of her toes, although I know of no other girl who has been subjected to such a wholesale amputation as I have.

WHOOPING COUGH.

F. R. writes: Is it possible for a girl of seventeen years to have whooping cough? My younger brother has the cough and I find myself coughing if much the same way as he does. I cough so violently that my face becomes red. I expectorate a great deal of green phlegm. On an average of once a day I vomit. This has been going on for five weeks, beginning with a slight cough.

Is it true that I am a victim of this malady? Can I take a bath during this illness?

REPLY.

A person seventeen years old can have whooping cough. I think you have it.

Take a neutral bath. Whooping cough is a long drawn out disease and bathing cannot be indefinitely postponed.

MISSING HEIR.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Our attorney is holding a lost heir's share of an estate. 1. Is that proper? 2. Who should hold it? 3. Who should I get to compel this attorney to put it in the proper place at the least expense to me? 4. How long before this share can be divided to the other heirs?

L. B.

1. If the estate was probated, then ordinarily the court would insist that such share be deposited with the county treasurer.
2. See No. 1.
3. The facts that you state are not conclusive. If you wish to litigate you should employ another attorney.
4. Seven years.

CO-SIGNER OF NOTE.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I signed a note for a fellow worker with a loan company. His contract read that he was to make monthly payments of $13 plus interest. He failed to pay any of the principal for five months, only keeping up the interest. After the five months the loan company informed me that he had failed to pay the principal and that I should speak to him. I talked to the man and he said he would take care of it. Two months later he disappeared. 1. Is the loan company in the right? 2. Are they liable on their contract the same as I? 3. Can they do anything they feel like? 4. Was it not their duty to inform me the first month the man failed to live up to his contract? 5. Was it not up to them to start action against this man after he had fallen behind two months in his payments? A. L.

1. Yes. We do not see how you could fail to concede that the purpose of your signing was that you were to become liable if the principal maker did not pay.
2. You do not state that they have made any contract to do anything for you.
3. They are under no legal obligation to exhaust their remedies against the principal.
4. No.
5. No.

STATE LAWS DIFFER.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—[Friend of the People.]—1. "A" states that a person sentenced to a federal penitentiary loses his citizenship permanently and the only way it can be restored is by the President on application. 2. "B" states the loss is only for the time incarcerated. Who is right? L. I. P.

1. This depends on the law of the state in which the person is convicted. In Illinois a conviction in either a federal or state court for an infamous crime enumerated in the Illinois statute provides for the loss of civil rights until they are restored by pardon of either the President or governor, as the case may be.
2. This is not true in the state of Illinois, but is true in some of the other states. There is no federal statute on this matter except as to deserters from the army and navy. FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT, District Director United States Department of Labor.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 28, 1915.

CHICAGO.—The confessed writer of threatening letters to the Rev. Edmund A. H. Kayser, slain pastor of St. John's Evangelical church of Tolleston, a German suburb of Gary, was arrested in Gary. The prisoner is Lucas Hauptman, an employé of the Gary steel mills. Chief Heintz made the capture and announced that much of the seeming mystery of the pastor's murder is being lifted. Hauptman's arrest, Chief Heintz said, leaves but one remaining angle to be cleared up. That is the Germany spy phase. The chief's intimation was that the slayer of Kayser is some one other than Hauptman and was actuated by antagonism to Kayser's pro-German speeches. Hauptman is a member of the Saxonverein of Kayser's church. The letters which the police say he confessed having written denounce the pastor for refusal to erect a clubhouse for the Saxon society.

SAN FRANCISCO.—Mrs. Frances Warren Pershing, wife of Brig. Gen. John J. Pershing, U. S. A., and three of her four children were suffocated in a fire in their quarters at the Presidio. The bodies of Mrs. Pershing and the three children, Helen, Anne, and Margaret, all 8 years old or less, were found by army firemen in the big two story frame house after the flames had been put out. The fourth child, Warren Pershing; Mrs. Walter O. Boswell, a relative; her two children, and three servants escaped. Brig. Gen. Pershing, commanding the Eighth brigade, was at El Paso, Tex., in charge of border troops, and is hastening here almost prostrated. Mrs. Pershing was the daughter of Senator Warren of Wyoming.

AUGUST 28, 1901.

PARIS.—The Franco-Turkish imbroglio has taken another kaleidoscopic change, and as a result diplomatic relations have been severed. An official note, after summarizing the history of the case, states that the porte has not fulfilled its promises and that M. Constans, the French ambassador, has left Constantinople, his place being taken by a chargé d'affaires. Munir Bey, the Turkish ambassador to France, who is absent from Paris, has been requested by telegraph not to return here, in order that the government may not be compelled to hand him his passports.

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—President Shaffer addressed a meeting of the striking workmen of the Painter mill of the American Steel Hoop company. He named the conditions on which he will settle the strike. He said: "If the United States Steel corporation will sign the scale for all mills signed for last year with the understanding that no man is to be discharged for connection or sympathy with labor organizations, and if the scale is signed for mills where the men want to organize, the strike will be terminated."

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Gloom pervades the city and the White House tonight as a result of the condition of the President, which is such that there is only the faintest hope that he may survive the wound inflicted by an assassin's bullet eight weeks ago today. The only hope is based on the durability of the stomach. Secretary MacVeagh said that one encouraging fact is that Mr. Garfield ate a piece of milk toast today. The cabinet, with the exception of Postmaster General James, was all present in the White House tonight. Mr. James' absence led to the rumor that he had gone to New York on a special mission to Vice President Arthur. It is known that the cabinet has been examining the message sent by Lincoln's cabinet to Vice President Andrew Johnson after the death of Lincoln.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—District Attorney Corkhill, who returned to Washington from Cape May, and who was quoted by a Philadelphia paper as saying he knew of several organizations whose determination was to break into the jail, secure Guiteau, and hang him in the event of the President's death, declared that he only said that the organizations of whose existence he knows have been formed for the purpose of seeing that Guiteau does not escape death. He said their idea was that the President would live and that Guiteau might only go to the penitentiary for a few years or to an insane asylum. In such an event the purpose of the organizations was to put Guiteau to death.

BRANCH BANKING.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—In the August issue of the Review of Reviews appeared an article entitled "Banking Conditions," by Frederick H. Rawson, chairman of the board of the First National bank and the First Union Trust and Savings bank, Chicago. Mr. Rawson comments at great length on the many bank failures in Chicago and the remedy. He says "because of an archaic law branch banking is not permitted in Illinois" and "sincerely hopes that the experience the public has had in the last two years, with bank failures growing out of irresponsible management, will lead to branch banking in certain restricted metropolitan areas," and goes on to laud the advantages and security that there is to depositors in branch banking.

What Toledo did a week ago to Mr. Rawson and his article is now history. In one day three big banks of Toledo, having close to forty branch banks located throughout the city and one hundred million dollars in deposits, closed their doors. Thus the essence of Mr. Rawson's argument, that branch banking offered to the depositor his dream of absolute security, was thrown back in his face, and the small independent banker again came into his own.

No, Mr. Rawson, branch banking is not the solution, nor is size a criterion of safety, as witness the fate of the Foreman banks. A bank operated along sound economic and banking principles and efficiently managed by fully qualified bank officers, possessed with the courage of their own convictions, is still the depositors' and their communities' best friend. DAVID A. SKALITZKY.

FOLKWAYS.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—As a traveling Briton stopping over in Chicago on my way to Canada, my attention was drawn to a letter in your issue of Sunday last, signed Ex-Anglomaniac, which you were pleased to give the heading of "Merry England."

The only sense that I could gather from the diatribe is that Great Britain is under some sort of obligation to change her customs and traditions in order to accommodate visiting foreigners whose ways are different. This is a kind of proposal that they or any other country would not care to entertain.

Regarding his reference to the slums, there are plenty to be seen in the large cities of the United States also, where there is less excuse for them, considering the great era of prosperity this country has enjoyed.

As a general statement pertinent to the whole subject of British-American relations, I believe that too many Americans, and also Britons who do not have first hand knowledge of the United States, delude themselves with the thought that because they have a similarity of language there must of necessity be a similarity of manners, customs, and traditions. I believe this erroneous impression creates a lot of misunderstanding. J. E. LLEWELLYN.

THE FIRST WOMEN VOTERS IN ILLINOIS.

Lombard, Ill., Aug. 26.—In connection with plans for a homecoming celebration in Lombard Oct. 30 and 31, some of the old timers are dusting off pioneer records that challenge curiosity, to say the least. Herbert Rand, 208 South Elizabeth street, has documents which he claims prove that 12 women of Lombard back in 1889 were the first women voters in Illinois. A special charter drawn up that year by Gen. Sweet omitted the word "male" in the qualifications for voting. Helen Martin, a woman attorney and suffragette, established a practice in Lombard about that time and induced 12 of the prominent women of the village to vote. A lengthy argument among the three men judges of the election resulted in a two to one decision to permit the votes to count in the election which involved candidates for state office. L. S. WHITBECK.

AT THE MUSIC FESTIVAL.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—As a visitor from England I wish to thank your newspaper for the splendid evening of enjoyment at your music festival.

I had come to Chicago with the impression that the sentiment here was very anti-British, but after last night my opinion was changed greatly. Never have I received such a pleasant surprise or such a great thrill as I did when upon the entrance of the union jack the band played our beloved "God Save the King" and one hundred and fifty thousand persons stood at attention.

ENGLISH VISITOR.

DISPLEASED.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—The second annual musical festival was a sore disappointment. With the exception of the massed Negro chorus and the group or audience singing, all else was spectacular, belabored, overdone and wearisome. The entry of the various musical organizations was badly announced and poorly timed. The confusion was disconcerting. It was noisy; no grace, no order, no beauty, no judgment. While the "Scotchmen" were playing the bagpipes three drum corps were tearing the heavens down with noise. What an anomaly!

The "festival band" managed to select musical numbers that were highly technical and belabored. To listen to their agony was painful in the extreme. "Sheridan's Ride" was a flop. John Philip Sousa aroused no interest and the march music directed by him was the least known and the most difficult. The effort to exhibit technique was so manifest and so obtruding that no one paid any attention to the music. The "Pageant of Color" was tame; had no merit other than as a spectacle, and the accompanying music did not cause a single heart to warm. Very probably drum corps come under the classification "music," but it should be so advertised that an ordinary person can remain away when noise is to be the leading feature of the program.

Bennett was fine, the massed Negro chorus extra good and the assembly singing excellent. If we are to have another festival, let us have nonprofessional bands, give them an opportunity to be heard, more choral and audience singing. Let it be a folk event rather than pageantry and noise. Last night cannons, drums and Illinois Central switch engines outdid one another in make our evening hideous.

SAMUEL W. BALL.

A PLEASANT REMINDER.

Highland Park, Ill., Aug. 23.—As one of about a million or so radio listeners to the wonderful performance of last evening, I want to thank you and also express my congratulatory appreciation of the remarkable smoothness of the management of the whole evening. It reminded me of the "Peace Jubilee" given in Boston in 1872, in which I was a ten-thousandth part of the chorus, largely under the direction of Pat Gilmore. EDWARD F. CHAPIN.

A MONTH IN ENGLAND.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—I am reminded that a few years ago I met a young lady whose father had just returned from a month's visit to England, and that he, too, was disgusted with that country, having told her that they did not even have running water in their lavatories. All I could say was: "Where was your father?"

Styles for men and women are not designed in the slums of London and Paris and must not be expected to be seen there. England is proud of her "Derby," from which the "Derby" was invented. To one so used to dirty back yards and alleys, the blasted gardens must have been an eyesore.

England, London and the slums should not be confused as being one and the same place. However, England enjoys and in her reserved manner suppresses a laugh at such one-month impressions based entirely on faulty generalization.

Surgeon Among Dead at Marquette.

Marquette, Mich., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—Four Marquette prison convicts are dead by their own hand, Dr. A. W. Hornbogen, consulting surgeon, a trusty were shot dead, and one of a hospital attendant, and an assistant deputy warden were wounded unsuccessful effort by three convicts to shoot their way to freedom.

This evening, eight hours after the shooting, the prison was quiet under regular routine.

Machine guns, tear gas bombs, rifles and pistols were used in the fight with the desperadoes before the final capture was inevitable. Four killed themselves.

That the prison warden, James Corgan, and his chief deputy, W. Newcombe; the warden's secretary, Clarence Vaughan, and Joe Cox, assistant deputy, who was wounded, were not killed was due only to poor marksmanship of the convicts. Many shots were fired at each, but Cox was the only one struck, a bullet piercing the fleshy part of his leg.

The Dead and Injured.

The dead are:
DR. A. W. HORNBOGEN, consulting surgeon, Marquette, relief surgeon.
FRANK OLIGSCHLAGER, trusty, who was shot while trying to escape, the killers with his fists.
ANDREW GERMANO, [illegible], serving thirty-five to fifty years' sentence from Pontiac in 1928 for murder of a policeman.
CHARLES ROSBURY, [illegible], sentenced from Detroit to twenty years for robbery armed.
FRANK HOHFER, one of [illegible] sons of David Cass, who was kidnaped and murdered, serving five to fifty years.
MARTIN DUVER, 39, Chicago, thief and four time offender, sentenced from Detroit to life for a Detroit bank robbery holdup.

The wounded:
LEO BOLGER, trusty, who shot Oligschlager. He will recover.
JOSEPH COWLING, guard, seriously wounded.

Complain They Are Starved.

The three convicts appeared in prison hospital at 8 a. m. today. They were ill. Dr. Hornbogen, physician of national prominence, was on duty. Germano was in the last meal. "I'm sick," Germano said.

Dr. Hornbogen ordered the convict to take off his shirt.

Instead Germano drew a revolver from under his shirt and shot Dr. Hornbogen through the head. Rosbury and Duver, who were nearby, drew pistols and fired at the two trusties, Oligschlager and Bolger, who had started on the run to summon a physician.

Rosbury shot Oligschlager, a capital trusty for 15 years. Duver shot Bolger. The two trusties fell to the floor.

Dowling, the guard, was shot dead. He fired as the killers rushed toward him and around a rotunda. Germano fired back and Dowling fell.

Warden Corgan and Newcomb, who had fled from the warden's office, near the exit. Bullets spattered the door frame.

Pitched Battle Rages for Hours.

Marquette police, state police and prison guards were rushing at them from all directions. Dragging other prisoners and the guards with them, Germano and Rosbury and Duver fled to a machine shop on the floor of the old factory and barricaded themselves. They fired volley after volley at guards and police. Prison guards and other officers returned the fire with pistols, shotguns and rifles and machine guns.

Toward the end, one killer waved a white handkerchief as a sign of truce. A note, attached to a rifle barrel, was thrown at Warden Corgan's feet.

"We have a bottle of explosive and we'll ruin this place unless you bring us and place your personal car at our disposal and open the gates," the note read. "We will kill the other prisoners and the guards with us, too."

Bullets Warden's Answer.

Corgan's answer was: "Start shooting again, boys."

Finally tear bombs were used. Rosbury was the first to shoot himself. Germano fired into Rosbury's body to make sure his companion was dead, then shot himself. Duver fired several bullets into Germano to make sure Germano was dead, then shot himself.

6 SLAIN, 2 SHOT IN PRISON FIGHT; 4 KILL SELVES

Warden Among Dead at Marquette.

Marquette, Mich., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—Marquette prison inmates killed by their own hand, Dr. A. W. Hornbogen, consulting surgeon, and a trusty were shot dead, and one inmate, a hospital attendant, and an assistant prison warden were wounded in an unsuccessful effort by three convicts to clear their way to freedom today.

This evening, eight hours after the shooting, the prison was quiet and under regular routine.

Machine guns, tear gas bombs, shotguns and pistols were used in a battle with the desperadoes before they faced capture was inevitable and killed themselves.

Dead the prison warden, James P. Morgan, and his chief deputy, William Gamache; the warden's secretary, Clarence Vaughan, and Joe Cowling, assistant deputy, who was wounded. Morgan was killed was due only to the poor marksmanship of the convicts. Many shots were fired at each, but Cowling was the only one struck, a bullet shattering the fleshy part of his leg.

DR. A. W. HORNBOGEN of Marquette, relief surgeon.

ANDREW GERMANO, kidnaper, serving thirty-five to fifty years on sentence from Pontiac in attempted murder of a policeman.

CHARLES ROSBURY, 24, sentenced from Detroit to twenty to forty years for robbery armed.

FRANK HOHFER, one of the killers of David Cass, who was kidnaped and murdered, serving thirty-five to fifty years.

MARTIN DUVER, 39, Chicago bandit and four time offender, sentenced from Detroit to life for a Detroit grocery holdup.

The wounded:

LEO BOLGER, trusty, who aided Oligschlager. He will recover.

JOSEPH COWLING, guard, not seriously wounded.

The three convicts appeared at the prison hospital at 8 a. m. They said they were ill. Dr. Hornbogen, physician of national prominence, was on duty. Germano was in the lead.

Rosbury shot Oligschlager, a hospital trusty for 15 years. Duver shot Bolger. The two trusties fell to the floor.

Dowling, the guard, was outside. He fired as the killers rushed past him and around a rotunda. Germano fired twice and Dowling fell.

Warden Corgan and Newcomb started from the warden's office, near the exit. Bullets spattered the door lintels.

Pitched Battle Rages for Hour.

Marquette police, state police and guards were rushing at them from all directions. Dragging other prisoners as the guards with them, Germano, Rosbury and Duver fled to a second floor of the old factory and barricaded themselves. They fired volley after volley at guards and police. The guards and other officers returned the fire with pistols, shotguns and machine guns.

Toward the end, one killer waved a white handkerchief as a sign of truce. A note, attached to a bottle, was thrown at Warden Corgan's feet. "We have a bottle of explosive, and we'll ruin this place unless you retire and place your personal car at our disposal and open the gates," the note said. "We will kill the other prisoners and the guards with us, too."

Escanaba, Mich., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—Gov. W. M. Brucker, here for the upper Peninsula state fair, pointed to the Marquette prison riot today as proof for the necessity of capital punishment in Michigan. He denies reports that the prison is undermanned, and stated emphatically no prison executive in the state has ever submitted any reports to him to this effect.

HULL WARNS G. O. P. TO ADOPT MODIFICATION PLANK IN PLATFORM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—In a cable dispatched from Paris on the eve of his return to this country, Representative William E. Hull [Rep., Ill.] today warned Republican leaders that the Republican party must insert a modification plan in its party platform at the national convention next June or lose the support of the wets.

WILLIAM E. HULL.

"The Republican party," said Mr. Hull, "must put something in its platform at the next convention that will give it efficient leadership of the wet elements seeking modification of the Volstead act and the 18th amendment. Otherwise, this leadership will be lost because the American people in the Republican states are demanding a change in the prohibition law."

The Illinois congressman, just returning from a liquor survey in Europe, urged that steps be taken to permit the legal manufacture and use of light wines and beer. Such a step, he said, would aid "America's hard hit agriculture" to the extent of furnishing a new market for 120 million bushels of grain.

SONSTEBY VISITS TWO COURTS ON ECONOMY SURVEY

With the object of saving the city money through the consolidation of branches of the Municipal court and release of judges for other duties, Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court yesterday continued his survey with visits to the Town Hall and West Chicago courts. His visits, he indicated, completed his inspection of police and civil courts.

"From now on," said the judge, "I intend to concentrate on criminal cases. Warrants already have been issued for a number of professional bondsmen and I shall hear their cases personally some time after Labor day."

The judge said the opening of the new Traffic court in South State street would lighten the Municipal court dockets considerably. He indicated that if conditions warranted he would place three courts under one judge.

In his inspections yesterday Judge Sonsteby examined the methods of the court clerks, assistant state's attorneys, assistant city prosecutors, and judges.

MURRAY PRAISED BY 300 KANSANS FOR OIL EFFORTS

93 Autoloads Drive Over to Thank Him.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Aug. 27.—(AP)—About 300 Kansas oil men motored to Oklahoma City today to thank Gov. W. H. Murray for obtaining higher prices for crude petroleum.

Harry Patton of Wichita, Kas., leader of the delegation, congratulated the executive for closing flush wells in Oklahoma by martial law and his efforts to "take the industry out of chaos."

The oil men came in 93 motor cars from Wichita and other cities in Kansas.

Gov. Murray told them a $1 per barrel price must be general before he will open Oklahoma wells and said he had not only closed them for the benefit of the oil industry but for the entire public, and to bring increased taxes to the state.

"A dollar is a reasonable price, and we want to hold it," he said. "Congress should be asked to pass a law limiting production. If we do not take such action the oil fraternity will be wiped out."

Within a few days, he continued, rules will be laid down by Oklahoma, and probably by Texas, Kansas, and New Mexico, under which there will be "fair proration and a price commensurate with the investment and labor used."

Ralph Pryor of Wichita, speaking for the Kansans, said it was the "first time in history a group of citizens of a northern state have crossed the Mason-Dixon line to thank a southern governor."

500 Years of Oil Left.

New York, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Today, the 72d anniversary of the petroleum industry in the United States, finds the nation with an available supply of crude oil from all sources sufficient to last 500 years, in the opinion of Ralph Arnold and William J. Kemnitzer, geologists, whose 1,000 page book, "Petroleum," was published today.

From the natural reservoirs, the oil wells, and from oil shales and coal, now scarcely touched, the ultimate quantity of oil available totals more than 726,008,000,000 barrels, of which less than 13,000,000,000 barrels, or less than 2 per cent, has been produced to date, the authors say.

It was 72 years ago today, the book discloses, that "Col." E. L. Drake, a railroad conductor, drilled the first well at Titusville, Pa. Sixty-nine feet deep, the well produced 25 barrels a day. It cost $5,000.

Now more than 800,000 wells have been drilled and the yearly production of 2,000 barrels in 1859 reached more than 1,000,000,000 barrels in 1929.

U. S. DRY AGENT'S SALARY 3 TIMES THAT OF SOLDIER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—Analysis of the pay received by agents in the prohibition army and soldiers and sailors in the army and navy discloses that the profession of arms is a shoddily paid occupation in comparison with the business of enforcing the nation's liquor laws.

A glance at government figures showing the rate of compensation paid in the army, navy and prohibition bureau disclosed that the enforcement agents of the dry army receive more than twice as much as first class seamen and almost three times as much as first class private soldiers in the regular army, to whom they virtually correspond in rank.

How Salaries Compare.

The average enforcement agent, it was learned at the prohibition bureau, receives about $2,500 a year. This is his salary, clear and unincumbered. In addition to it he receives a per diem expense account of $5 while away from his post of duty on official business.

In the navy a seaman first class receives an annual salary of $648. In addition to this, of course, he receives rations and quarters. Inquiry at the navy department revealed that these rations and quarters were valued at from $40 to $50 a month. On a basis of $50 a month, or $600 a year, therefore his annual compensation totals but $1,248, or less than half the annual pay of the average prohibition officer.

The gap is even wider in the case of the first class private in the army, whose annual salary is but $360 and whose total yearly compensation, including $600 for rations and quarters is but $960, or $1,540 less than the dry agent's $2,500 a year.

Beginners Draw Big Pay.

Even the highest ranking noncommissioned officers in both services, master sergeants in the army and chief petty officers in the navy, are considerably poorer paid than the lowliest prohibition agent. Enforcers of the liquor law begin as novices at a salary of $2,300 a year, while master sergeants and chief petty officers receive the same yearly salary of $1,512 in addition to their rations and quarters, worth $600 a year. Their total annual compensation of $2,112, therefore, is $188 less than that of the beginner in the liquor law enforcement corps.

No discrepancy was found to exist between the salaries paid coast guardsmen, whose duty it has become to enforce the liquor legislation on the sea, and those paid members of the military services. Coast guardsmen are paid on exactly the same wage scale as men in the navy.

Three Young Brothers Ill of Food Poisoning

Suffering from ptomaine poisoning, which had affected seven others members of their family, three brothers were taken to the county hospital last night. They are Raymon Evenhouse, 10 years old; Harold, 8, and Elmer, 6, all of 1756 West 18th street. The condition of Harold is serious. The Evenhouse family became ill last Sunday after dinner. All recovered but the boys, and when they failed to show improvement they were taken to the hospital.

IT'S CRAB APPLE SEASON; BETTER GET PREPARED

Here Are a Few Recipes in Case You Are Not.

BY FLORA MARTIN.

Like its close kin, the cultivated apple tree, the crab apple tree is famed for its foliage and blossoms. In the spring months when the buds burst into bloom rural districts and countrysides populated with crab apple trees are transformed into a glorious spectacle of color. Now as the fall draws near, city and country folk alike are greeted by the sight of the fruit ripening on the trees in the orchards of the middle west.

Few persons are familiar with the true crab apple, which is a native of the east and is known as the Siberian crab. What we call the crab apple is said to be only a half-breed, a cross between the original crab and the common apple and much wider in girth than its early ancestors. In shape and hue, these smaller members of the pome family are much like the common apples, but that is as far as the resemblance goes. For the midgets are much harder, smaller, and more sour than their larger brethren.

Plenty on Market.

Although the high flavor is one of the qualities that appeals to most people in jellies, preserves, or other dishes concocted from crab apples, it adds little to their popularity as eating apples. Of course, they have been eaten raw and some people may even prefer them that way. But most crab apple fans insist on having the harsh acidlike flavor toned down by cooking as it has a habit of biting back when eaten raw.

In comparison to the number of farmers who grow the larger apples for marketing, those who make a business of cultivating crab apples are few. But the fact that there are crab apples on the market at the present time proves there are enough of them to provide the Chicago district and other areas with as many of the diminutive apples as the housewives will need for making into jellies, preserves, and pickles.

If you haven't lined up your recipes for crab apple jelly and marmalade, here are a few that will no doubt help you out.

CRAB APPLE MARMALADE.

After cleaning and coring crab apples, run them through a meat grinder. Then place the pulp in a preserving kettle with just enough water to show through the apples. Cook until they are soft. Weigh the sauce and add an equal weight of sugar. Cook until thick and the juice is jellylike [about 15 minutes]. Pour at once into hot sterile glasses.

CRAB APPLE JELLY.
1 cup of crab apple juice.
1 cup of sugar.

Wash and quarter the apples and place in preserving kettle just covered with water. Cook until tender, pour into muslin bag, and strain the juice into a dish. Boil the juice and sugar to a jelly [about 10 minutes] and pour into hot sterile glasses.

CRAB APPLE AND PLUM JELLY.
1 quart of plums.

Wash plums and apples, removing the blossom ends of the latter. Place in a preserving kettle with enough water to cover and boil until soft. Mash and pour in muslin bag to drip. Use equal weight of sugar for weight of juice. Boil juice 5 minutes; add sugar and boil to a jelly. Skim and pour into hot sterile glasses.

A good method to use in order to test the juice to see whether it has reached the jellying stage is to pour a drop from a spoon, during the boiling of the juice and sugar, on a cold plate. If it jells, it is done. No definite temperature can be given for jelly but crab apples jell best when cooked at a temperature of 223 to 224 degrees F.

The sugar should be added only after the strained juice has begun to boil. When the sugar is dissolved, cook rapidly. This permits more time for the inversion of the sugar and prevents crystallization.

"HOW'D YOU LIKE A DATE?"

Virginia Cahoon doesn't mean the kind that comes over the phone, however. Hers grow on trees. She has been appointed handmaiden of the date crop in the court of agriculture at the Los Angeles county fair, which will open at Pomona, Cal., on Sept. 18.

CHICAGO DUE TO PUT ON WEIGHT; LIKES POTATOES

Large Amount of Tubers Consumed Here.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Chicago is a potato consuming city! Indeed, figures prove that this important standby constitutes at least one-fourth of the total amount of fresh fruits and vegetables carried home annually in the market baskets of our towners!

A roll call of the family providers will immediately reveal the homely little bulbs' popularity, for where is the doctor, the lawyer, the banker, or the broker who is not happier when a thick, juicy steak or a platter of chops is accompanied by a serving of potatoes? Fearful as housewives may be of the vegetable's calory producing tendencies, they universally admit the pantry should never be without a generous supply, and frequently join the family in relishing a serving of scalloped, baked, or fried potatoes.

Runs Through Social Gamut.

Among all classes their appeal is quite as universal, for even the poorest of the population find the potato one of the cheapest forms of sustenance, and no well ordered banquet, however sumptuous, is complete without the vegetable served in one of many delightful ways. In fact, the average annual per capita consumption in Chicago and throughout this country is close to four bushels. Europe and the British Isles run a close second, however, for potatoes comprise from 20 to 25 per cent of the total amount of fruits and vegetables used in these countries.

Perhaps the severe decline in the price of potatoes has been responsible, at least in part, for the increase in shipments into Chicago markets the last four or five years. Since June, 1927, the price of potatoes to consumers has been reduced nearly 63 per cent, the greatest decline in the price of any foodstuffs for the same period of time. In comparison, it is interesting to note that the number of carloads unloaded in Chicago was 16,298 in 1930.

This figure represents more than one-fourth of the total of 63,837 carloads of fresh fruits and vegetables unloaded in Chicago last year. Figures for the first seven months of 1931 indicate that Chicago will even increase the amount of potatoes consumed in a year.

Furnishes Economical Nutriment.

When the abundant supply of nutriment the potato gives at such a relatively low price is considered, it is little wonder it is thought of as a "piece de resistance." Although primarily a starchy food, scientific analysis has revealed that this starch is supplied in a peculiarly digestible form. In Germany a gruel made from the pulp of baked potatoes is used to feed infants and invalids. The potato also contains some mineral matter and a little protein and fat.

Composed, as it is, of these substances in varying proportions, the potato is an excellent accompaniment for lean meat, legumes, eggs, and other protein foods as well as butter and other fatty substances. Frequently it is pointed out that graham bread and butter and beans with butter form much better combinations with potatoes than meat, since meat and potatoes both lack lime.

Varied Ways of Preparing.

Many and varied are the methods of preparing the common potato, and there also are a dozen or more popular dishes that take potatoes as their principal ingredient. The latter include the common potato soup and potato bread. In serving potatoes with the main course of the dinner they may appear as plain boiled potatoes, French or German fried, or as baked, mashed, scalloped, creamed, shoestring, diced, Lyonnaise, or stuffed potatoes. Again the housewife may serve potato chips, potatoes au gratin, potatoes rissole, or the ever popular potato salad.

Three recipes for preparing potatoes are listed herewith:

Potato Puf.

Take 2 cups mashed potatoes, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 6 tablespoons cream, 2 eggs and a little salt. Whip the potatoes, butter and salt. Beat the eggs separately and then add the cream. Mix all the ingredients together and bake in a quick oven 425 degrees F. until brown.

Potatoes au Gratin with Pimiento.

Chop cold boiled potatoes into small pieces. Put a layer into a buttered baking dish, then a layer of grated cheese and sprinkle liberally with chopped pimiento. Cover this with a rich cream sauce and add another layer of each until the dish is full, ending with cheese and pimiento on top. Pour over the sauce and cover with bread crumbs. Bake ½ hour in moderate oven [350 degrees F.].

Peas in Potato Cases.

Prepare 3 cups of mashed potatoes which have been well seasoned and mixed with a little butter and a little cream or milk. Shape the potatoes into small cases by the use of a pastry tube and brush lightly with the yolk of an egg which has been mixed with 2 tablespoons cream. Brown in a moderate oven and fill the center with peas which have been cooked, drained and seasoned.

CRISP SALADS GIVE AN APPETIZING TOUCH TO HOT WEATHER DIET

Salads help add crisp, appetizing touches to meals during hot weather, according to nutrition specialists in home economics at Ohio State university, who offer an attractive way of putting fruits and vegetables into the menu.

Many delicious salads are inexpensive and easy to make. Apple-cabbage-nut salad is one of an almost infinite number of variations. This salad is made from 1½ cups of finely chopped apples, 1½ cups of finely chopped cabbage, salad dressing to moisten, and ½ cup of nut meats. A few drops of lemon juice or vinegar sprinkled on the apples as they are cut will keep them from turning black.

Pineapple and cabbage salad may be made from 1 cup of canned pineapple cut fine, 2 cups finely chopped cabbage, 2 tablespoons of granulated gelatin, 1 cup of pineapple juice, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, and 1 cup of water. Soak the gelatin in cold water and dissolve it in hot water. Add the pineapple juice, lemon juice, and salt. Cool. When the gelatin begins to set, add pineapple and cabbage and pour into a wet mold. Serve with boiled or mayonnaise dressing.

Carrot-celery-nut salad may be prepared from 2 cups ground raw carrot, 2 cups of celery or cabbage cut fine, ½ cup of nut meats, and salt. Moisten with salad dressing and serve on a bed of lettuce.

HEINZ RICE FLAKES are crisp and crunchy, and deliciously sweet. That's one big reason for eating them. But there's another reason. These golden-brown flakes have an important "it" that you need in your foods. That is—a mildly laxative effect. The same mildly laxative effect that certain fruits and vegetables have!

Like grapefruit, prunes, beets, and lettuce, Heinz Rice Flakes do their corrective work gently. They have what is sometimes referred to as a "corrective vegetable effect." No other rice flakes do this helpful regulative work! That's because an essential substance called cereal-cellulose is combined with Heinz Rice Flakes, by an exclusive process. Remember that—and insist on Heinz.

Heinz Rice Flakes will help you keep healthy, so eat them regularly. And let the children have all they want. They need the regulative help of these crisp little flakes, too—and they'll love them!

HERE'S TYPICAL POLISH DINNER OF FOUR COURSES

Secretary at the Embassy Obliges with Recipes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—My quest for diplomatic dishes took me today to the Polish embassy. Now it was only last year that Poland started its Washington legation to the rank of an embassy; so, of course, Ambassador and Madam Tytus Filipowicz's dinner are extremely popular this season.

Madame Filipowicz, who knows a good borsch when she tastes one is missing from the city just now, but Count Potocki, the embassy's first secretary, got her favorite recipes for me and for you. He was so generous with his menus that you'd be busy cooking all this week if I gave the entire list to you at once.

Now, unless you are a real cosmopolite when it comes to dining you'll do the very first thing that you're sure you won't like sour cream and beet juice. But remember, that the man who went to South Africa and then complained because he couldn't get ham and eggs the way he could at home, missed a lot of eating experiences. There is a skill in Polish eating and a charm in eating Polish cooking that the real gourmand will find very satisfying.

Take 2 pints sour milk and beat well in a clay pot. Beat separately 1 pint sour cream [not too sour], adding as you beat, small quantities of milk, until air bubbles collect on the surface. Mix all together, adding small amount of broth from which all fat has been carefully strained. Add some beet juice and 2 thinly sliced cucumbers that have been previously salted and let all stand 2 or 3 hours. Add one-half inch squares of boiled lean veal. All, when mixed, should be cooled in ice and served with a piece of ice in each plate. Hardboiled eggs cut in cubes may be added.

Now for the second course we'll assume that the day's not so hot and serve that old Polish dish, "Hunter's Stew." The nice thing about this is that it can be made from left overs.

Cook 3 or 4 pounds of sauerkraut; then add a handful of mushrooms which have been cooked and cut into dice, season with diced bacon and onion fried with 2 onions. Add 2 spoonful of flour.

Enter the left overs: Take different kinds of previously cooked meat, O, pot, lamb, or ham; veal or venison. Dice the meat and put into the sauerkraut; add one half pound sliced sausage; then pour in the gravy in which the meat was cooked. Salt, pepper and sugar to taste. Stew for half an hour. Add a tumbler of Madiera.

Let it all come to a boil, remove from stove, cover well and put in cool place. It can be warmed up and served when desired.

Quarter, wash and drain three heads of lettuce. Hard boil three eggs, cutting up one for garnishing. From the other two remove the yolks, stir with one-half teaspoonful of sugar; thin with cup of sour cream; add little lemon juice or vinegar. Add salt to the lettuce. Pour the dressing over the salad. Mix well. Garnish.

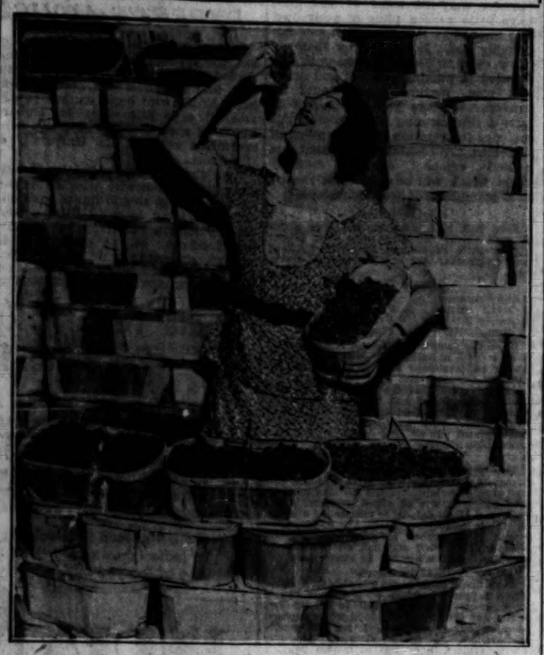
Take one pound each of sweet butter, powdered blanched almonds, sugar, eggs [weighed in shell] and flour. Make into dough and roll with rolling pin into a thin cake. Bake in medium hot oven.

Boil a syrup from one pound sugar. Peel and core two dozen sour apples; cut in thin slices and fry on a slow fire until they are cooked into a very thick and transparent marmalade. Add a little lemon or orange rind and stir with spoon to avoid burning.

When the marmalade stops sticking to the pan, take out and spread thickly over the cake, and put in a cool place.

Sour Grapes! But Good for Jell



First receipts of what Michigan vineyards promise will be a bountiful supply of blue Concords for this fall arrived in Chicago this week. Miss Helen LeMieux, 2940 South Canal street, testified they would be better for jelly than for table eating as she sampled them at a South Water market wholesale house. Wholesale prices for the four quart baskets were 19 to 22 cents. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

VEGETABLES AND FRESH FRUITS ARE WEEK'S BEST BUY

BY EVERETT SWINGLE.

Fresh fruits and vegetables most economical to buy this week in comparison to other weeks this summer and also in comparison to other fresh eatables include nearly all of the homegrown vegetables such as sweet corn, cucumbers for pickles, cabbage, radishes, onions, and turnips, and also such fruits as pears, peaches, and apples.

Bushel baskets of the best Michigan and Illinois apples for eating or for cooking purposes should be available in Chicago stores for $1.50, according to the prevailing wholesale price of 60 to 75 cents a bushel for grade A packs, which run from 2¼ to 2½ inches minimum in size.

Sweet Corn Plentiful.

Sweet corn from nearby truck farm fields finally has become plentiful enough to be sold generally at around 15 cents a dozen for fresh picked ears. The cucumbers of a size suitable for pickles of various kinds are practically "going begging" on the wholesale market, although these of superior quality are in good demand.

This week found housewives nearly all aware that it was proper to buy peaches to augment a session of canning such as Chicago kitchens have not witnessed in more than a decade, according to manufacturers of canning equipment and the dealers in produce suitable for canning. It is being recognized that not only is it a matter of economy to preserve the low priced food of good quality, but also a matter of conservation.

Italian Prunes on Sale.

Market reporters indicate the present supplies of home grown vegetables at low prices probably will continue until killing frosts curtail the growing season. At present wholesale prices are considered as low as they can be and yet continue to attract supplies from the growers.

Italian prunes this week became quite a feature in the fruit markets of the city. They are similar to the blue plums grown on the Pacific coast and most dealers classify them as plums, but it is possible to obtain some that lack the ripeness and sweetness of the fruit ordinarily sold as plums. The Italian prunes should sell for 12 to 15 cents a pound.

In considering plums, it is apparent that housewives who anticipate each year suitable supplies of Michigan plums for canning and preserving can now obtain this fruit at fairly low cost in bushel lots. Per bushel the price would be from $1.75 to $2.25.

CHICAGO PRICES ON FRESH FRUIT AND VEGETABLES LISTED

NEW POP CORN SWELLS TO 26 TIMES VOLUME

Pop corn specialists have surpassed the record of two blades of grass for one. Through selection they have produced a new strain which pops to twenty-six times its volume.

The new strain, a yellow pearl pop corn named Sunburst, was produced during a 7-year period by agronomists of the United States department of agriculture in cooperation with the Kansas agricultural experiment station.

WHEN YOU CAN CAN CANNILY; AVOID SPOILAGE

Realizing that this year may see a large increase in the amount of vegetables, meats and fruits canned by the housewife, a tabulation has been completed by Miss Essie M. Heyle on causes of canned food spoilage in connection with her work in home economics extension for the Missouri College of Agriculture.

Most common causes of spoilage, she finds, are:

"Jar is packed too tightly, so that during the processing period the liquid does not circulate through the jar. This is often likely to be true with corn, chicken and lima beans.

"Cheap rubbers or old rubbers are used. It is wise to always test by pinching together to see that there are no pinholes or cracks showing and by stretching to see if they will stretch to twice their width and come back in place.

"During the processing, the water in the water bath stops boiling because the fire has gone down or out. All processing time is counted from the time the water is really boiling, that is, when large bubbles are breaking on the surface and the water seems to be rolling. If the water stops boiling vigorously, additional time must be added to make up for the time the water was not boiling.

"Spoilage may result because the hot pack method is not used. Or because vegetables are not freshly gathered and canned at once.

"When the jar is cold and the lid is screwed again in an effort to tighten the cover, this often breaks the seal which the hot rubber has made, and gives the air a chance to enter. Screw the lid on as tight as possible immediately after removing the jar from the cooker and do not touch when it is cold.

"The jars should not be allowed to stand after they are packed, but should be placed at once in the water bath or pressure cooker."

Lamb, Pork Economical Purchases for Week-End

In its regular weekly report issued for the guidance of consumers, the committee on marketing information of the meat council of Chicago states: "All cuts of lamb and smoked pork products such as hams, bacon, and picnics represent the most economical meat buys for the Chicago housewife over the coming week-end."

MODERN FEEDING GIVES IMPROVED POULTRY SUPPLY

BY PAUL POTTER.

Whether you like dark meat or light meat, the wing or the drumstick, your chicken as a broiler or fryer is not ready for the table until he has passed through the modern feeding period of ten days to two weeks on a fancy milk and grain farm.

The American plan of poultry fattening, experts tell us, has gone the way of all new world practices. In France or England the young fowl are gorged with food, getting the final fillings over a period of weeks by hand feeding on the part of the farmer, his wife or his children.

Some thirty years ago the first English poultry feeders were brought over to direct the establishing of poultry fattening stations in the west. But they soon found American methods overwhelming their patient hand feeding ways, and now it is done on a volume scale, with the chickens being kept on a banquet diet only ten days to two weeks.

The European Method.

"In France, England and other European countries where people have developed fine tastes for food and wines, the squabs, wild fowl, poultry and other entrées must be finished and highly flavored with natural fats," explains Paul Mandeville of the Institute of American Poultry Industries. "Labor being cheap, this fattening is extended over a long period, and is done by hand.

"On the other hand, the fowl becomes in those countries largely the fare of the gentry, while in America, by operating on a volume basis with more than 2,000 fattening plants over the country, the fattened poultry is made available by lower prices to the laboring class as well."

From several million farms and small acreages of the nation come the poultry and eggs that make this industry reach into more forms than any other. In the middle west, however, is produced the lion's share of the chickens that are fattened for the city tables.

From a runway on the farm, where the bird is conditioned by both exercise and grain feeding, the feeding stations take up young fowl for the fattening process.

Jewish consumers have for years realized the value of chicken fat. It is the addition of this fat throughout the meat that makes it juicy, tender and palatable. Likewise, the fattening process makes the dark meat lighter.

Some people still prefer to see their chickens beheaded in the small market shops, believing they are getting fresher and better quality meat. In some cases this may be true, according to poultry experts, but as a rule this stock comes by train or truck from some distance, and the birds are out of condition from having lacked quiet and full feeding for several days.

Science Tackles Problem.

Among the interesting chapters in the history of the poultry industry is the work done with turkeys. Primarily a wild fowl, the turkey was beset a few years ago by a peculiar disease called "blackhead." The birds were depleted to a point where the meat was high in price, with little assurance of quality.

The Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research, believing this to be an economic problem of consequence, set its chief, Dr. Theobald Smith, to the task of solving the cause of the pestilence. Dr. Smith, since retired, attacked the problem and may be credited with having done much to save America's Thanksgiving dinner.

The chicken and the turkey, which formerly ran wild over the range or farm, are being raised now by more scientific methods, and as a result the poultry supply of today is a much improved product as compared to that of thirty years ago.

The vegetable weevil, a new hardy, strong flying insect which has a healthy appetite for a wide variety of common garden crops, is spreading in the southern states and is known to occur in California, the United States department of agriculture reports.

This weevil is a small, grayish brown beetle, about a third of an inch long. It was first found in Stone county, in Mississippi, in 1922. Since then it has spread to many counties in that state as well as to Louisiana, Alabama, and Florida, and in 1926 was discovered in the vicinity of San José, Cal.

The pest is a hardy flyer, and this makes it difficult to control its spread. Some of the plants which it attacks are turnip, cabbage, collard, carot, mustard, spinach, beet, chard, radish, potato, tomato, lettuce, onion, parsley, parsnip, chickweed, mallow, pigweed, dock, and milk thistle.

Arsenical poisons will control the insect, but in such crops as lettuce the use of poison involves an element of danger. Poisoned bran bait as used for cutworms is partially effective during May and June.

TOMATO FABLE: MERIT WINS OVER BAD REPUTATION

Once "Poisonous," Now It's Sought After.

BY ANGELA PETESCH.

A word or two about the tomato or tomate, as it is known in continental Europe. You may choose to pronounce it tomatto or tomahto; I will be very Yankee and call it tomato with a long "a." In case you are fortunate enough to travel in Europe you will recognize it as liebesapfel in Germany, pomme d'amour in France, pomo d'oro in Italy or pomidor in Poland. I haven't been to Europe but you can accept this as authentic information.

The name of the tomato as well as the fruit itself originated in South America. The name was derived from the Aztec and the fruit was cultivated in South America long before the discovery of that continent by Europeans. Now there are fifteen or more varieties, descriptions having been found as early as 1554. The first mention of tomatoes being cultivated in America for culinary purposes was in 1781 in Virginia.

Once Thought Poisonous.

For many, many years tomatoes were considered poisonous and, of course, were avoided for that reason. We know better now. Tomatoes are highly nutritious and a source of valuable vitamins. Prof. Dunglison said: "The tomato may be looked upon as one of the most wholesome and valuable esculents of the garden."

Now for the ways of preparing tomatoes. With the increased popularity many new ways of serving have been devised. There is soup, cocktail, relish, marmalade, salad, preserve, fritter, sauce, aspic. Then they can be baked, broiled, deviled, escalloped, stewed and the like. And have you ever tried them fried? Either green, half ripe or wholly ripe tomatoes may be fried, but I prefer them not too ripe because on cooking they become too tender and lose their uniform regular shape. The texture is inclined to become too soft and without character, too. There is a recipe below for fried tomatoes.

There may be some of you who have little garden plots of your own and have more tomatoes than you can possibly use. Don't destroy them or allow them to decay. Green ones can be used in making relishes and such, and ripe, mature ones should be canned. In case you would like to have a few canning hints in which is included information on the canning of tomatoes, the cooking department has a little, compact, complete canning chart which will be mailed on receipt of a stamped, addressed envelope.

Fried Tomatoes.

Take half ripe tomatoes and slice about ¾ inch thick. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and a little sugar and dip into buttered cracker crumbs. Fry in a hot, greased frying pan.

Tomato Souffle.

1 cup tomatoes	3 tbsp. flour
1 small onion	3 eggs
1 tsp. salt	Grated cheese
3 tbsp. butter	Pinch red pepper

Cook the tomatoes, onion, salt and pepper together 20 minutes and strain. Melt the butter and gradually add the flour, then the strained tomatoes and cook until thick. Set aside to cool. Beat the yolks of eggs until lemon colored and add them to the cooled tomatoes. Then fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into buttered dish, cover with grated cheese and bake in moderate oven [350 degrees F.] 25 minutes.

Bordeaux Sauce.

Slice thin with a shredder 1 quart of green tomatoes. Sprinkle with 2 tablespoons salt and soak overnight. In the morning measure and add 2 quarts of sliced cabbage, 1 red pepper, 5 sliced onions, ½ tablespoon allspice, ¾ tablespoon celery seed, 1¼ cups brown sugar, ½ tablespoon mustard seed, 1 quart vinegar. Mix well and boil all together 30 minutes. Seal while hot in sterile jars.

Chow Chow.

Chop fine 2 large heads of cabbage, 1 dozen green peppers, 1 dozen white onions and ¼ peck green tomatoes. Boil in strong salt water and drain. Add ½ pound white mustard seed, 2 oz. celery seed, 1 handful grated horseradish, ½ ounce allspice, ¼ ounce cloves [spices to be tied in muslin bag], 1 ounce flour of mustard, 1 ounce turmeric, 2 pounds brown sugar. Mix all together and cover well with vinegar. Cook for about 4 or 5 minutes. Seal in sterile jars when cold.

COPPERIZED PAPER PREVENTS DECAY OF PEARS IN STORAGE

Copperized paper wrappers for pears boxed for shipment in Washington and Oregon will practically prevent the spread of "gray mold" or "nest decay" in storage, Dr. J. S. Cooley, plant pathologist of the United States department of agriculture, has discovered. Washington and Oregon pear growers are accustomed to the wrapping of fruit, but ordinary paper does not check the spread of this rot to sound fruit.

The decay is caused by the fungus botrytis, and has caused serious losses. Dr. Cooley developed a wrapping paper impregnated with copper, and this proved highly satisfactory last year in packing about 30,000 boxes of pears. Reports to the department say that most of the Oregon pears to be stored for any length of time this year will be wrapped in the copperized paper. The department has applied for a public service patent on the new process.

CAN THE EXCESS VEGETABLES, IS EXPERT'S ADVICE

"The housewife with a surplus of garden products over the amount needed for the family table will usually find her best market right at home in her own home canned pantry stores," says Miss Inez M. Hobart, nutrition specialist of the home demonstration office of the University of Minnesota.

"On the other hand," Miss Hobart adds, "the housewife who must purchase products should figure carefully before deciding to can. First consideration should be given the quality and freshness of the product to be canned, as an inferior product cannot be improved by canning and will not be safe to can. Other points that must be weighed include the actual cost of food products, sugar, jars and rubbers; fuel and time or labor to be used. All costs should then be compared with commercially canned products of the same quality."

The Sugar on It Causes Honey to Crystallize

With such a high proportion of sugar it is little wonder that honey crystallizes. This depends on the arrangement of molecules and the temperature. Dextrose, or grape sugar, as it is commonly called, is the grape sugar of the group; honeys which have a large proportion of dextrose as from alfalfa, vetch, and raspberries, crystallize more quickly than those which have most levulose sugar.

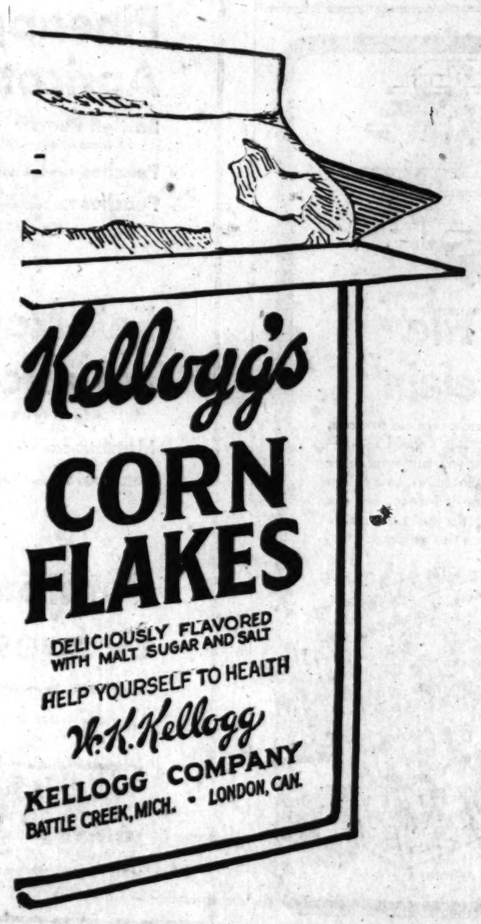
OUT OF one package OF Kellogg's CORN FLAKES



THINK of all you get! Many delicious treats for breakfast. And there's lunch — what could be better than Kellogg's and milk with fruits or honey added?

Then, the children's evening meal — Kellogg's are wonderfully wholesome and easy to digest. And many a man knows them as a delicious and healthful bedtime snack.

Always ready to serve — no trouble or work. Costing only a few cents a package. Of all the foods you buy, Kellogg's Corn Flakes are indeed one of the most economical and convenient. No wonder they are the most popular ready-to-eat cereal in the world.

Wise buyers put the name Kellogg on their grocery lists. No other corn flakes have ever been able to duplicate the matchless flavor and crispness of genuine Kellogg's. More than 12,000,000 people prove this every day by buying Kellogg's Corn Flakes.

Look for the famous red-and-green package — with the inner-seal waxtite wrapper that keeps the flakes crispy-fresh even after opening. Still another exclusive Kellogg advantage. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

No Space Wasted in Tiny Moving Quarters.

BY VIRGINIA THOMPSON.

One woman in twenty-eight square feet prepares and serves a dinner for forty-four men in 120 square feet prepare and serve dinner for eighty—yet women often feel quite abused.

Many's the time I have wiggled elbows in my diminutive kitchenette and hoped for a not-too-distant future when I might really have enough room to work. My careless wide swung arm has encountered cupboards above and cupboards below with painful frequency. I have persistently backed into the refrigerator when I peeked over my oven; and I have wondered just why my ankle insists on cuffing a harmless little green stepladder leaning against the wall.

Then I think of the immaculate dining car kitchen on a dining car of a railroad where four capable cooks move briskly about without interference—and I am properly ashamed.

Utilize Every Inch.

Shiny Allegheny metal takes the place of our white porcelain in the railroad kitchen. A large coal stove with a generous firebox [the kind we used to enjoy twenty years ago] replaces our gas and electric stoves. Otherwise, the two types of kitchens are much the same. I did envy the chefs their compunient overhead hanging queues and pans, and I marveled at the utilization of every inch of space. At my eye swept the room I saw the stove, the steam table and at the end the serving table, convenient to the pantry man in the neighboring room. At the window side of the kitchen are the two deep bowled dish washing sinks, the long preparatory table which hosts a bevy of sharp knives and a wood board just above, and last of all, a giant refrigerator. And I haven't even mentioned the many compartments higher up on all sides which hold towels, canned goods, china, and numerous cooking utensils.

Incidentally, you won't starve on the railroad trips if you should chance to be stranded, for the trains carry a nine day stock of provisions. Three truck loads of food are stowed away before making the cross country run. Service stations for fresh dairy products, meats, and the like, supply the dining kitchens once a day, besides. On coast runs the chefs pick up fresh silver salmon, halibut, and other fish in western commissaries en route.

An Inherited Art.

Many of us think we have a cooking heritage of which to be proud, but few of us can brag of generations of chefs in the family. George Hester—the Rector of cooking history—who is now responsible for the menus of a railroad, introduced me to several fathers and sons practicing the art of cooking in his school for railroad chefs. Their fathers and grandfathers were cooks before them, and their grandsons probably will be cooks after them.

Mr. Rector's cooking school is one of the few such schools in the country. Even though the men have been active chefs for years, they attend the classes held when they are off the trains in Chicago. Each forthcoming menu is studied; the men are shown how the food is prepared, how it is garnished, and how it tastes. And then is held in an exact replica of a dining car kitchen! Steward, chef, second cook, and pantry-man—all attend.

The pantry-man, by the way, is the one who is responsible for the delicious salads and appetizers you enjoy on your trip. He makes up all his salads just an hour before dinner.

Mr. Rector places special emphasis on garnishing, and the attractive appearance of the dishes served. A Princess salad with a sheaf of lettuce, slice of tomato, and three fat stalks of asparagus is topped with green pepper and pimento strips. Potato salad must be white, and is flecked with minced parsley and paprika. Lobster salad is placed in a nest of four small lettuce leaves with half a hard-boiled egg in two opposite leaves.

Chicken a Stand-by Entree.

Almost anything prepared in our finest kitchens is to be had on a train. One of the few exceptions is the gelatine salad and gelatine dessert. These are omitted because they are difficult—practically impossible to make—in a moving kitchen. Chicken, especially fried chicken for which the colored cooks are so famous, is a stand-by entree. Steaks [eight ounce sirloins], roasts, fresh fish, and other seasonable meats appear on the menus. Potatoes au gratin, stuffed, candied sweet, mashed, creamed, or however you might wish them, may be had. Vegetables are plentiful, and are put in boiling water to be cooked only as they are to be served. You may have them scalloped, plain, or with any of the several sauces so complementary to them.

Best of all are the sherbets . . . . Mr. Rector has a repertoire of fifty-two, one for each week in the year! He uses a citrate base, either lemon, orange, lime, or grapefruit, condensed milk, and substitutes a jelline powder for the egg whites. I tasted a grape sherbet which was smooth as sifted confectioner's sugar, and it simply melted down my throat.

Vegetable Growers Make Offer at Convention.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—Truck growers from Florida, Louisiana, and California and hothouse specialists from Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Wisconsin and Canada are gathered here this week in a four day convention of the Vegetable Growers of America. More than 1,000 market gardeners and their wivies and families are in attendance and from many standpoints the convention is one of the most successful in the 23 years of the association.

John F. Fugazzi, producer of vegetables and fruits for the winter trade at Clearwater, Fla., has made an appeal to President Hoover to instruct the interstate commerce commission to allow vegetable growers to load one-tenth of every car for the unemployed, to be transported free of charge and be consigned in special packages to the Red Cross or the community relief organizations. Mr. Fugazzi said in his letter he felt certain that practically every grower of fruits and vegetables had a percentage of sound culls available which are not good enough to bear the cost of freights to long distance points but are good enough to be used for food for the unemployed.

Eat More Vegetables.

That the appetite of the American public is gravitating toward vegetables every year was brought out by speakers and stressed particularly by Miss Genevieve Stillwell of a large tubercular sanitarium at Koch, Mo., who spoke on "Value of Vegetables in Daily Diet." Miss Stillwell said that she expends annually almost 25 per cent of her budget of $130,000 on fruits, vegetables and tomato juice at the Koch institution.

It was brought out that the use of raw vegetables and salads of the more unusual of truck garden products such as broccoli, collards, okra, chard, endive, watercress and the like was growing in favor, as the attention of the growing generation is being more and more attracted to health conservation.

In the reports of the speakers stress was laid upon the increasing popularity of head and leaf lettuce, green peas, tomatoes, celery, and carrots. Americans now consume an average of 8 pounds per capita of tomatoes, while less than 40 years ago they were regarded as parlor ornaments.

Prominent Agriculture Speakers.

Prominent leaders in agricultural education of the country were speakers. They are:

John S. Gardener, College of Agriculture, Lexington, Ky.; H. D. Brown, Ohio State university, Columbus, O.; N. P. Rasmussen, Cornell university, Ithaca, N. Y.; E. M. Emmert, College of Agriculture, Lexington, Ky.; Frederick V. Waugh, bureau of agricultural economics, Boston, Mass.; H. H. Zimmerley, Virginia truck experiment station, Norfolk, Va.; Neale Howard, United States department of agriculture, Columbus, O.; C. V. Noble, University of Florida, Gainesville, Fla.; Paul Work, Cornell university, Ithaca, N. Y.; I. C. Hoffman, Ohio experiment station, Wooster, O.; T. G. Bulling, MacDonald college, Quebec, Canada; F. F. Weaver, Pennsylvania State college, State College, Pa.; Charles S. Wilson, federal farm board, Washington, D. C.; M. W. Baker, Ohio state department of agriculture, Columbus, O.; Leonard J. Alexander, Ohio state experiment station, Wooster, O.; A. W. Marion, Ohio state extension department, Columbus, O.; O. N. Riley, Washington county experiment farm, Marietta, O.; B. F. Sams Jr., Clarkston, Ga.; N. W. Miles, Columbus, O., and George A. Sweet and W. S. Roebuck, Fort Wayne, Ind.

John H. Budzien, truck grower from the Milwaukee district, who has been vice president of the association, is slated for the presidency to succeed Henry G. Marquard of Erie county, New York.

THREE MEALS A DAY

From the Tribune Cook Book

BY MARY MEADE.

As I sat here and planned the above menus for you, I wondered how many of you still tie yourselves to a kitchen on Sunday to prepare three meals a day. Mothers should have, and deserve to have, a rest, or at least an easier time on that day of the week.

Yes, I realize the various and sundry members of the family pitch in and help with the more menial chores, but still there remains much that no one save the "cook" can do.

Permits Leisure.

I long ago adapted myself to a Sunday routine which permits me comfortable leisure and a minimum of time spent in the kitchen. Two meals a day is my recommended solution—a hearty breakfast and a substantial dinner.

My family like to sleep later in the morning Sundays than is their usual custom, so breakfast doesn't take place until 9:30 or 10 o'clock. If you happen to have enthusiastic golfers in your own group who insist on an early start to the links, you may not find it possible to serve a late, lingering meal such as ours.

Practical Time Division.

However, in the event that you try your family out on the two meal plan, and it works, balance both your day and meals so that dinner isn't served too soon after breakfast or your family won't enjoy it.

Five o'clock is a pleasant hour, and often neighbors and friends drop in at that time to share it with you. Many of my friends have the second Sunday meal a buffet supper, and serve the roast cold with a salad and one or two hot dishes. Then, truly, it is simple to have a comfortable Sunday, and you will be happily surprised to see how readily your husband and children adjust themselves to the new routine.

BACON AND CORN.

4 slices of bacon
¼ green pepper
1 small onion
2 eggs
2 cans of corn [equivalent 2½ cups grated corn].

Fry the bacon until it is nearly crisp. Add the corn and fry until brown. Then add the onion, green pepper, and egg. Scramble all together.

STUFFED ONIONS.

Boil as for baked onions. Cut out the heart of the onion and fill the space with any kind of finely chopped meat, well seasoned. To each pint of meat add one egg and 2-3 cup of milk. When the onions are filled, cover with buttered crumbs. Bake for one hour, and serve with a white sauce.

CHICAGO PEACH APPETITES SATED BY BIG SUPPLY

Appetites cheated by frost and drought last summer from normal supplies of fresh peaches are being satisfied during Chicago "peach week" by more peaches than Chicago has ever before seen, according to market reports. Receipts, mostly from southern Illinois, set an all time record which some experts predict may never again be matched.

Restaurants have been selling copious cuts of peach pie, as well as feature dishes of peach cobbler, peaches and cream and peaches a la mode. Drug stores with lunch counters have been making sales attractions of special peach delicacies as well as selling peach ice cream made of the fresh fruit.

All of this has made substantial inroads on the huge supply which has been selling retail from $1 to $1.50 per bushel. The greatest market for the peaches has been to the housewives for canning purposes, it is estimated. Last year there were none except for eating fresh, but kitchens this year are being used as conservation centers for canned fruit for this winter. Prices next week are expected to advance.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

When the corners of a rug turn up, put a wet cloth over and iron.

Can blueberries combined with oranges and lemons and rhubarb, any one of them, or all of them together.

In canning lake fish for winter use remember to use your pressure cooker, for the bones will soften and be like salmon bones if cooked on the back of the stove during the process of the meal getting.—Elise M. Rushfeldt, Hawley, Minn.

SOUTH AMERICA NOW SHIPPING MORE FRUIT

Fruit has always been an important item in South America, but it is only within the last few years that production has come to be important on an export basis. Oranges are coming from Brazil, Argentina, Paraguay, and Ecuador. The banana is a large crop in Brazil and Colombia. Apples and peaches are the principal fruits of Chile. Other exports to the United States include grapes, melons and plums, raisins, pears, and quinces.

VEGETABLE STEW A DELICIOUS DISH EASY TO PREPARE

BY ROBERT JOHNSTON.

It's vegetable stew time in Morrisville. Late summer makes a larger variety of vegetables available in that central North Carolina hamlet than any other season. Once a week or maybe oftener every housewife in Cedar Fork township goes into her garden before the sun has evaporated the dew and gathers a handful or two of succulent vegetables from every row.

Preparing such a variety of vegetables for cooking is less monotonous than stringing sufficient beans for a big family, so that part of the job is finished early enough to leave most of the morning for preserving or canning.

Salt Pork in Vegetables.

About 10:30 o'clock the housewife rearranges the pots and kettles on her big wood burning range, puts the mixture of vegetables with a small piece of side meat [salt pork to northerners] into a quantity of water in a big pot, and the dinner is on its way. There remain only a little watching of the pot, making cornbread and, perhaps, pies.

When dad and the boys come in hungry from their morning's farm work they'll identify the delightful combination of odors before they enter the house and become twice as hungry as before. The meal consists of only the stew, cornbread, buttermilk, and pie. The housewife has believed she was further lightening her cooking for that day's consumption by preparing so much stew that there would be plenty of it left to serve cold for supper. Before the family has thought of the pie the housewife begins to fear there will be no stew left.

When finally the time comes for the pie the housewife finds that she must cook supper after all. There is only one small serving dish of stew left, a quantity sufficient to pass around the table with the fried ham and other things she'll have to prepare for supper. And you can bet that serving dish will be emptied in its first circuit of the supper table.

Flexibility of Recipe.

This stew is called Brunswick stew in Morrisville, but there are southerners who insist that chicken is a necessary ingredient of Brunswick stew. Whatever this stew may be called, it combines vegetable flavors in such a manner as to delight the vegetarian and to please even the more carnivorous humans. The stew is decidedly different from stews common in the north with their large quantities of meat.

One of the best features of the vegetable stew is its flexibility of recipe. The housewife can vary the proportions of different vegetables in accordance with the taste of her family.

One-half cup of lima beans.
Two medium sized tomatoes.
One-half cup of green peas.
Two medium sized potatoes.
One medium sized onion.
Two large carrots.
One-fourth pound of round steak.

I cooked the whole mixture an hour. A housewife probably knows that while some of those vegetables well may be cooked an hour, others should be cooked a shorter period.

It should be remembered that this is a stew, not a soup; nearly all of the water should be cooked away.

SYNOPSIS.

Lee Reynolds is the owner of a ranch which drought has almost ruined and starved the cattle. School friends from the east come as paying guests. Lee quarrels with her ranch foreman, Ranse Brennan, partly on account of a new hand named Smith she hired without his permission and partly because she rejects his love suit. Brennan is discharged and swears revenge. Dune Daggett, an old ranch helper, recognizes Smith as Jack Hadley, whose father owned a nearby mine and was murdered by outlaws. Hadley tells Daggett that he is searching for the murderer of his father. Lee leases a Mexican ranch and moves the herd there. Mrs. Doris Silver, a flirtatious friend of Lee's, goes on ahead to the Mexican rancho. Brennan drops in on her just before Jack Hadley, who has been sent on by Lee, arrives. Hadley drives to Palo Duro for supplies and takes Doris with him. Doris wanders off and is abducted and Hadley has to fight several natives to rescue her.

INSTALLMENT XI.

A CONFERENCE.

Lee was brisk and business-like, but her fingers were not quite so deft as usual. It was all in the day's work of a ranch woman. At any time a cowboy was likely to have a broken arm or a sprained ankle. No sense in getting flurried, she told herself severely. Yet she was a little tremulous with excitement. There was something about Hadley that quickened the pulses, a charm of personality not quite explainable. She was aware of a fierce joy and of a scorn of the idiocy in her that allowed it.

"Now you're all right," she said when she had finished. "All you need is a night's good sleep.

"I wonder if I'll get it," he said dryly. "It wouldn't surprise me if a few rurales dropped in and had a few words to say about that."

"Tell me the whole story from the beginning," Lee ordered.

He told it, very briefly. Once she stopped him to ask a question.

"Why did you let Doris go into the house at all,"

The young man hesitated. He did not want to tell tales out of school.

"I should have thought you would have kept her near you." Lee's forehead knit in a little frown. She looked at Doris—and continued to look at her. A small suspicion was born in her. "Didn't he tell you to stay near, Doris—not to leave him?".

"Yes," Doris admitted defensively. "But I didn't see why I couldn't go out. How was I to know that——"

Lee interrupted rudely. "I see."

That was all she said, but it was enough.

After Hadley had concluded the story he and Lee turned to a consideration of possible consequences.

"It's unfortunate," he said. "With so many witnesses against me it will be difficult for me to set myself right with the government here. I'm a gringo, despised by most good Mexicans and therefore discredited even before the evidence is in. The question is how it will affect you."

"That's one point, but not the most important. If you're flung into prison here you may not get out for years. I wonder if you hadn't better take the car and get across the line while there's still time. Doris can go with you, too. You'd better pack and go at once. I'll have Ysela put up a basket of food for you."

"You mean—go tonight?" Doris asked.

But her fingers were not quite so deft as usual.

"But——"

"If you'd rather stay and run the risk of a Mexican prison," Lee cut in brutally. "It will be very dirty and there will be lots of vermin and the food will be unspeakably bad, and of course anything may happen to you there."

"O, I'll go. I didn't mean that, Lee." The lovely Cupid's bow lips trembled and the blue eyes misted. "But I don't see why you speak that way to me after all I've been through today. It's not my fault those horrid men insulted me. I didn't ask them to . . . to . . ."

Lee repented her harshness. After all she was primarily to blame herself for ever having let Doris come into the country, even though she had no faintest suspicion that a revolution was in brew. It was not fair to blame Doris because she was what she was.

"Forgive me, dear. I was too brusque. What I mean is that if you're going with Mr. Smith you'll have to hurry. Every minute counts. Even now it may be too late."

"I'd better go and get some clothes on," Hadley said. "They didn't leave me much."

"No." Lee drummed with the tips of her fingers on the table in front of her. "I ought not to lose my temper with her, but she's so exasperating. You might have lost your life, for no reason except some whim of hers. Even now she doesn't realize what she's done."

"As a botanical specimen I suppose she would be catalogued decorative rather than useful," the young man volunteered. "But she would come at the top of her class. Did you ever see anything more lovely?"

"Never. And she's all right. There's no harm in her. Even her flirtations don't go very far usually. They are to satisfy her vanity. Have you gas enough to get through?"

"Probably not. I'll pick some up on the way." He broached what was on his mind. "Fact is, I hate to leave you holding the sack. I wouldn't go except that I'll make you more trouble if I stay. Of course, my name isn't Smith, as I told you. It's Jack Hadley. Dune knows all about me. Ask him. I have a reason why I don't want my real name known just now."

"Thanks for telling me," she nodded.

"That's all right. Dune can tell you why I have an alias. I haven't time now." He rose stiffly and moved toward the door.

Doris came running back into the room. "Why don't you go with us, Lee? I wouldn't stay in this horrible country if I were you—not another hour. I thought of it just a minute ago."

"Because I've got to stay here. Because I've leased this rancho and my cattle and my riders are here."

Jack Hadley wished, too, that Lee could go with them, but he did not say so. He knew she wouldn't go, had known it without even broaching the subject. He would have thought less of her if she had deserted Dune and the enterprise to which she was pledged. But he worried about her future, especially if the revolution developed, and he was sorry that he had to desert her just when she seemed to need him.

His reluctance at leaving was so great he could not quite understand it. He had to go, as much on her account as on his own. If he stayed the authorities would find some way of bringing the responsibility home to her. If he fled, taking her car with him, she would be by that very fact acquitted of complicity. But his whole desire was to stay. She was so gallant, such a good sport. She was hard, of course. All good fighters have to be. There did not seem to be anything romantic or sentimental about her. But Jack knew that she was a woman in ten thousand.

"Cold?" Jack asked. "Shall I wrap my slicker around you?"

"No-o," she murmured. "It's this giant cactus. I feel as though I were in a graveyard and the shadowy dead might begin to walk."

"They'd have to run to catch us," he promised her. "And fast, too. See, we're leaving your graveyard behind."

"I feel so safe with you," she said sleepily. "As if I were a little girl and you my big brother. You're not like any one I ever met before. You're different."

"There's a reminiscent sound about that," he said aloud, as though to himself. "Where have I heard it?"

"O, but you are. It's not a line. Do you know, I have a queer feeling that Lee has fallen in love with you? You're just the kind of a man she'd fancy. That's why she was so cross with me a while ago."

She yawned, drowsily.

"Better sleep," he told her.

With one hand he tucked her slicker around her like a blanket. She snuggled down in it and leaned comfortably against his shoulder.

"Aren't you going to kiss me good night?" she asked, tilting her golden head at him with a most inviting smile.

He kissed her.

"Hmp! I don't think much of that as a kiss," she criticized.

"But you're only a kinda big brother. You could forget it sometimes, couldn't you?"

"I've forgotten it already. Is this better?"

She flashed a swift sidelong look at him as she emerged breathless from his embrace. It asked a question, not of him but of herself. Was she playing with fire when she tempted this hard, reckless man to put a sting in his kisses?

"I don't think you need any lessons," she said. "Now you may be a big brother again, please."

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Needs Clothes for Job.

"I have been out of work for months and have finally located a job. That is I'll have the job if I can get some decent clothes to wear. I can't buy them and thought perhaps you could help me get them. I need a suit, size 40, and would appreciate it if you can secure it for me.

"E. M."

If you wear this size it's quite likely that you have a suit now discarded but in better condition than the one E. M. is wearing. It would mean so much to him to have it and get started on the upward climb again.

Trees Suffering from Hot Days, Despite Rains

In spite of three or four heavy rains during the summer and the excess of precipitation for the year that is shown in the weather bureau records, experts in tree planting and tree care expressed concern yesterday over the condition of the shade trees in Chicagoland.

They pointed out that the hot spells that have preceded and followed each downpour have caused tree foliage to start drying up weeks before the normal dormant season. A steady supply of moisture is needed by the trees, they said, not only to enable them to retain their foliage but to store up health and vigor for this fall and winter.

August Koch, chief floriculturist of the west park commission, declared that many elms and maples in the Chicago area are already losing large quantities of foliage although it is not time for them to prepare for dormancy.

"The need for watering is not easy for the amateur to determine," said Mr. Koch. "Cracking of the soil at the base of the tree is not an indication, for many times I have found that four inches beneath the cracked earth there was an excess of water.

"But when leaves turn gray or ash color and droop unnaturally even though they do not appear to be wilting, then it usually is an indication of the need for watering. This is especially important for young and newly planted trees, as the root system usually is not fully established or competent to supply enough moisture during a dry period."

Another point in tree culture described by Mr. Koch is that the falling of foliage at this time of the year is quite natural for catalpas, poplars, and the tree of heaven, as contrasted to the more hardy kinds which turn to dormancy later in the season.

Plantings, old and new, in the forest preserves of Cook county have maintained a steady and healthy growth this summer, according to Charles G. Sauers, superintendent of the preserves. The moisture conditions there are considered more natural than for shade trees in residential sections, he said.

He emphasized that artificial watering would benefit many young as well as stately trees in cities and suburbs where the natural supply of water often is insufficient because drainage from sidewalks and street surfaces has been directed away from the soil feeding area of the roots.

"Watering a tree is a substantial job," was the comment of Mr. Sauers. "It must be remembered that a tree has the facility of permitting barrels of water to evaporate during a day from its foliage. So if watering is to have any effect it must be sufficient to moisten soil to a depth of a foot and not merely at the base of a tree but around the 'crown' or outer root feeding area. Take the nozzle off the hose and let it run gently for hours at a time."

1,038 Members of Ton Family Hold 36th Reunion

One thousand and thirty-eight members of the Ton family yesterday celebrated their thirty-sixth annual reunion with two picnics, the Pacific coast branch of the family meeting in Los Angeles and their eastern relatives meeting in the Thornton forest preserve at Thornton, in the southeastern part of Cook county. The family's American history dates back to John Ton, who came to the United States eighty years ago from Holland.

Prizes were given to the oldest and the youngest representatives of the Tons who attended the gathering in the Thornton forest preserve yesterday, the former being taken by Mrs. H. De Young, 79 years old, of 10948 Wabash avenue, and the latter by Jean Ruth Bethig, 3 months old, who was present with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bethig of 304 East 109th street. Prizes were also awarded for athletic events.

In the last year there have been six new additions to the family and eight deaths. Mr. and Mrs. John Van Kley of Dyer, Ind., the youngest married couple at the gathering, were presented with a cake.

Philippine Islands Called Prosperous, Travel Booster Says

The Philippine Islands are more free from the world-wide depression than any other spot in the world, declared James King Steele, executive secretary of the Philippine Tourist association, a semi-official organization, on his arrival in Chicago. Mr. Steele, traveler and author, also is a fellow of the Royal Geographical Society of London.

A few of the reasons Mr. Steele attributed to the fair prosperity of the 7,083 islands which make up the Philippines, included the fact that the Benguet gold mines at Baguio paid from 25 to 30 per cent dividends last year; that 185,000,000 pounds of coconut oil were shipped here last year, and that the tourist business increased 17 per cent in the year ending June, 1931, over the previous year.

As to the reasons for the tourist increase, Mr. Steele said that persons were just beginning to realize that the Philippines provided the greatest lawful personal freedom to be found anywhere under the American flag. Although the natives are temperate and drink only tuba, made from coconut milk, and that only at festivals, an excellent German beer is the delight of the foreigners on the islands.

Another tourist incentive may be seen in the statement made by Mr. Steele to the effect that there are five unattached men to one woman among foreigners on the islands.

Board of Education Offers Playground Pageantry

Costume pageants and parades by children from 32 public school playgrounds last night marked the close of summer activities of the bureau of recreation of the board of education. Children from 16 north side playgrounds celebrated at Devon avenue and Clark street.

An equal number from the south side paraded their floats at the Midway and Cottage Grove avenue. Peace and international friendliness furnished the motif for the pageants and floats. On Wednesday night, west side children had their celebrations, one at Garfield boulevard and Wood street, and the other in Garfield park.

Just What Is Meant by An 'Engagement,' Asks Worried Youth

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Would you mind explaining just what is meant by an engagement? Is it an engagement if there has been no ring presentation? If you've talked marriage over with a girl, does that give her a claim on you?

"WORRIED JIMMY."

Is it a threatened breach of promise suit, Jimmy? Or, what makes you worried?

The presentation of a ring is not always part of the engagement service. Many couples get engaged, married, and live happily ever afterward without the sparkler. But if a ring has been presented, it is understood that the man has talked marriage seriously and the ring is the symbol of the intention to give marriage a trial. With a ring in her possession, the girl would have concrete evidence that there was the intention to marry her.

Talking marriage over probably is the most universally accepted form of arriving at an engagement. Not generalizing on marriage, of course, but talking and planning marriage with a particular girl. An engagement may exist though no definite date is set for the wedding. But the fact that plans are made for the wedding to take place at some future date is sufficient for the girl to declare herself bound in with the future of the particular man involved.

In some of our sensational breach of promise suits, it seems to be sufficient that a man write passionate letters or poems, and that the girl save them to constitute an "understanding" in the eyes of the jury.

However, if one is thinking of breaking off an engagement, if he wants to get out of marrying a girl that he has talked marriage seriously with, the best gamble is to come clean with the girl.

Thriller of Sea Based Upon Vestris' Sinking

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Two-Fisted Prosperity," by Eddie Dowling [Simon & Schuster]. Published today.

ANOTHER of the short novels which the Scribners Magazine prize of $5,000 brought forth—although it did not win the prize—is "S. S. San Pedro," by James Gould Cozzens. It has won another prize, however, in being chosen by the Book of the Month club as one of its two September books. ("Susan Lenox," by Robert Smith, is the other one.) The "S. S. San Pedro" was its first story published in the prize contest, and it created much comment when it came out. It is practically the story of the tragic sinking of the S. S. Vestris. The S. S. San Pedro leaves New York with a slight list, it runs into a heavy sea on its way to Buenos Aires, and it goes down, just as the Vestris left harbor with a slight list, ran into heavy seas and sank. Mr. Cozzens makes his captain a man with a mortal ailment, fighting death in his own mortal shell before he succumbs to it on the bridge of his boat, and with the same gesture of gruff bravery. As the boat sinks, he buttons his greatcoat about him, settles his gold braided cap more firmly on his head and stands out on the bridge and his apparent absence of fear may give confidence to his passengers.

JAMES GOULD COZZENS.

As the book opens, the captain is asking his second officer to show his motor over the boat—the doctor, the author tells you believe, is none other than old man Death himself. But it is a gay boatload that leaves the harbor. There is no thought of disaster. As the idea of trouble becomes a fear, and then a reality and then a tragedy, the author pictures its effect upon the officers, the crew and the passengers. There is little panic, except among the tourists in the third class, who cannot even be reassured, because they do not understand the language of any one who addresses them. The radio chatters jokes until the boat gives its last plunge. The other officers are as glib and as flippant, but neither are they without absolute poise.

Mr. Cozzens has succeeded in creating, in a brief space, the tense tragedy of a great boat's losing fight against time as it could not, perhaps, have been created at greater length. While "S. S. San Pedro" is not—so it seems to me—a classic, it does justify the belief of the awarders of the prize, Scribners Magazine, in the short novel form. So justified do they feel that they are again offering the prize. They will give another award of $5,000 for the best story between 15,000 and 50,000 words in length written by an American writer [United States and Canada]. The new contest closes July 1, 1932.

And that reminds us of the largest novel prize that has to date been offered. Frederick A. Stokes company, in collaboration with the London publishing house of Hodder & Stoughton, Ltd., will give a prize of $20,000 to the best manuscripts received. The contest is open to any one in any country, but the manuscripts must be written in English. It is the largest prize ever offered for book rights only, since other prizes have included serial rights. The $20,000 is an advance on a book royalty of 15 per cent, and the winner, in addition, will retain the product part of all serial, moving picture, dramatic and other subsidiary rights. Curtis Brown, Ltd., literary agents, are in charge of the contest. Novels by British and European authors are to be submitted to their New York office, 130 West 42d street. At least a year will be allowed the contestants for entering manuscripts.

Another short book—published today—is by old Doc Eddie Cantor's prescription for hard times. "Yoo Hoo Prosperity," he calls it, and into its subtitle is "The Eddie Cantor Five Year Plan." It is written in collaboration with David Freedman. Among the countless panaceas for the depression is this simple suggestion:

"We could have prosperity back in six months if people would sell bananas instead of apples. The reason is simple.

"Apples are healthy and that's that. You eat an apple and you never hear from it again. But the minute you peel a banana things start to happen. Somebody slips on the peel and sells his trousers. That makes business for the cleaner. The cleaner buys more benzine, the output of benzine increases. More people are engaged to extract benzine, to pack it, ship it and deliver it. Larger deliveries create a demand for more motor trucks and automobile companies start turning them out by the thousands.

"Meantime, the man eats another banana, slips again, and before he knows it his pants are torn. That brings in the clothiers, the clothiers bring in their relatives, their relatives start getting married and the furniture business picks up.

New York, Aug. 27.—(AP)—A new dance, difficult to master but a joy to behold, has come to replace the present walk, hop, and drag system of terpsichore.

At least, the country's dancing masters assembled in annual convention here, hope it has.

The merica, as the new style of ballroom locomotion is called, will have its first demonstration before the American Society of Teachers of Dancing tomorrow. Until then, its sponsors decline to say just how it goes, except to hint that it is patterned somewhat after the slinking movements of the tango.

With women reverting to long skirts and a general return of social complexity believed imminent, a whole new vista was opened to the dancing teachers.

It is another stately age that looms just over the threshold of time, they believe, in which gentlemen will again make sweeping bows to their ladies, and the ladies will curtsey demurely as they gather up their skirts and float languorously off in the merica.

"ELUSIVE AS EEL" HAS NEW MEANING AFTER READING THIS

Boston, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The simile "elusive as an eel" is well founded, and you have the word of S. E. Clowser for it. Mr. Clowser is mate of the ketch Atlantis, new scientific vessel of the Woods Hole Oceanographic institution.

Most of the crew were ashore today stretching their legs, for the Atlantis arrived in port from Copenhagen, where it was built, after forty-one days at sea. But Mr. Clowser remained aboard, to receive customs men and others interested in the Atlantis' arrival, and, among other things to discuss eels.

Of course a person who has never seen a baby eel could hardly be expected to show much interest in the tribe. But Mr. Clowser has seen many of them—yanked 'em out of the ocean depths, as jars of "pickled" eels aboard the Atlantis testify.

The chief mystery about eels concerns their breeding place, for it is a well known fact that they do not breed along shore or in fresh water ponds, where they are often caught. The Atlantis made its maiden voyage a scientific cruise, largely in an effort to find the eel breeding place. Mr. Clowser thinks the nursery must be somewhere in mid-Atlantic for there a number of baby eels were taken.

A baby eel does not resemble an eel at all. Shaped like the leaf of a willow tree, it is thin as a piece of paper and so transparent that in the water only its eyes are visible, Clowser says.

Mr. Clowser also displayed numerous jars of grotesque fish taken from great depths. Some of the oddest, which scientists may or may not identify, are equipped with phosphorescent headlights. He suspects one of the species uses his single headlight, carried a bit ahead on a sort of antenna, to lure other fish when he is hungry.

He's Faculty Member at U. of Chicago.

The engagement of Miss Florence Lowden, eldest daughter of Illinois' war governor, Frank O. Lowden, to Dr. C. Phillip Miller, associate professor of medicine at the University of Chicago, was confirmed last night by Miss Lowden in a message from Alexandria Bay, N. Y. She is spending a vacation there with her parents at the family villa in the Thousand islands.

Miss Lowden will return to Chicago next week to make plans for her wedding. It will take place Oct. 20 at Sinnissippi farm, near Oregon, Ill., and will be followed by a European honeymoon, it is understood.

Miss Lowden is a namesake of her mother, who was Florence Pullman, daughter of the late George M. Pullman and Mrs. Pullman, and through her mother is heiress to some of the fortune left by the founder of the Pullman Car company. She was graduated in 1916 from the Westover school at Middlebury, Conn.

Miss Lowden became interested in Egyptology following a trip to the near east two years ago in a party headed by Prof. James H. Breasted of the University of Chicago. She later enrolled at the university as a special student and continued her studies until June of this year.

Dr. Miller was graduated from the University of Chicago in 1917 and from Rush Medical college in 1919. He was a member of the staff of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, in New York, for several years, and also studied in Germany before returning to the University of Chicago as a member of the faculty a year ago. He resides at the Quadrangle club.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 27.—(AP)—A sinister kind of death which overtook 18 frogs in the research laboratories of the Westinghouse company was made public today.

The report states the frogs are believed to have been killed by supersound waves from the explosion of some screw heads being tested in another part of the building.

The frogs were in a glass beaker in the laboratory of Dr. N. Rashevsky, research engineer. They were under observation for biologic-electrical experiments. On a recent Saturday afternoon Dr. Rashevsky had them fed and left them for the week-end. Apparently they were entirely healthy.

All were in one group, just inside a closed window. On the opposite side of the room with a lone nineteenth frog, kept separate because he was sickly.

On Monday morning Dr. Rashevsky found the 18 dead. The feeble frog still was alive, apparently no worse off than on Saturday.

Nothing in the room was disturbed. Investigating, Dr. Rashevsky learned that on Saturday afternoon, in a remote part of the laboratory building, some big screw heads were placed under pressure tests until they burst. They went to pieces with explosions said to resemble the bang of field cannon.

Ottoman Throne Claimant Adjudged Native American

New York, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Emir Mohammed-al-Rashid, claimant to the throne of the Ottoman empire and lineal descendant of the renowned Harun-al-Rashid, was adjudged a native born American in an order signed today by United States Circuit Court Judge Julian W. Mack. For many years Al-Rashid's citizenship has been disputed. He was deported from the United States twice. Although he maintained he was born in Detroit, he found it difficult to make his claim after spending ten years of his boyhood in Turkey.

Six High Schools for Night Students to Open This Fall

Six accredited evening high schools, twice last year's number, will be opened by the board of education when the fall term begins Sept. 21, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Charles J. Lunak, assistant superintendent in charge of evening schools.

Such evening schools are located as follows: Austin, 231 North Pine avenue; Crane, 2246 West Jackson boulevard; Englewood, 6220 Stewart avenue; Fenger, 112th and Wallace streets; Lake View, 4015 North Ashland avenue; Schurz, 3601 Milwaukee avenue. Registration for the evening courses will be held at the several schools on the evenings of Sept. 17 and 18.

Classes will be in session 36 weeks.

THE STAGE

New York, Aug. 27.—[Special.]—The small world that is Broadway and the larger world that is not turned out en masse tonight to provide a capacity audience for the formal opening of the new Earl Carroll theater and the première of its first show, the ninth edition of the "Vanities." It was apparently the verdict of nearly 3,000 spectators, a capacity house, to whom Mr. Carroll kept his promise of a $3 top price for first night seats, that the theater reached a new peak in the novelty and design of its appointments as well as in its size.

Alexander Woollcott, former dramatic critic, will become a Broadway actor in the fall, following the example of his confrère, Heywood Broun. He has been engaged for Francine Larrimore's supporting cast in S. N. Behrman's play, "Brief Moment."

Women Better Than Men in Hay Fever Test

Cheerfully Endure More Actual Discomfort.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

The research work concerning hay fever, being done with the aid of volunteer hay fever experimental subjects at the University of Illinois Research hospital, 1317 West Polk street, has yielded at least one item regarding human behavior.

Amateur theorists long have held that women enjoy detailed discussion of their symptoms and exaggerated their illnesses much more than men possibly could do. Research workers at the hospital revealed yesterday, however, that such is not the case.

Two succeeding groups of eight men suffering from hay fever, seasonal asthma or eczema due to pollen retired for sleep in a pollen free ward in the hospital for experimental observation for four days each. The last group was succeeded by eight women and girls, and they were in turn replaced by eight more women and girls with hay fever Wednesday night.

The women were suffering more severely than the men, due to the fact that the hay fever season was farther advanced. Yesterday's pollen count, for instance, indicating the number of granules in a square yard of air, was 142 in the loop. Only an average of 15 granules is necessary for even the mildest of hay fever sufferers to breathe in enough pollen, to which they are sensitive, to cause sneezing and a swelling, tearful condition of the eyes.

Despite their severe symptoms, the women were a cheerful lot, and complained no more than the men who preceded them had done in the first week of the hay fever season, when a lake breeze largely did away with the unwanted pollen.

So agreeable were the new lot of experimental subjects yesterday that, in the interest of science, they agreed to go out and play tennis in order to work up a splendid case of hay fever. Three of the women have asthma, but declared that shortly after entering the pollen free ward, where a system of filters purifies the air, their wheezing vanished.

Only one of the first eight women failed to become symptom free by the pollenless air in the ward. She had a severe case of seasonal asthma, which is caused when the nose, which protests the annoying pollen in a hay fever case by swelling and secretions, becomes tired of protesting and allows the dreaded pollen to enter the lungs. This woman thought her asthma disappeared after a few hours in the ward, but examination revealed that she still wheezed. Either her lungs contained the pollen in large amounts, so that a longer confinement in pure air was necessary, or they were so accustomed to wheezing that they continued to do so even when it was not necessary, it was surmised.

Tests so far have shown that while the filtered air relieves symptoms absolutely in ordinary hay fever cases, the hay fever victim contracts symptoms half an hour after he leaves the ward.

Physicians in charge of the experiment stressed the fact that filtered air alone will not cure a hay fever victim. It should only be used with treatment in the form of injections of serum made with whatever pollen proteins to which a person is sensitive. These should be made the year around, once every two weeks preferably.

More than 150 persons will be experimented on during the season. This, it was explained, is because the hospital treats only destitute persons. The present experiment is only for research purposes.

560 U. of C. Students to Receive Degrees on the Midway Today

Degrees will be conferred on 560 University of Chicago students this afternoon in the University chapel, at the university's 165th convocation. In the absence of President Hutchins, who is now en route from Italy, Dr. Gordon J. Laing, dean of the humanities division, will preside and confer the degrees.

More than 3,500 students began their final examinations for the summer quarter yesterday. Following the close of the quarter today the university's formal activities will be suspended until Sept. 23 when freshman week for the autumn quarter will begin.

Dr. Paul Shorey, professor of Greek in the university and a member of the faculty since 1892, will deliver the convocation address today on "Rhetoric and Education." Five deans will present the candidates to the presiding officer.

Of the 560 candidates 360 will be receiving their second or third degree. An unusually large number of new doctors of philosophy—79—will be created. The degrees are classified as follows:

Bachelors of arts, science or philosophy, 197; bachelors of laws, 3; bachelors of divinity, 2; masters of arts or science, 211; doctors of laws, 12; doctors of jurisprudence, 1; doctors of medicine, 32; four year certificates in medicine, 23; doctors of philosophy, 79.

3 YEAR OLD BOYS ARE CALLED BEST TALKERS, BUT GIRLS BRIGHTER

New York, Aug. 27.—[Special.]—Although 3 year old girls can boast of having more intelligence than boys, the boy of that age tends to excel in the art of spontaneous conversation. So Dr. Janet Fowler Nelson, research worker at teachers college, Columbia university, disclosed today in announcing the results of her survey on "personality and intelligence" of nursery children.

Taking 91 baby boys and girls as her subjects, Dr. Nelson attempted to ascertain the degree of correlation between spontaneous conversation, resistance, persistence, activity, and initiative, and intelligence. During the "examinations," stenographers hidden away nearby recorded the child's responses, in this way getting complete records of the child's reactions.

Besides being better talkers than girls, the boys showed greater activity and initiative. They displayed a more lively interest in immediate environments and in other ways created a seemingly better "uninhibited, extraverted personality" than did the girls.

Dr. Nelson found also the children who showed stronger resistance to the tests were less intelligent than those more willing to coöperate with the examiner. Children who displayed persistence, measured by the time spent at a form board without obtaining a successful solution within a given interval, were found to have a higher intelligence score.

County Expects Winter to Crowd Big Hospital

After a survey of county hospital buildings yesterday a committee of medical men and county officials declared that the county hospital will be unable to handle alone the cost of the increased sickness expected during the coming winter.

The committee was conducted about the hospital by Dr. Frederick Tice, head of the medical department, and was accompanied by Dr. Karl Meyer, medical warden; Dr. Ole Nelson, assistant medical warden; Emmett Whealan, president of the county board, and others.

It was found that the number of patients already is greater than usual at this time of year. The hospital now has 1,300, an increase of 300 over the usual number at this season. The committee predicted that the buildings would be filled to their capacity of 3,300 this winter.

"The malnutrition and unhygenic conditions which always accompany depressions will result in increased disease. This burden will have to be assumed by the county hospital," Dr. Meyer said, following the survey.

Mr. Whealan declared that the county funds are inadequate to meet the situation and that it is impossible to add any more revenue.

"There is practically no sale for 1931 tax anticipation warrants, although some creditors have taken some. I cannot see any way of meeting the emergency of this fall and winter without special relief from the governor's commission or from some other source.

"The appropriation for the poor was $650,000 and $1,000,000 has been spent. Fees from the various county offices have been cut in half by the depression. Other clinics in the county have been unable to handle the increase in sickness so it falls on the county hospital."

In the wards for tubercular patients the committee found that 306 of the 308 beds now are occupied. Dr. Tice added the information that 1,400 beds are occupied in the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium. He also is head of that, and 640 persons are on its waiting list.

Ryves' New Comet Flashes Over U. S.; Vanishes Into Space

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Ryves' comet, a newly discovered wanderer of the solar system, flashed over the United States today and on into outer space, probably never to return.

The naval observatory said the comet, a ball of white hot gas, speeding at fully 100 miles per second and perhaps even faster, probably was not visible to the naked eye anywhere in the United States.

It has been seen through telescopes at Yerkes observatory, Williams Bay, Wis., and the University of California observatory at Berkeley. P. M. Ryves, a British amateur astronomer, discovered the comet Aug. 14 with a small telescope at Saragosa, Spain.

The best chance of seeing the comet with the naked eye, the observatory said, is at sunrise or sunset. It would appear as a small star, but the gaseous tail that trails behind it would not be visible.

The comet passed closest to the sun, within 7,000,000 miles, on Aug. 26, the observatory reported.

Eleanor Hoyt, Aviatrix, A. F. Dupont Wed Today

Hyannis, Mass., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—Miss Eleanor Hoyt, heiress to the $50,000,000 estate of the late Galen Stone, and A. Felix du Pont Jr., scion of the Wilmington, Del., Du Ponts and heir to $60,000,000, will hop from the airport tomorrow for a secret destination after their wedding at the bride's estate in Marion.

Their honeymoon seaplane will be a gift from the bride's father, Richard F. Hoyt, a founder of the Curtiss-Wright corporation. The wedding will culminate a romance of flying fields. Miss Hoyt is the only girl except Mrs. Lindbergh to have piloted Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. Du Pont formerly was a $20 a week clerk at the Ludington Airlines, Washington, where he showed passengers to planes.

The couple first met at the dinner dance in New York which preceded Miss Hoyt's debut. They made an appointment to fly together. It was the forerunner of many flights.

A restoration of the coal age with its luxuriant carboniferous forests and strange primeval animal life of over 250 million years ago was opened to the public at the Field Museum of Natural History yesterday.

The exhibit represents a landscape of the so-called Pennsylvania period when the land flora of the paleozoic era was reaching its culmination in vast swamps that covered much of the territory then raised above the sea in the northern hemisphere.

In Europe and in northern Asia, as well as in North America, these forests gave rise in the course of time to the enormous accumulations of plant materials that now constitute the world's principal coal beds.

The exhibit, according to authorities at the museum, is the result of the first serious effort ever made to recreate in three dimensional form a sufficiently large assemblage of the flora and fauna of the carboniferous age to produce an actual restoration of a scene in a primeval forest.

Sally's Party Enjoys Show Puppets Give; Views "Back Stage"

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Little mechanical figures, in gayly colored costumes, with droll faces or jolly faces or sad faces or just faces in keeping with the part it undertook, made up the cast of "Rumpetstiltskin" when my hundred young guests and I met at Shotwell hall in 55th street yesterday afternoon to see Mobet's Puppets for our regular Thursday party.

It was the first time many of us had ever been to a puppet show and so we wondered just what it was going to be like. However, long before the curtains were drawn together after the first act we were confirmed fans and we felt that more people ought to know about this amusing kind of entertainment.

There was Tito, the clown, who spoke to us just like a real person and welcomed us to the party. There was the stuttering page and the scheming miller who complained about his rheumatism all the while he made plans for marrying his daughter to the king. The king, himself, a majestic figure in a black velvet tunic and gold crown, sat upon his throne with all the dignity and splendor one expects of a royal personage out of Grimm's fairy tales. Then came the beautiful daughter of the miller. Her hair was flaxen and her voice was fluttering and even if she weren't able to spin straw into gold as her father declared we couldn't see how the king could possibly resist her. The villain appeared next—that strange, little man with the wizened face and the pointed cap and the voice that was shrill one moment and guttural the next. He appeared out of nowhere and his entrance was always preceded by the most weird laugh.

One of the extremely delightful points of the party was that after the performance, Morisse Wagner, director of Mobet's Puppets, took us backstage so that we might see just how the puppets were operated.

Fear of the Bathtub Is Something to Be Gently Disciplined

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

In an article by a man whose profession consists of teaching adults to swim the fact was brought forward again and again that one of the hardest things for a person to do in learning is to free himself from all support and how terror seizes him when he does. He speaks of man doing an unnatural thing when he tries to make water his element.

So with this in mind—the fear of loss of support which is inherent, and the element of strangeness that so often alarms children—it is not surprising that mothers so often have trouble getting their babies used to the big bathtub. We have had several letters declaring how real terror has been overcome by the mother's ingenuity—one important item being, of course, to use little water at first so there is no overbalancing.

Here is one more device which may help you if other things have failed:

"My boy, about the age of seven months, outgrew his bathtub, but when I attempted to use the large tub he was frightened beyond control on several occasions.

"So I used his own tub a few days more, as usual, and then one day I picked him up—tub and all—and set them down within the big tub. Surprise followed this unusual procedure, but I quickly attracted his attention to his usual bath toys and customary surroundings otherwise, and all went well. I did this several days straight—then I put water in the big tub before the transfer and after the transfer directed his attention to the water outside his own tub.

"After following this course several days I lifted him out of his own tub into the big tub but did not remove his own tub. The next day or two I placed him immediately in the big tub beside his own tub and there as a last step removed his tub one day during the bath. Each step was gradual and never once did he show his former fear. From then on he was bathed in the big tub without the least hesitancy on his part.

"I have to this day a dread of water and have a vivid recollection of the terrifying encounters with water either in a bath or a hair wash, and of the little water soaked stool without which I would not venture into the bathtub. I really believe I saved my son just such a horror by the patience and forethought of the above procedure."

Evening Gown of Silk Adds Velvet Sleeves.

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The equalizing of differences between afternoon and evening clothes goes on mightily in Paris. Except for the length of the skirt it is hard to tell at a glance which is which. This equalization creates a new kind of style, a dress that can be very formal, or just as informal as you like. This style is here, methinks, for some years to come. It is so practical, and certainly fills what was an aching void in many women's wardrobes.

Jeanne Lanvin, one of whose models in this new class is sketched today, has done us a great service by creating such a style, and supplying to it her exquisite taste. The pictured frock deserves praise in the superlative sense for its complete simplicity, its dignity, and its real elegance. It is the kind of dress that can be worn to an informal restaurant dinner, or to a formal affair. It is ideal for the hostess, or for the Sunday evening guest.

The bodice of this dress has the flattering Greek draped neckline and short kimono sleeves, to which are attached long loose sleeves of black velvet, that make an exquisite contrast to the tint blue of the frock. The skirt is made of bias bands of the blue crêpe placed diagonally to the hipline and then straight below that. They flare markedly about half way down the skirt.

Fat or No Fat, She's Going to Wear Her Pajamas in Public

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

She dares me to publish this letter, so here goes!

"Regarding your article on only slender and graceful women wearing pajamas in public:

"What could be more modest? I suppose your idea is a nun's outfit. I'm surprised you don't suggest burning fat women at the stake. Aren't we entitled to anything comfortable or chic? After all, this fat business is all in your mind's eye. Thirty years ago the women with 'vulgarity of form' were considered beautiful, you know.

"Listen, there'll be fat women always. Fat because they were made that way. I should know. I've exercised under one of the biggest reducing specialists, dieted, taken reducing baths—nearly ruined my health, and I'm still vulgar looking and gaining. Your exercises are sugar coated pills compared to the bitter ones I've taken.

"But to get back to the subject: I know oodles of people who think pajamas are quite proper for fat, thin, and perfect women. Into the latter class I suppose you think you belong in your own mind. But no matter how horrified you may be, I shall continue to wear loose, comfortable pajamas that help me hide my mill post legs so I can cross my knees without showing vast expanses of bare skin.

"Some people surely get the breaks. You, for instance! Instead of figuring out beauty aids for all of us, we must be perfect thirty-sixes before you will do anything for us. And you get paid for it. Why don't you get a scrub bucket and try cleaning floors?

"Again, I say, I dare you to publish this letter. MAD."

Now, I dare you one. You come around here some day and look my mail over and see if you have to be a thirty-six before you get a break. Come in your pajamas, if you want to. I won't mind—if you don't. But don't accuse me of suggesting that fat women be burned at the stake. I might get scorched myself. But I still hold that there are certain types of dress that are beautifully becoming to the plump, and pajamas are one of them.

Good morning!
Honestly, you ought to go over to Woods'!
Whether you shout with the theory of evolution, or against it, you can't fail to be engrossed in the pictorial treatise on the subject for which Clarence S. Darrow, famous criminal lawyer, is responsible.
"The Mystery of Life" is one movie that has in no way "gone Hollywood"; but is one of the most absorbing productions that has ever come out of Hollywood. It has no "it" and nary a bit of hokum. Of heart interest it is peculiarly free. As for subtleties, well, that's them if you can among the anthropoidas, apes, bipeds, Java men and the mud from which these sprang. The picture's "punch" lies solely in Mr. Darrow's oral contribution which consists of questions thoughtfully propounded and comment caustic, kindly and informative, addressed to Dr. H. M. Parshley, professor of zoology at Smith college. The latter answers the questions to the best of his ability and responds to the comment with instructive remarks of his own. You are given occasional glimpses of the two men holding this converse in a book-lined library.
Says the one time defender of Leopold and Loeb and the man who rooted for apes versus Adam in the famous Tennessee Scopes "monkey trial," re: the activities of some bees discovered wonderfully working together for a common weal:
"If they were men they'd slay each other." And, again, concerning the relationship between fossils and the crib:
"I know some fossils who are like crags . . ." And so on. Nice! It brightens things up.
The movie starts out with the beginnings of the earth. You see the hot mass as it was after cooling into the mountains and waters all set for the business of the ages. From the mud life emerges, breathing through gills, laying eggs . . . Come the first mammals to be anatomically compared with man. You may not think you look like a horse and probably you don't, but peel you and the horse, stand horsie's skeleton next to yours and—you'd be surprised! You also will see the equine hoof as evolutionists believe it once was [a three-fingered business] and will note with interest if not with pride the resemblance between the ape and the Neanderthal, or lowest form of man.
The picture, a fulfillment of an idea Mr. Darrow has had in mind for years, is an intelligently compiled work prepared for the consideration of thinking people. The dust lecture is simply delivered and compels attention. Continuity and photography are excellent. What should make a big hit is the fact that no attempt is made by Mr. Darrow to force his belief down the other fellow's throat—meaning yours and mine. He just tells you what looks reasonable to him and leaves you with a smile and the feeling that you and he had a nice, comfortable, instructive pow wow on a subject regarding which you are both ready to admit you really KNOW nothing.
I've been trying to decide—without result—why the censors have decreed this unusual production for "Adults Only." THEY are the mystery of life to me.
See you soon!

Women Plan Tennis Show at Onwentsia

BY THALIA.

THE women's tennis committee at Onwentsia announces an interesting show for Sunday afternoon. Mrs. James Herbert Mitchell and Charles S. Garland will oppose Miss Mary Reed and William H. Corker in an exhibition mixed doubles match and afterwards Mr. Mitchell and William Hinchliffe are to play a doubles match with Mr. Garland and Louis Volpe.

Mrs. Mitchell won the women's championship in the recent tournament held at Onwentsia, and Miss Reed, daughter of Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, is one of the first ranking players of the club. Mr. Garland is a former Davis cup team player, and it is through him, if I'm not mistaken, that arrangements were made for the appearance of Bill Tilden and a team of pros in the recent matches at the Onwentsia courts.

The Tavern has decided to cancel its supper dance it had scheduled for Friday evening. There are too many people out of town.

Archaeology Gains Attention of Several Society Girls.

Archaeology has attracted several prominent members of society to the ranks of its students in the last few years. First there was the former Miss Angela Johnston, now Mrs. Willard C. Boyden, who spent a couple of years digging in Greece and the Near East. This summer Miss Betty Moore, the Charles Daniel Freys' daughter, has been on an excavating expedition with Prof. Henry H. Cole of the University of Chicago near Peoria collecting specimens of Indian skeletons for the 1933 fair, and Miss Caroline Bush became so interested in the work of some university students on the Bush ranch in Texas that she started on a "dig" of her own and unearthed a quite important bone. The latest recruit is Hal Noble, who has decided to desert the business world and make the science his life work. He plans to quit his job at once this fall and will study for his master's degree at the University of Chicago this coming year. He's very interested in the subject for some time, and last winter he took one of the courses at the U. of C. He's interested mostly in the field work, and after about a year of study he'll be ready to set forth on one of the expeditions to various remote parts of the world where such work is being carried on.

Polly Rea collection . . . The Wilson J. Chalmers, Dr. Frank Billings, and the Frank Hibbards were among the guests at the wedding of Miss Polly Thacher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Thacher of New York, and George L. Storm, also of New York, one of the social highlights of the season, which took place at Lake Hill last week. . . . Mrs. Robert Smith has been visiting Mrs. Frank Hibbard at Watch Hill. . . . Mrs. James L. Ferguson of Evanston has departed for a cruise along the Dalmatian coast, to be gone until October. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Cloyd Head will close their summer place in northern Minnesota on Sept 1 and will return to the Surf hotel. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Guthrie of Winnetka have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Harold Glahn Frank, who are occupying the Charles A. Heath summer place at Harbor Springs, Mich. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Charles Piez of the Shoreland have returned from visits in Swampscott, Mass., and Chesham, N. H.

Margaret W. Palmer Wed in Canada on Sunday.

The marriage of Miss Margaret W. Palmer, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Albert Wentworth Palmer, to Chester Ballou Fisk took place on Sunday, Aug. 16, at Indian Cove, Desbarats, Canada. The bride's father, the father of the groom, the Rev. Charles S. Fisk of Cleveland, and the Rev. James Cowan of Desbarats officiated. The wedding was out of doors under the pine trees. The matron of honor, Mrs. Joseph Ferguson King Jr., and the bridesmaids, Miss Frances Hubbard and Mrs. Walter Giersbach, wore dresses of organdies in autumn pastel shades, and the bride wore pastel organdie garlanded in white. The bride's father is president of the Chicago Theological seminary. The groom is a graduate of Princeton and has recently returned from a year's study in Berlin.

Invitations are in the mail for the marriage of Miss Leslie Thorne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Thorne, to Dewey Lockwood Pierce of New York City on Thursday afternoon, Sept. 17. The service is to be read at 5 o'clock at the residence of Miss Thorne's brother and sister-in-law, the Hallett Thornes in Winnetka. A reception will follow. Miss Thorne is busy with wedding plans and preparations. Her fiancé, who is a yacht broker [I remember somebody saying that the romance began at the launching of the Thornes' new yacht, the Halonia, last spring], will arrive here the Saturday before the wedding, and there will be some out of town people in the wedding party to come on a day or two before, so most of the parties will be squeezed into the final week.

Sorority Convention.

Seventy-five members of Sigma Alpha Iota, national music fraternity, will leave Chicago tonight on the North Western limited for Minneapolis for the 21st national convention to be held at the Hotel Raddison on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

BRIDE

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Hutchinson of 7311 Harvard avenue announce the marriage of their daughter, Dorothy, to John H. Garland. The bride and groom are graduates of the University of Chicago. After Oct. 1 they will reside in Columbus, O. There Mr. Garland is an instructor at the state university.

Gaudy Birds Perch on Hats for the Fall

New York, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Birds of a feather—chiefly from vivid tropical haunts—are perching this season on sensational hits of millinery.

Brilliant green and red parrots, birds of paradise, parakeets, egrets, and marabou are flying high. The farmyard contributes hen and rooster, pheasant, turkey, duck and goose feathers, which are used the way they are or dyed and curled. Ostrich is most popular.

Tallyho green, Spanish tile, and provincial blue, unadulterated colors with new names, are bright spots for the autumn outdoor scene. They come in two piece daytime suits of wool or jersey, worn with equally gay contrasting colors.

Hand knitted sweaters with fancy vestee insets, belted, and hip length or shorter, are conducive to daytime chic.

Hosiery is like wisps of cobweb and a dark brownish or blackish color. A rusty iron shade is good, and sheer black mesh is ultra smart for evening.

Evening wraps in three lengths are generally of velvet in black, green, and deep gem and vineyard colors. White chiffon velvet blouses embroidered in silver are shown for formal evening occasions.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—The German ambassador, Frederick W. von Prittwitz und Gaffron, gave a dinner last evening at the Mayflower in honor of the German flyer, Ernest Udet.

The new ambassador from Chile, Don Miguel Cruchaga, was given a dinner last evening at the Shoreham by the military attaché of the embassy and Señora de Carnas.

The Turkish ambassador returned here tonight from Boston. There he attended the reception to Russell Boardman and John Polando, the flyers who made the first nonstop flight from this country to Turkey.

The new minister from Egypt, Sesostris Sidarouss Pasha, was the guest for whom the first secretary of the legation and Mme. Ali Ismail gave a buffet supper this evening.

ENGAGEMENT

Mrs. Charles Woodward of 306 South Scoville avenue, Oak Park, announces the engagement of her daughter, Charlotte Anne, to Harold Patrick O'Connell of 3750 Sheridan, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. P. J. O'Connell. Miss Woodward is a graduate of the University of Illinois class of 1925. Mr. O'Connell attended Northwestern university.

City's Catholic Women to Give Luncheon at Palmer House Oct. 12

The Council of Catholic Women of the archdiocese of Chicago will hold its fall assembly luncheon on Oct. 12 at the Palmer house. This was announced yesterday by the Rt. Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, bishop auxiliary of Chicago and the founder and director of the council.

The Rev. Daniel A. Lord, S. J., editor of Queen's Work, and a nationally known sodality organizer, will be the chief speaker. A report will be given on the summer school and retreat work of the council. The occasion also will mark the first birthday of the council and Cardinal George Mundelein, who has sponsored the group since its first public function, will be present.

The luncheon will be held two weeks after the diocese-wide membership campaign, which is planned for the first Sunday in October. At that time an exchange of pulpits throughout the diocese will be made and a visiting priest will talk at each mass, explaining the plans and accomplishments of the council.

Federated Charities Tag Day Monday, Sept. 14

The eleventh annual tag day of the Chicago Federated charities will be held on Monday, Sept. 14, Miss L. Ellen Babcock, president of the organization since its inception, announced yesterday.

The tag day is endorsed by the Association of Commerce and authorized by the city council. Forty-five institutions devoted to the care of children and the dependent aged will share in the proceeds. Many of these institutions, Miss Babcock pointed out, obtain their principal revenue for the year from the tag day.

GOV. ROOSEVELT URGES UPSTATE NEW YORK QUIZ

Bills to Push Tammany Inquiry Passed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, Aug. 27.—[Special.]—The presidential fortunes of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt [Dem.] became further embroiled today in bitter debate and partisan action at the special session of the state legislature.

Within a few moments after the senate and assembly had both passed bills conferring the power of granting immunity to the Hofstadter committee investigating the Tammany controled New York city government, Gov. Roosevelt sent a surprise message to the legislature proposing that upstate Republican counties also be investigated. The second inquiry, if it is authorized, will be conducted by an independent committee, leaving the Hofstadter group free to prosecute its hunt for Tammany graft.

Democrats Against Governor.

The vote on the immunity bills which were supported by Gov. Roosevelt brought a curious lineup of legislators. In the senate the membership consists of 26 Republicans and 23 Democrats. All of the Republicans and one lone Democrat voted for the Roosevelt bills, whereas 22 of the 23 Democrats stood against their governor.

The immunity bills passed the assembly by votes of 79 to 68 and 78 to 69, largely along party lines.

The reason for this show of front is the influence of Tammany. The Democrats contended that the purpose of the Hofstadter committee is not merely to expose graft but to crucify Tammany. The governor, caught between two fires, first slapped Tammany in the face by refusing to extend the authority of the Hofstadter committee over certain Republican counties upstate where graft is alleged. This slapping of Tammany was heralded as a definite break between the Democratic presidential aspirant and Tammany.

Presents Surprise Message.

The Republicans were jubilant, but their jubilance did not last for long. The governor had messengers waiting in the lobby for the final votes on the passage of the immunity bills. As soon as the votes were announced, the messengers stepped forth with the governor's surprise package, in the form of a special message proposing to encompass through another method what the governor had declined to undertake by an extension of the jurisdiction of the Hofstadter committee. The Republicans were caught unawares, while some of the Democrats seemed to have fore knowledge, for they promptly introduced bills creating the upstate commission and appropriating $150,000 to defray the expenses.

Around these new bills will center a word battle that may have reverberations in political circles throughout the United States. Tammany appears to have been pacified by the governor's action, and pending future developments, he is again back in the good graces of the wigwam, and threats to prevent his nomination for the presidency have been soft pedaled.

Thirteen Counties Specified.

The counties specified in the Democratic bill are: Broome, Columbia, Cortland, Dutchess, Erie, Greene, Monroe, Nassau, Onondaga, Orange, Saratoga, Schnectady and Suffolk, together with "different cities, towns and villages therein."

Larceny, mismanagement of public funds and widespread irregularities in upstate counties were charged by Senator Dunnigan and Assemblyman Steingut in a letter to Gov. Roosevelt.

In Erie county, the leaders said, the controler's audit had proceeded only as far as the small town of Amherst, and it had revealed evidence to show that the taxpayers had lost "thousands of dollars due to the illegal acts of taxpayers."

"In the city of Buffalo itself," said the letter, "the taxpayers have been for some time crying for an investigation of public funds, having been aroused by evidence of maladministration."

In Saratoga county, the letter said, the controller's investigation had revealed widespread irregularities "almost beyond belief." The controller's report, according to the letter, disclosed that the surrogate, county clerk and sheriff were holding office illegally and that funds had been mismanaged.

"Conditions Shocking."

In Orange county, the leaders insisted, "shocking conditions" had been discovered by the controller.

In Dutchess county, the letter asserted, taxpayers had begun an uprising which resulted in filing of charges against the county engineer and the board of supervisors.

The minority leaders charged that in Green county, were Jack Diamond formerly held sway, graft and corruption were widespread.

Regarding the home county of Mr. Macy, Republican state chairman, the letter said:

"Suffolk county—The controller's examiners are still at work in this county. Already they have disclosed the fact that in the town of Brookhaven the receiver of taxes, the town clerk, and the supervisors are involved in a financial mess that has cost the taxpayers thousands of dollars."

"Punish Brutal Police, but Don't Prejudge"—Hoover

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—Police brutality was again a major topic in the national capital today as the President, members of congress, and city officials issued pronouncements demanding punishment for those guilty "if the laws of humanity in the treatment of criminals had been overstepped."

THOS. D. THACHER. [(C) H. & E.]

In a letter to Acting Attorney General Thomas D. Thacher, President Hoover stressed the necessity of according punishment if the third degree charges made against the police are proved, but cautioned citizens against prejudging the police force "on the basis of the allegations of criminals and those charged with crime."

"I am glad to approve," wrote Mr. Hoover, "in the special circumstances of the federal government's relation to the District of Columbia that the department of justice should accede to the request of the district commissioners for aid in investigation of recent charges against certain members of the Washington police.

"However, we must not overlook the fact that Washington has an able and devoted police force. The vast majority of its honest men should be protected by determining if there are unworthy men in their midst.

Warns of Prejudging.

"It is always possible that occasional individuals may overstep the law and humanity in treatment of criminals and those charged with crime, and, if so, they should be severely punished. But even in such cases the police should not be prejudged on the allegations of criminals themselves or those accused of crime.

"There is too much tendency on the part of some people to forget the devoted work of the police, to forget the safety of society and the victims of criminals out of sympathy with criminals themselves."

Following the White House letter Representative Will R. Wood [Rep., Ind.], chairman of the house appropriations committee, told reporters that as chairman of the appropriations committee he would act to stop pay of policemen found guilty of third degree practices in event these men were not fired from the force.

Congressman Gives Views.

"Here we are in the capital," said Mr. Wood, "supposed to set an example for the rest of the country. If we in congress holding the purse strings, making the laws, and having exclusive jurisdiction wink at brutal, high handed, inhuman third degree methods in the police force, what respect can there be for laws we make?

"With a crime wave sweeping the country we must be especially careful to keep thugs and blackjack artists and hijackers and racketeers out of our police force."

W. W. Bride, corporation counsel, promised witnesses that there would be no police reprisals against persons appearing to testify against policemen charged with subjecting prisoners to the third degree.

Arrangements are now being made to place such evidence of police brutality as can be obtained before a special grand jury next week. The bureau of investigation of the department of justice is now digging up evidence.

One newspaper reported today that some time ago a grand jury was told that two sons of a congressman had been beaten by a local police officer.

Inquest to Be Held Today Into Slaying of Janitor

An inquest will be held at the county morgue today into the death of Jerry Brosnan, 65 years old, 1802 West North avenue, a janitor, who was shot yesterday by Santiago Rivera, 25 years old, 1810 West North avenue. Rivera told the police he had shot Brosnan because the janitor had attacked his mother.

HEAD OF DEFUNCT SECURITIES HOUSE GETS JAIL TERM

Municipal Judge Jay A. Schiller yesterday sentenced David L. Johnson, president of the defunct Fairfax Securities company, which last year had offices at 105 West Monroe street, to serve three months in the county jail and pay a $1,000 fine for selling securities not licensed by the state securities commission.

George T. Dougherty, 6833 Anthony avenue, a deaf mute, testified through an interpreter that he gave Johnson $6,000 worth of gold bonds to invest and later was given back $3,000 and some worthless shares of Johnson's company.

ARMED POLICE PATROL LISBON AFTER UPRISING

LISBON, Aug. 27.—The last desultory rifle and machine gun fire, which began at 7 a. m. yesterday in an attempt to overthrow the Antonio Carmona dictatorship, died away early this morning with a complete failure of revolutionary efforts. Castello Saint Jorge, situated on a high hill overlooking Lisbon which served at one point for the revolutionaries to entrench themselves was bored with shell holes and all the windows were broken. The casualties are reported at 50 dead and more than 250 wounded. Houses at various points in the city show the effects of the shell fire and Avenida Liberdade, the principal thoroughfare, was strewn with tree branches cut off by bullets.

Bombs and grenades dropped in the Alfama by an avaitor with the revolutionaries destroyed a building and killed and wounded several citizens. The city now presents a peaceful and orderly aspect though it is heavily patrolled by police armed with rifles.

VATICAN SEEKS NEW PACT WITH SPAIN AT PARLEY

MADRID, Aug. 27.—(AP)—It was stated in high Catholic circles here tonight that Papal Nuncio Tedeschini has been negotiating with the Republican government for a modification of the church and state clauses in the projected new Spanish constitution, with the purpose of formulating a new concordat with Rome. In these circles it was said the government had shown a desire to compromise with the church. Under the proposed concordat, it was said, the church and state would be separated, but Spanish Catholics would be guaranteed the constitutional right to practice their religion.

HELD ON FIVE ROBBERY CHARGES.

Michael Romano, 23 years old, 2013 Webster avenue, captured the day after he overpowered a lockup keeper and escaped from the Shakespears avenue police station two weeks ago, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $50,000 yesterday on five charges of robbery.

POPULATION CENTER OF NATION WITHIN 3 MILES OF LINTON, IND.

Linton, Ind., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The United States census bureau announced today at Washington that the fifteenth decennial census figures place the population center of the United States at a point 2.9 miles northeast of here.

The 1920 center was 8.2 miles south by southeast of Spencer, Ind., so within the ten year period it has traveled 22.3 miles west and 7.6 miles south.

The population center from 1790 to 1930 has moved westward 589 miles. It was located at the time of the first census 23 miles east of Baltimore, Md.

Boy Leaps from Flaming Balloon in Chute; Unhurt

ANOTHER SLAIN IN NEW YORK ON A BUSY STREET

New York, Aug. 27.—[Special.]—More than 300 suspected criminals have been jailed in the last three days in Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney's anti-gangster drive, but a man walking down a Brooklyn street this afternoon was fatally shot by a gunman who vanished as quickly as he had appeared around a corner.

The victim was John Broncaccio, 35 years old, of Brooklyn. One of three shots fired at close range struck him in the back and he died an hour later.

On July 7, Broncaccio was arrested and charged with the murder of two men whose bodies had been found a few hours before in President street and in Carroll street. He was discharged, however, for lack of evidence.

Gratified, Mr. Mulrooney planned to continue the drive until permanent benefits have been attained.

Two men who, police assert, were convicted with "Legs" Diamond's Catskill mob were arrested in Brooklyn, as were two other men with long criminal records.

Chicagoans in Easy Victories.

Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City, trans-Mississippi golf champion, yesterday defeated Mrs. George W. Tyson of Kansas City, defending champion, one up to enter the semi-finals of the women's western golf championship play at Exmoor Country club. The match was the most closely contested battle the first three rounds of match play have produced. Today Mrs. Hill will meet Miss Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, who reached the semi-final round by eliminating Mrs. Charles Dennehy of Chicago, 4 and 3.

Miss June Beebe, western open champion, defeated Mrs. John Arends, Detroit, 6 and 5, and today meets Mrs. Leona Pressler of Los Angeles, who won, 4 and 3, from Miss Helen MacMorran, Indian Hill.

Mrs. Tyson in Early Lead.

Mrs. Tyson made an early bid to retain her title by sinking a 20 foot put for a birdie four to go one up on the 1st hole. Par fives halved in 5s. On the 3d Mrs. Tyson's second shot died in the lake and Mrs. Hill's five won the hole. At the 4th Mrs. Tyson required four to get on and went one down. The next two holes were halved in par fives. At the 7th Mrs. Tyson took three to Mrs. Hill's four to square the match. Mrs. Tyson went one up with par four on the 8th, while Mrs. Hill was three putting. They halved the ninth, leaving Mrs. Tyson 1 up at the turn.

They took par 5's on the 10th and 11th and halved the 11th and 12th. Then Mrs. Hill squared the match at the 13th with a par three when Mrs. Tyson's tee shot landed in the lake, but went one up at the 14th when Mrs. Tyson picked up after reaching the green in five. Both had long tee shots on the dog leg 15th, but Mrs. Tyson required only one putt for a birdie four and evened the count while Mrs. Hill was taking five.

Miss Beebe Wins.

They halved the 16th with sixes and the 17th with fives, going to the 18th all even. Both reached the green in three but Mrs. Tyson's putt rolled beyond the cup while Mrs. Hill sank a six footer for a birdie 4 to eliminate the defending champion.

In the Beebe-Arends match the first three holes were halved. Miss Beebe won the 4th when Mrs. Arends was trapped, but lost the next when Mrs. Arends sank a long putt for a birdie two. Miss Beebe's five on the 6th set her 1 up and three consecutive wins gave her a 4 up lead at the turn. She lost the tenth when she three-putted, but reestablished her 4 up lead on the eleventh with a birdie two. A par four on the 12th gave her another hole, and the match closed at the 15th, 6 and 5, when Mrs. Arends' drive caught the water. Cards:

Mrs. Pressler's birdies on the second, third, and fourth holes gave her a 3 up lead over Miss MacMorran immediately. She halved the fifth, then the match, after Mrs. Pressler's three putts had reduced her lead on the sixth.

Mrs. Dennehy Loses.

Mrs. Pressler regained her 3 up lead at the eighth with a par 4, and they halved the ninth, as well as the tenth, eleventh, and twelfth holes. Miss MacMorran conceded the thirteenth, and won the fourteenth with a par 4. Another birdie 4 on the fifteenth gave Mrs. Pressler the match, 4 and 3.

Miss Van Wie was out in 40 to be three up on Mrs. Dennehy at the turn. A birdie four on the 10th made it 4 up, but she dropped the 11th to Mrs. Dennehy's par four when she found a trap. She won the 12th with a par four and increased her lead to 5 up at the 13th, with a par three when Mrs. Dennehy landed in the lake. Mrs. Dennehy scored a par four on the 15th, but without Miss Van Wie's advantage to 4 holes. Par fives on the 15th completed the match, 4 and 3. Cards:

SunBeauHere; It's Strictly a Business Call

BY FRENCH LANE.

With luggage consisting of little more than an overnight bag, old Sun Beau, the plutocrat of the turf, stepped off his palatial express car at Lincoln Fields yesterday ready to fill his engagement in the $25,000 added Lincoln handicap tomorrow afternoon.

"Looked just like a traveling man dropping in at Oil City, Okla., in an effort to sell some of his wares," remarked George Markham, who got up extra early yesterday morning and deserted that part of Chicago around Congress street and Wabash avenue, where he is sort of a race horse sage, to serve as an official greeter when the turf's champion money winner arrived.

"Never saw a horse that looked more fit," he continued. "Probably he could run to the Rocky mountains and back without taking a long breath. He seems to know when there is a big pot of gold at stake. At least he looked that way when he got in from Saratoga."

Sun Beau won't be asked to do much work before going to the post in the Lincoln. He stepped a mile and an eighth very lively at Saratoga just before boarding his train. Yesterday he was the 7 to 5 favorite to win the Lincoln. Paul Bunyan was second choice at 5 to 2.

Ald. John Coughlin was a most unhappy man after the running of the first race at Lincoln Fields yesterday when his high priced 2 year old Sir Galilia, a son of Sir Gallahad II., made a miserable showing.

But the alderman was all smiles when he left the track, for in the Kappmeyer's purse which was the day's feature his Karl Eitel came pounding down the stretch so fast that he got up to win by a nose in the last stride from the red hot favorite, Hot Shot.

It was the gamest race Karl Eitel has run in a long time. He seldom comes from behind, but he did on

BY ARCH WARD.

CHARLES C. PYLE, who is making his third or fourth fortune with the Radio Transcription company, finds that he no longer can restrain himself from telling Bob Zuppke and Dick Hanley what he thinks of their remarks about professional football.

What blisters his feet and freezes his heart is the suspicion that the college coaches have tried to start the intercollegiate publicity campaign earlier than usual this season. He even hints that the Messrs. Zuppke and Hanley have no objection to seeing their names in print.

Mr. Pyle has taken the matter so to heart that I feel all broken up for having started the discussion. Boy, my snuff box! Now, let's go on with the letter:

"While passing through Chicago I have been greatly interested in reading the controversy in your column between the two professional coaches, Zuppke and Hanley, and the owners of the Chicago Bears and Cardinals.

"It is amusing to read the stories of the college paid football coach always trying to protect his amateur students. When I read Coach Zuppke's remarks my first reaction was that attendance at professional games must be increasing fast.

"I met Mr. Zuppke several times during my management of Red Grange. One of these occasions was in Los Angeles and I remember that when I told him in five years professional football would have gained sufficient attendance to justify owners in scouting for coaches like himself he was much interested and said that when they paid big money probably most of the coaches would be interested.

"Each year you see colleges obtaining coaches who have had professional football experience and I predict great success for these coaches. I think the Notre Dame line was made by none other than Hunk Anderson. I predict that Albie Booth, Yale quarter back, this year will be the greatest running back in any college due to the coaching of Bennie Friedman. Bennie will tell Mr. Zuppke or Mr. Hanley that he gained most of his knowledge from professional football.

"Of course, such great coaches as Hanley and Zuppke give the boys the right foundation, but they train them in one line of play. They are either a great passer, a great kicker, a great blocker, or a great ball carrier.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 27.—The White Sox successfully defended their cellar honors when they came out with the little end of a 9 to 4 score in a contest against the Detroit Tigers today.

Determined that the Tigers should not capture the booby prize, Manager Donie Bush sent for Pat Caraway, the willing bridegroom. Pat came through by hanging up his 20th defeat of the season, requiring only one and one-third innings to accomplish same. In losing his No. 20, Pat tied last year's major league mark, set by Gaston and Russell of the Boston Red Sox, but Pat still has a month to go to set a real record.

The Sox made 11 hits off Sorrell to nullify the work of Caraway, and Welland, one of his four successors, and literally had the lead in the first of the first inning and the first of the second inning.

"Powerhouse Boys" Powerless.

The Comiskey outfield, Fonseca, Watwood, and Reynolds, sometimes jokingly called the "powerhouse boys," were in tune with the spirit of the day, with no hits until the eighth. Then, with the Tigers safely the victors, Watwood marred an otherwise clean slate by knocking a triple. The hit did no damage, however, for the Tigers had the contest safely packed away at the time.

The Tigers would have won a much more decisive victory but for the fact the Sox completed four double plays. The fourth, an unassisted affair by Appling in the eighth, would have bloomed into a triple play had Appling not made a wild throw on the tail end of the effort.

Had the Sox won today they would have been in a tie for sixth place, only two games out of fifth place. But as it is they will rest tomorrow, safely lodged for the day, at least, in the cellar, a game behind Boston, two games back of Detroit and four games back of St. Louis.

Anyway, Sox Scored First.

The Sox will resume Saturday and Frazier, who won the two games with which the Sox kept out of the cellar in the four game series here the first of the month, will see what he can do this time.

The contenders came out of today's first inning in a one-all tie. Blue got the Sox's marker started around when

Wife Asks for Divorce from George Lott

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Mrs. Abigail Stapleford Allen Lott, who eloped last October with George Lott Jr., Davis cup tennis star now defending his doubles championship at Brookline, Mass., today filed suit for divorce. No grounds for the action were included in first papers filed.

Mrs. Lott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Allen of Abington, made her debut in 1928. She was 21 years old when she eloped to Elkton, Md., with the tennis star whom she met while visiting at the home of Fitz E. Dixon, captain of the Davis cup team at the time.

Lott, who is 24, listed his address as Chicago in the marriage application. He is in the advertising business while not playing tennis.

WRIT TO TIE UP JACK DEMPSEY'S ASSETS DENIED

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—Estelle Taylor's effort to tie up Jack Dempsey's assets pending separate fights in the courts of Reno and Los Angeles for a divorce was denied here today. Superior Judge Dudley S. Valentine dissolved her temporary restraining order, which named the Barbara corporation and the Manhattan Trust company, controlling property valued at $300,000.

Neither of the principals was present at the hearing. Dempsey is in the northwest on a boxing tour. Miss Taylor is in the east to fill a vaudeville engagement, contracted before the marital differences of the couple became public.

Connie Mack

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 27.—Connie Mack has been called a genius, but that is a lot of word.

It seems that almost any one, knowing enough about baseball to find first base without a map, after spending as much money as Connie spent for players and inspecting about 600 aspirants in 14 years, might have gathered together five stars and a reasonably good supporting staff. In fact, many another manager has been fired for better work than Connie did at times between the dispersal of his great champions in 1914 and the season of 1929 when at last out of the 600, he found a dozen who clicked. If Connie is a genius then, on the ground of this achievement, so was Jack Hendricks of the Cincinnati Reds. And Bill McKechnie, who was fired from the Pirates and the Cardinals as his reward for winning pennants, must be a superman.

Connie broke up his 1914 team to reduce his running costs for the duration of the cruel box office war with the Federal league. A rebel himself when the American league came along to challenge the National league's monopoly in 1901, he realized rebellions were as hard on the defenders of the monopoly as on the so-called outlaws. His own rebellious enterprise had succeeded and he was not one to dismiss the challenge of the Federals with airy laughter.

This ball club had cost little money to assemble.

Plank, Bender, Combs, Collins, and Barry had come to him from college, a miraculous coalescence at nominal cost. Stuffy McInnis had gone from high school to the Athletics. Frank Baker was obtained when Connie shied a rock into a bush to see what he might scare out. He scared out a great ball player, employed in a horse and buggy league in Maryland, and paid for him with a couple of ham athletes who were liabilities anyway. So Baker actually cost him less than nothing.

When the time came to economize for the Federal league war, the baseball business was suffering from that economic nervousness which affected this country in the first year of the European war, before the allies had settled down to serious shopping in the American markets. The customers weren't running out to watch his galaxy of high salaried artists and Connie Mack, who is quick at figures, decided that he would not only save money but make some by selling them off for cash. If the customers wouldn't turn out to see the Athletics play ball then, obviously, it couldn't make much difference to them if the club they didn't turn out to see wasn't very good.

So he peddled his team around the league—Collins to the White Sox for $50,000 and Murphy for $13,000; Shawkey to the Yankees for the waiver price and Baker for $25,000; Schang, Bush, and Strunk to the Red Sox for $60,000. Altogether he picked up about $175,000, reduced his pay roll, manned his ball club with purely nom-

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 27.—As the final gesture of the season in this sector of the league the Cubs split a double header with the Pirates today. The Chicagoans lost the first game, 4 to 3. Then the teams threatened to stage another air tight argument in the second battle, but the Cubs finally made a farce of it with an eight run revolt in the eighth inning which let them win, 11 to 4.

In keeping with the popular idea that Pittsburgh can be lulled into helplessness by southpaw pitching, Hornsby started both Les Sweetland and Jake May. Sweetland's southpawing was good enough to let him travel the route but his fielding was different. He made one blunder and all of the Pirates' three runs grew from it. With May it was a case of loss of control after a pleasing exhibition, so Johnny Welch had to come to his rescue just before the eight run splurge was staged in the eighth.

Cubs Held to Four Hits.

The cause of the deficiency of Cub runs in the first battle was Glen Spencer. With agile support, he stopped the Chicagoans on four hits. After Spencer's impressive performance Ervin Brame was given a chance to prove whether he could do the same. He did almost as well, but only for seven innings. In the next he was blown right off the premises with a salvo of hits which Bob Osborn couldn't check. Before one man was retired the Cubs had made seven successive hits behind a pass.

The day's candidate for slugging honors was Woody English. With two doubles, not to mention a pass, he accounted for half the attack against Spencer in contest No. 1. That was merely a warm-up. In the second game he batted perfectly. In the order of his appearances against Brame he doubled, tripled, singled and walked. Then he made the last of the hits in the noisy eighth by singling off Osborn.

FIRST GAME

Sweetland's costly fourth inning in the first game began with Paul Waner's single to left. Jensen poked a bunt toward third and Sweetland heaved the ball to first, but the throw was both late and inaccurate. The bad peg hit Umpire Donnelly, who was standing behind Grimm, and Grimm recovered the ball in time to hold P. Waner at third and Jensen at first. The two men scored when Thevenow whacked a triple over Cuyler's head. Phillips fled to Barton, who made a perfect throw to the plate, but Hartnett dropped the ball and Thevenow scored.

Hartnett's single to center with one out in the fifth started the Cubs to the first of their two runs. Gabby went to third on a wild pitch and Blair walked. About this time rain, which had been falling since the previous inning, became a veritable torrent and the Cubs resorted to various stalling devices such as sending towel bearing messengers up to the plate to wipe off the bats.

Mud Helps Cubs.

The stalling at least prolonged the inning enough to let the ground become soaked and this helped. Sweetland bounced to short, forcing Blair, and should have been doubled up, but Piet slipped in the gumbo and couldn't make the throw to first. Hartnett scored on the play. After Adair walked, play was halted for 20 minutes. Upon resumption of hostilities English ran his string to 3 and 2 and then hit a long fly which Paul Waner caught.

SECOND GAME

Scoring in the second game got under way in the second inning. Brame walked Wilson, and Grimm bounced a slow single between second and short. This gave Hack time to drag himself to third. Hemsley sent a fly to Jensen in deep left and Hack scored after the catch. The inning was cut short when Blair grounded into a double play.

English's triple and a double by Cuyler gave the Cubs another run in the third, but they lost their advantage in the home half. With two out, May walked Grantham and it proved costly. Pietruszka, a Chicago

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—Bearing top weight of 120 pounds, but handling it more easily than her rivals did lighter burdens, Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Brocado was a driving winner of the Adirondack handicap today.

Strongly and roughly ridden by Mack Garner, Brocado kept slamming ahead and at the end was the winner by a head over the Sagamore stable's Mea, which in turn had a half a length the best of C. V. Whitney's Pintail.

Upturn Delays Start.

Brocado is a full brother to Toro, being by The Porter-Brocatelle, and added $3,925 to her score by the dash through the rain. The track was not deep, although not at its best. Brocado's time was 1:14 and she once again has shown herself as a filly close to the top flight.

There was a delay of eighteen minutes at the start, due mainly to the bad behavior of Upturn, the daughter of Upset from the Woodland farm which had shown good form. Upturn reared and fell, unseating Jockey Tommy Malley so that he suffered an injured ankle and strained leg ligaments. He was taken to the Saratoga hospital and Jockey George Rose substituted.

Rose Also Unseated.

Rose also was unseated, but without injury, and got the filly away from a position outside of the starter. She never extended herself and was a sulky race.

VINES, GLEDHILL LOSE IN U. S. DOUBLES MEET

Brookline, Mass., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Bruce Barnes, Austin, Tex., and Clifford Sutter, New Orleans, today provided the national doubles tennis tourney with its first major upset by gaining the semi-final round at the expense of Ellsworth Vines and Keith Gledhill, 4-6, 10-8, 10-12, 8-6, 6-3.

A heavy afternoon shower fell on Johnny Doeg and George Lott and halted their even battle with Sidney Wood and Frank Shields, U. S. Davis cup singles stars. As a result, the final will be put over until Monday. This match stood at one set all and Doeg and Lott had a four-three lead on service in the third when the downpour washed them off the court.

Frederick J. Perry and George Patrick Hughes, the British Davis cup pair, were overthrown by Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn, last year's runners-up, in their rush to the semi-finals. The scores were 4-6, 6-3, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3.

'ASKS $30,000 OF WALKER; CLAIMS SHE WAS HIT

New York, Aug. 27.—[Special.]—The purse for Mickey Walker's first fight under the management of Jack Kearns was impounded in the courts by his wife and now the newly prosperous light heavyweight is being sued for $30,000 by another woman who says he planted a hook upon her solar plexus and injured a lung.

She is Miss Marion Parker, whose home is in Boston, and her affidavit filed today with the clerk of the Supreme court charges that Walker struck her while she was having a heated argument with Kearns. It happened at a party last June, she said, at the time when Walker was training for his fight in Brooklyn with Jack Sharkey.

The same amount was asked of Kearns in her suit. Walker has defaulted in answering the suit, but Kearns has entered an appearance and the action against him will go to trial when the case is reached on the calendar.

DEMPSEY SAYS 'WAIT' TO OFFERS FROM NEW YORK

New York, Aug. 27.—(AP)—New York shouted across transcontinental telephone wires today a pair of invitations to Jack Dempsey to return to the metropolis and pick up the leather-padded cudgels that once made high finance of the fight game.

"I'm not ready yet, but I will be. I'm serious about coming back. Pick the best man you can find for me for some time after Dec. 1."

Immediately James J. Johnston, the promotional thorn in the side of the Garden at the moment, got a line through to Leonard Sacks, Dempsey's secretary and companion, and he heard something like this:

"Jack hasn't tied up with the Garden or any one else. But he's coming back. We'll be hitting the big trail when he's ready. Then we'll be open to any and all offers from any one."

Firpo Says He's Ready to Fight Dempsey Once More

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 27.—[Special.]—Jack Dempsey's resumption of pugilistic activity has aroused the fighting fever anew in Luis Angel Firpo, who figured in the sensational heavyweight championship fight with Dempsey in 1923 in New York. Firpo, now weighing 260, reports he has done some roadwork and adds: "I will be in condition if Dempsey wants a return match." The Argentine giant is uninterested in meeting any other opponents.

MENELEK, off well, moved up strongly on the outside to take command on far turn after crossing over rather sharply and was never in danger thereafter. PRECEDE was close to the pace at all times and lasted to hold ON SIR. Latter was forced to take back when the winner came over, then continued well to save ground at stretch turn, but could not get to leaders. OLD DEPOT and HOOSIER PRINCE were fairly well throughout. NELLIE CUSTIS was close to the pace from the start and, closing gamely in the stretch, was driven out to lead at the end. MUCKER, saving his speed, moved into contention on the inside and, taking command after going half the distance, held on fairly well. KARL EITEL, off well, followed the pace of HOT SHOT closely in the early stages and, responding gamely to his driver's urging in the stretch, won the latter by a head. Start good. Won driving, place same. Went to post at 4:16½. At post 1 minute. Winner trained by J. B. Partridge.

GRAND PRINCE raced on practically even terms with BROOMSHOT in the early stages and, responding gamely to his driver's urging, withstood the stretch challenge of RIFF RAFF to score narrowly. RIFF RAFF moved up strongly to challenge after entering stretch, but hung after getting on even terms with winner in final eighth. WIRT G. BOWMAN made up ground and was going gamely at the end. COPPERFIELD was always in the first flight.

INHERITOR, showing improvement efforts, went to the front at once and, racing well, was never headed, winning easily. OUTCRY was close to the pace at all stages and would have given the winner an argument had he been given a stronger ride in the last furlong. BROWN HILLS was well up from the start and held on gamely. FLAGG PORTER was tiring at finish. ALL GIRLS stopped badly.

SUN MASK took a good lead on back stretch and, increasing it as he went, was never in danger, winning by a wide margin. TORCHFIRE was outrun and was in close quarters early, but made up much ground when clear. ENGLEWOOD was also in early difficulty and finished fast. GRASSLANDS hung slightly in the final run.

Hot Shot had sailed into his usual long lead and Lady Fingers and Karl Eitel were right after him. But when Hot Shot wheeled into the stretch four lengths in front, it seemed certain victory for the favorite. Then Karl Eitel staged his unexpected run down the stretch and when he won paid his backers $8 for every $2 invested.

Those 2 year olds which have been racing in the first event each day since the Lincoln Fields season opened have certainly won a place in the hearts of the favorite players.

Not a favorite has been beaten in this event. Menelek, from the Nevada Stock Farm stable, was the fourth in a row to triumph when he easily captured the Morning Glory purse, which opened yesterday's progfram.

This son of General Thatcher—Minnow looks like a good one and you probably will hear more about him before the season is over. He simply played with those behind him yesterday and in the mutuels paid $5.54 to win. Precede and On Sir were far back of him in second and third place.

Other two year old favorites to win the first race since the Lincoln Fields season opened were Sharp Thoughts, Marmion and Kakapo.

Fleet old Nellie Custis, after being pushed around a bit in claiming races lately, was dropped into a $4,000 top and bottom affair yesterday and staged one of her sensational stretch runs to beat the favorite, Mucker, by a nose in a thrilling finish. The race was at a mile, not exactly to Nellie's liking, but she showed all her stretch running ability to get the decision. She had her backers and paid $6.80. Bill Schmidt, the undertaker-turfman, not only owns Nellie, but he trained and saddled her for this engagement.

They've tried a couple of times now to make a route runner out of the former good sprinter Copperfield, but it has been to no avail. A lot of people backed the old sprinter to win the mile and a sixteenth fifth race yesterday, but he wasn't good enough. Grand Prince drove on to an exciting victory over Riff Raff and Wirt G. Bowman. L. J. Cunningham had to give Grand Prince a powerful ride to get the decision.

JENNINGS LOSES TO THALHEIMER IN NET UPSET

Harbor Springs, Mich., Aug. 27.—(AP)—George Jennings Jr. of Chicago, national public parks champion, fell before Lewis Thalheimer, also of Chicago, in the upset of today's play in the Michigan open tennis tournament here. Jennings, who was seeded third, lost, 7-5, 6-4, in a quarter-final match.

In tomorrow's semi-finals Thalheimer will meet Harris M. Coggeshall, Des Moines, who today had no difficulty in disposing of Jack Harris, Chicago, 6-1, 6-3.

In the other bracket John F. Hennessey, Indianapolis, defending champion, downed W. A. Futterer, Chicago, 6-0, 6-4, and Scott Rexinger, Chicago, bent George O'Connell, Chicago, 6-3, 6-1.

YEARLING SALES END; 600 HEAD NET $761,825

The grand total for the thirteen night session was $761,825 for 600 head, which fell approximately one million dollars short of the 1930 total. The grand average of $1,269 also is far below former years.

Armed Bandits Hold Up 2 Golfers on Eastern Course

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—Surprising their victims on the second green of the Green Valley Country club, two armed bandits today robbed Dr. Joseph Rothseld, optometrist, and Horace Mayer, son of the late Max Mayer, a political leader, of more than $1,000 in cash and jewelry.

Stanley Poreda Outpoints Babe Hunt in Ten Rounds

Boston, Mass., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Stanley Poreda, Jersey City heavyweight, gave Babe Hunt, Ponca City, Okla., a severe 10 round battering here tonight. Poreda's two-fisted hooks opened several cuts on Hunt's face. He won all but one round.

WESTLAND BEATS GUS NOVOTNY FOR DISTRICT CROWN

Defender Scores 9 and 8 Victory at Knollwood.

Jack Westland of Sunset Ridge won the district amateur championship for the second consecutive time when he overwhelmed Gus Novotny of Edgewood Valley in the final of the Chicago District Golf association tournament at the Knollwood club yesterday, 9 and 8.

Westland fairly burned up the course in the morning round, shooting the 18 holes in 35—35—70, three strokes under par, to take a 7 up lead. His card was sprinkled with five birdies. Novotny got to the turn with 37, only one above par, but took a cruising home for 77. He had two birdies.

Westland Wins One Morning Hole.

Westland won but one hole, the second, in the morning, when Westland pulled a drive into a trap and from there on it was all Westland. The defending champion squared the match on the fourth and went into the lead on the seventh, where Novotny three putted.

Westland entered the afternoon round facing a 7 hole handicap. Westland took the 19th when Novotny drove into the rough. Novotny won the 20th as Westland's slice into a trap. The Californian erased Novotny's last effort by holing a 15 foot putt for a birdie 3 on the 26th. Novotny holing out in 4. He reached the turn in 37, Westland in 40.

Westland:
Out	5	5	3	4	4	4	3	5	5	35
In	4	4	4	4	3	5	4	4	4	36—71
Novotny:
Out	5	4	4	3	4	4	4	5	4	37
In	4	4	4	4	3	5	5	5	5	39—76

Novotny, who played well all week and is known to be a straight shooter, couldn't hold the ball on the line yesterday, hooking and slicing far too often.

WESLEY MILLER LEADS ROYAL LEAGUE GOLF

Wesley C. Miller's 79—84—163 took the prize yesterday in the Royal League golf tourney at St. Andrews. Second to Miller was Al Maylath, 79—86—165. In the duffer's class Arthur Klimek won with 94—97—191 and Arthur Chmelik took second with 98—98—196.

Prizes in the dub class were taken by Albert Maly with a 101 for 18 holes and by Frank Korbel, who shot 51.

St. Andrews' women members also competed yesterday with Mrs. F. E. Baker and Mrs. E. Johnson winning first A in blind bogey. In class B the winners were Mrs. G. C. Huppert, Mrs. R. Bayliss, and Marie Fleming.

...EFFERS' 72 IS LOW IN BANK GOLF TOURNEY

J. L. Jeffers left employés of the First National bank of Chicago yesterday in the annual golf tournament at the River Forest Country club by beating 33—39—72 to win first low gross. A. J. Cochrane, with 35—37—72, took second, and Ray Taylor, with 36—37—73, third. Other winners: ...Riley, 39—38—75; J. Schutte, 36—11 ...N. B. Admore, 39—14—75; R. Evans, ...38—37; J. Kane, 103—29—74; R. ...Bell, 38—37—75; L. Paldar, 105—30 ...J. Nichols, 102—26—76; H. Reynolds, 38—37—76; H. B. Alzea, 101—...37; E. Parkins, 107—30—77; F. ...Thomas, 115—30—85; V. Sweeney, 116 ...—30; P. Hiss, 116—30—86.

DAY AND CISAR REACH JUNIOR GOLF SEMI-FINAL

Winfield Day, Elmhurst, and George Cisar, Marquette Park, favorites in the first annual Chicago junior golf tournament, came through the quarter-final round yesterday at Marquette park. Day defeated Russell J. Eddy, Lincolnshire, 2 and 1, while Cisar scored a 3 and 2 victory over Frank Chiselli, Shorewood.

Day, in his match with Eddy, finished the first nine holes in 35 and was 3 up, but Eddy evened the match when three consecutive birdies gave him the 10th, 11th, and 12th holes. Day won the 13th and 14th and they halved the following three holes.

The quarter-final round also marked the defeat of another favorite. Jack Hutchison of Glen View. Hutchison lost to D. Malbrough of the home club on the 18th hole when two drives went out of bounds and Malbrough shot a five to win, 1 up.

In the semi-finals this afternoon, Day will meet Cisar, while Malbrough is paired with E. Larson, Ridge, who won from D. Hollenbeck, 4 and 3. The winners will meet in the 36 hole final match tomorrow afternoon.

SOUTH CHICAGO MEETS COLUMBIA FOR TITLE TODAY

Houston, Tex., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Two right handed pitchers, Kneece of Columbia, S. C., and McKirchy of South Chicago, Ill., will go to the mound tomorrow night in the opening game of the junior baseball world series sponsored by the American Legion. A second game will be played Saturday afternoon, with a third contest slated for Monday if the first two are split.

The two teams, the survivors of some 500,000 boys who this spring and summer participated in the junior baseball program, arrived here today and were given a tumultuous welcome.

Dr. Clark's 165 Wins at Middlebrook

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Dr. A. A. Clark wore most of the feathers at the end of the Middlebrook Country club's second annual Big Chiefs' day yesterday, shooting a 165 to take 36 hole low gross honors in a field of more than 150. Dr. Clark had an 83 for his morning round and lowered that figure a stroke in the afternoon. A. R. MacLean was next in the parade to the scoring wigwam with a card of 83—84—167.

The low gross foursome for the day was composed of MacLean, Al Hofstetter, Hobbs Gunning, and B. W. Castle, who compiled a total of 357. The low net spoils were carried off by a quartet including W. W. Baker, H. J. McLaughlin, C. H. McLaughlin, and L. J. Andrews. They had a combined card of 295.

H. J. Pfandhoefer came home with 185—44—141 to win the 36 hole low net prize, with E. S. Wortham's 182—38—144 being next best. The best gross card in the morning round was produced by E. M. Biddle with an 81, J. A. Prosser's 84 winning second. Fred Wilkins' 82 and Joe Carney's 84 won in the afternoon. The low net winners were M. C. Yunker, 87—21—[66]—71; Walter Rickey, 95—24—71; Lyman Earll, 89—19—[70]—71, and W. E. Hart, 96—24—72.

Connie Mack

final players who were only so much stuffing for so many uniforms, and prepared to save a dollar for every dollar the Federals spent bombarding the monopoly.

Connie Decided to Nickel Along Until Peace Times.

In 1915, at the close of the season, the Federal league sold out its cause with a jocular admission that its war aim hadn't been to free the uniformed serfs of baseball at all but merely to pick up some sordid gain.

By this time, however, Connie hadn't any ball club left and, although the U. S. A. was beginnig to wear silk shirts to the loom, the lathe, and the forge, he still was apprehensive that no good could come out of such evil goings on in Europe and decided to nickel along until the big war was good and over. So he didn't make a serious effort to rebuild until the American troops came home.

By that time the Cols. Ruppert and Huston, who owned the Yankees, were giving full expression to their business theory, which was the opposite of Connie Mack's. Connie had reckoned that a dollar saved was a dollar earned, but they stood willing to spend a dollar to make two. By what process the two major leagues decided to substitute the hysterical ball which leaped for the outfield walls at a mere threat for the old standard missile which had never yielded any man more than a dozen home runs in a year, the magnates have never had the candor to disclose. But the change, made the Yankees and retarded the recovery of the Athletics. Incidentally, the Shibe brothers, partners of Connie Mack in the ownership of the Athletics, were the manufacturers of the new ball.

Rettig, the Mysterious, Made History, but Not the Grade.

And prominent among the champion Yankees of the years after the war were the same Bush, Shawkey, Schang, and Baker, now contributing to the frustration of the old man who had sold them away for economy's sake so long before.

For ten years there passed in review before the sad and offended gaze of the man who had guided the perfect Athletics of 1914 the most astonishing parade of juveniles and derelicts, casual nuts and left handed catchers that ever the eye of man had looked upon. They came to the players' gate as casually as common laborers applying for work by the day at an excavation. And Connie solemnly signed them on, according to regulation, rigged them out in grab bag uniforms, tried them out that very afternoon and turned them loose with their formal unconditional release and a day's pay long before they could be duly entered in the archives of the league as having been major leaguers for one brief hour.

The story of the pitcher, Rettig, typifies this queer rabble of whom it was said by Cy Perkins, the catcher, that 80 per cent of them had two left feet. At a time when no wagon boy or honest hodcarrier passing the grounds was safe from the ball yard ushers scouting for major league talent, this Rettig appeared one day, professing to be a pitcher. Within an hour, without throwing a ball in practice, he went out to face the Browns, who were leading the league, and shut them out.

"He had an Epworth league outcurve," said Perkins, who caught the game, "and he threw nothing but that curve all afternoon. George Sisler couldn't believe his eyes, and he kept on striking out because he always thought the ball was going to do some strange tricks. It was the same kind of outcurve that everybody's little boy learns to throw in grammar school, and the Browns simply couldn't believe that anybody would have the gall to stand up there in a major league park and throw that kind of pitching.

"Sisler kept asking me, 'What has this fellow got there, anyway?' I would grin and say, 'Man, he's got plenty of stuff out there,' and ask myself if I was drunk, dead, or dreaming."

Many a Dollar Has Been Spent in Vain by Connie.

"'John,' I said, 'you have been looking at a miracle this afternoon.' I took Rettig to St. Louis with us and sent him right back at the Browns a few days later. This time they hit him so hard that I thought the first inning would last until midnight. So I paid the young fellow off and gave him his release. He was a nice young fellow, too. A few years later we stopped in a hotel for an exhibition game up in New Jersey and who was sitting at the manager's desk but Rettig?"

But, after the war, Connie was buying ball players and mock ball players, too. He spent $75,000 for Sammy Hale, and Paul Strand, another experiment from the Coast league, was reported to have cost him $100,000. Both failed.

Ed Rommel had been turned away by John McGraw and he now became a prodigy with the Athletics, winning 27 games for a team that finished last in 1921. Cy Perkins, another drop-in player, had gone from his high school team to the Athletics as a recruit catcher in 1914. One of the great catchers of his time, he served all through the nightmare years and caught for Rommel. Jimmy Dykes still with the team, also had offered himself as an applicant for a job and he cost no more than the price of drafting him back after a spell of minor league seasoning.

Perkins, worn down at last by diving and stretching for the crazy pitching of Connie's day labor pitchers, yielded up his regular job to Mickey Cochrane in 1925, but remained with the club until last fall. So the three men who suffered most throughout those years had the good luck in the end to participate in two world series pools and three shares of second money after the club moved up in 1925. Two of them, Dykes and Rommel, are now participating in a third world series purse.

Connie bought many others at important prices who couldn't make good, but somber Mose Grove, a country boy from the Blue Ridge mountains, who cost $100,000 in 1925, has come along to justify his price tag, though it took two years to get shoes on the wild man.

Grove, George Earnshaw, the other half of the pitching staff; Mickey Cochrane, a better catcher than the patient, efficient Perkins; Max Bishop, Joe Boley—they cost Connie Mack nigh onto $300,000.

Even McGraw Wouldn't Have Lasted with Connie's Record.

Jimmy Foxx, a gift sent up from Maryland through the loving kindness of Frank Baker, who had been a gift himself so long ago; Rommel, Dykes, Perkins, and Mule Haas of the outfield have been worth almost $300,000 in their time with Connie, but they cost him in round numbers nothing to speak of.

Al Simmons would have been a pickup, too, if Connie had been willing to pay his freight when Simmons applied for transportation to the training camp as a free agent in need of a job in 1921. But with so many free agents reporting on the hoof at the players' gate asking for work Connie couldn't pay railroad fares for all the self-confident young men who wished to be looked over. Simmons got a job with the Milwaukee club and a few years later Connie spent substantial money to buy in a player who had wished to be his for the price of a train ride.

So the combined working of patience, wealth, security in his job due to his being part owner of the firm, and longevity had much to do with Connie Mack's return to the world series games after fourteen years. A fine manager he is, no doubt, but not even McGraw of the Giants could have failed so dismally for so many years and held his job.

Connie Mack wears starched collars which never wilt in the hottest weather. In the winter he plays golf on the lower west coast of Florida. He has a daughter, Mary, who has entered a convent twice intending to become a nun and twice changed her mind. He eats sparingly and always with prudent regard for his health. When he wishes to swear he says "Gol-dam." He paid Ty Cobb $100,000 for two seasons of pathetic, futile effort, to draw some customers and to vindicate Ty, who had left the game under a cloud.

It is no overpraise to call him, in the words of all the people who know him well, a nice old guy who never does anything dirty on or off the field.

TRAMBLIE STOPS JIMMY EILLER IN SECOND ROUND

Ray Tramblie, Rockford, Ill., middleweight, knocked out Jimmy Eiller, Louisville, Ky., in the second round at Shewbridge field last night. Despite the rain about 500 watched the bouts. Eiller, floored by a right to the jaw, was saved by the bell in the first round.

The eight round semi-windup between George Nate, South Bend, Ind., bantamweight, and Leroy Dugan, Arkansas, was stopped in the fifth round Fred Gardner of the Illinois boxing commission ordered the fighters to come in out of the rain.

Cubs Lose to Pirates, 3-2, and Win, 11-4

Cubs Take Lead Again.

The Cubs moved out in front again in the fifth. May opened with a two base drive against the fence in left field. Adair was out on a fly to left, but English rolled a slow one toward Traynor and beat it for his third hit of the game. This put May on third. He scored while Cuyler was forcing English in what would have been a double play if Piet hadn't fumbled momentarily before throwing to Thevenow. Barton closed the inning with a lofter to center.

May had one man out of the way in the seventh before getting into the mess which caused his banishment and also put the Pirates back on an even footing. Phillips singled to center and Brame did the same. Baby Waner was out on a grounder to Blair. The first two pitches to Grantham were strikes, but May suddenly blew up and threw four wide of the plate. This filled the bases. Then Piet walked and Phillips was forced to score. Welch stepped in as relief for May and the inning closed on Traynor's liner to right into Wilson's hands.

Pass Starts Big Eighth.

A pass to English was all the Cubs needed to touch off their winning explosion in the eighth. Cuyler bunted and Brame didn't reckon on Ki's speed. He beat it for a hit. Barton also beat out a bunt and it was scored as a single although Brame fumbled before making the throw. With the bases loaded the infield drew in for a possible play at the plate and Wilson bounced a single through second, English and Cuyler scoring. Grimm doubled to the left field wall, Barton and Wilson coming home. Osborn replaced Brame and Hemsley doubled to score Grimm. Blair tripled and Hemsley scored.

When Welch came up the expectation was that the rally would subside, but it didn't. Welch singled to right and Blair scored. English's single to right put Welch on third and he scored the eighth run on Cuyler's force out of English. Barton's pop to Grantham brought welcome relief.

Only once in a while do you see a real triple threat man. Then it is because his ability is so great that they can't limit him to one line of play. In professional football they learn everything.

"They fight as hard on the pro gridiron as they ever did for their alma mater. College coaches find many players lazy. Those same players are lazy in pro football, but they don't last long. Every man must be on his toes in every game. If he is not he is not playing pro football long.

"In my opinion any National professional league team can beat any college eleven by four touchdowns. I would love to see a game between Illinois or Northwestern and one of the Chicago professional teams. Both of the college coaches would be wiser after the game.

"To me the one coach who really profits by professional football is Chick Meehan of New York university, who never failed to bring his team to every Sunday game that our New York Yankees played at Yankee stadium. I believe you will find he has used some of these plays successfully.

"I am not financially interested in professional football teams, but I have no sympathy with the type of football coach, so prevalent today, who surrounds himself with a halo, labels himself a builder of men, and yet poohs at the idea that the boy should capitalize on his athletic ability after leaving school while this coach each month draws a large check for his professional services. This is hypocrisy with which I have no sympathy."

he opened the game with a double to left, went to third on Sullivan's infield out, and scored on Reynolds' fly to short center. For Detroit, Johnson walked, paused while Gehringer flied to Fonseca, went to third on Stone's single to right, and scored while Jeffries was throwing out Alexander.

Caraway Goes Haywire.

The Tigers' second inning started when Appling permitted Rogell's grounder to scoot between his heels. Richardson's single to right put Rogell on third, whence he scored on Hayworth's single to right. Sorrell beat out a bunt and the bases were full with nobody out. Johnson fanned, then Gehringer forced Sorrell, Richardson scoring. Gehringer stole second and scored behind Hayworth when Stone singled to right. Thomas relieved Caraway and Sullivan threw out Alexander.

A neat double play saved Thomas trouble in the third inning. G. Walker led off with a double off the scoreboard in left center, but over-estimated his speed when he thought he could score from second. He was doubled at the plate, Jeffries to Blue to Tate. Richardson singled and went on to second when Fonseca kicked the ball, but Tate threw out Hayworth.

The Sox made a run in the sixth inning. Appling singled and was forced by Jeffries. Tate singled to right and Jeffries went to third. Jolley batted for

W. SIDE BUSINESS GROUP ASKS FOR ELEVATED ROAD

Tells Governor It Opposes Congress Street Plan.

An appeal has been made to Gov. Emmerson by the West Side Commercial league for action in construction of an elevated highway on the Austin-Kinzie route abutting the North Western railroad embankment as opposed to a project under consideration by the state for the widening of Congress street as an artery to the west side.

In a letter to the governor Clarence Kavangh, president of the league, said:

"During the past week property owners in the vicinity of Congress street have been clamoring for the improvement of that thoroughfare. As you are aware, a year or so ago the west park board conducted a comprehensive survey of possible highway sites, unobstructed by cross streets, from the downtown section to the western limits of the city.

Favor Elevated Route.

"At the conclusion of their investigation they joined with the Chicago Plan commission in recommending an elevated highway running west from the loop and abutting the elevated right of way of the North Western railroad along Austin avenue and Kinzie street.

"The advantages advanced for this route were numerous and sound. At its east end it is adjacent not only to the older business district but also to the rapidly developing near north side, running directly past the Merchandise Mart, the Wrigley buildings and the Tribune Tower, and serving this whole area. Most unbiased observers believe that this section north of the Chicago river offers the greatest promise of future development.

Its Desirability Increased.

"The Congress street highway is part of the Burnham plan, and predicated upon the establishment of a vast civic center at Halsted street which would include all municipal and federal buildings. With the definite trend of the mercantile and office population toward the north the desirability of this route was decreased and in turn the Austin-Kinzie site had come into prominence. This fact, coupled with the saving in construction and condemnation costs, influenced the Chicago Plan commission and west park board in making their choice.

"It is needless to point out the great benefit immediate construction, out of funds available from the gasoline tax, would bring to our community. The stimulus to the employment situation, to general business, to the depressed real estate and commodity markets, cannot be overestimated. We feel it is a major improvement of vital importance, the result of careful study and deliberation, and that now is the most opportune time for its inception."

DAWES POINTS OUT BENEFITS OF DEPRESSION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KIRKCUDBRIGHT, Scotland, Aug. 27.—The period of stress and financial depression through which the world is passing has its benefits as well as its dangers and faults, Charles G. Dawes, American ambassador to Great Britain, said today in a speech delivered at the dedication of a memorial given to Kirkcudbright by Thomas Cochran, New York banker.

CHARLES G. DAWES

The ambassador said that while the world sadly deplores the condition of depression, it in fact will be of great value as a guide in the future and in bringing about much needed domestic reforms in the various nations. He declared that he saw hope for the advancement of international negotiations.

"Practically all the people of the world are now living in the midst of adverse conditions and business depression," he said. "It is not a pleasant way to live, but although we deplore it we must recognize the important benefits which eventually will accrue from it.

Prosperity Brings Folly.

"It is not in times of adversity that mankind makes his greatest mistakes. It makes its most egregious errors and commits its greatest follies in times of prosperity.

"When common prosperity exists among the peoples of the world, the common cause of it is not perceived by the masses, but they immediately sense the cause of common suffering. The present common distress in all nations is bringing home to the average man everywhere the sense of interdependence, not only of individuals but of classes of individuals, and will tend in all countries to bring about delayed domestic reforms by making them politically practicable.

Crisis Produces Agreement.

"Also there is a correct sensing by each nation of what is actually its own self-interest, and therefore the hope of constructive accomplishment in international negotiations.

"Such a condition of public sentiment arising from mass feelings silences the demagogues whom, in prosperous times, by promoting international prejudices for internal political purposes, embarrass and delay, even if they do not actually prevent, sensible and constructive agreements of mutual self-interest among the nations."

HOOVER CONFERS WITH LEADERS OF NEW YORK BANKS

Secrecy Veils Meeting at White House.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—The first of what is expected to be a series of conferences between President Hoover and nationally known banking and business officials was held secretly at the White House dinner table last night.

EUGENE MEYER JR.

Among those present, in addition to Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon and Eugene Meyer, governor of the federal reserve board, were Charles S. McCain, president, and James T. Lee, vice president, of the Chase National bank; William C. Potter, president of the Guarantee Trust company, and George W. Davison, president of the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company.

Keep Everything Secret.

The utmost secrecy surrounded the dinner. No announcement that the bankers were to dine at the White House was made, and all requests for information today were met with the stolid statement that "the general business situation" was discussed. Mr. Meyer later said that he could not discuss the subject of the conference, adding that others of the same general nature may follow.

Numerous rumors regarding the specific topic of the conference sprang up during the afternoon, but all went unconfirmed. One report was to the effect that the bankers discussed the question of whether new credits should be advanced to Great Britain. This report was to the effect that a British credit of $00 million had been sought from private bankers.

Treasury officials were inclined to scoff at the idea that a new British credit had been the topic of discussion, Undersecretary of State Castle said that so far as he knew the question of granting further credits to Great Britain had not been raised.

The close connection between the Chase National bank and Russia aroused reports that American-soylet business matters had been discussed.

SAVE $30,000,000 IN YEAR

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—Savings in excess of $30,000,000 will be effected by the various departments of the government during the current fiscal year, according to an exhaustive report submitted to President Hoover today by Col. J. Clawson Roup, director of the budget. The Roup figures were based on estimates submitted by the heads of executive and independent establishments in answer to a White House call for contemplated expenditures and economies.

The report discloses that the navy, war, and interior departments expect to effect savings of approximately $8,000,000 each. The commerce department expects to trim a million dollars off its appropriations for the current year, while the prohibition bureau's contribution is set forth as in the neighborhood of $150,000.

From all indications the bulk of the savings will come through slashes in the marine corps personnel, restriction of the navy's ship operation plan and economies made possible by the decreased cost of living in the wake of the depression.

Although promotions have been stopped throughout the civil service, and orders issued against filling vacancies, there has been little diminution in the number of government employés drawing pay in the capital.

President Hoover is expected to look over the economy report, which shows the amounts each department plans to expend during the balance of the year, at the Rapidan camp over the week-end.

Early next week the President will be given an idea of what the executive departments plan to expend next year.

The navy will ask for in the neighborhood of 390 millions, while the war department will ask for 330 millions.

MAN WHO FOUND BORAX IN DEATH VALLEY IS DEAD

Oakland, Cal., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Francis M. "Borax" Smith, early day California mining and real estate magnate who made a fortune almost overnight when he discovered borax in Death valley, died at an Oakland hospital today of injuries received in a fall at his home here three days ago.

Smith, who was 84, once possessed a fortune estimated at many millions. As he invested heavily in real estate and in traction and Nevada mining companies Smith's wealth diminished, and when he died only a small portion was reported left.

A year ago he auctioned off an art collection valued at $1,800,000 at his Oakland home. At one time Smith was the head of an East Bay water company, a traction company, and a syndicate developing East Bay real estate properties.

Noted as a philanthropist as well as a mining expert and capitalist, Smith built numerous homes around his extensive Oakland estate for homeless girls and organized means of educating and caring for them.

Probably the most colorful part of his career was in the early days, when he drove "twenty mule teams" to transport the borax from Death valley to rail heads at Barstow and Zabriskie.

During his lifetime Smith was reported to have lost and regained several sizable fortunes.

Mrs. Arthur Eddy, Widow of Attorney, Dies at 67

Mrs. Arthur J. Eddy, aged 67, widow of a corporation lawyer, died in her home at 4152 Sheridan road last evening. Mrs. Eddy had been a resident of Chicago more than forty years. She was born in Flint, Mich., and was the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. John Orrell of Flint and the granddaughter of Henry H. Crapo, former governor of Michigan. Mrs. Eddy is survived by a son, Jerome, and a grandson, Jerome Arthur. Her husband died in 1920. Funeral and burial will be at Flint.

PLANE PLUNGES IN SEA; SAVE 12; ONE IS MISSING

Gloucester, Mass., Aug. 27.—(AP)—A Pan-American Airways plane crashed in the sea off Gloucester late today. Twelve persons were saved by the fishing schooner Nova Julia and brought here. One person is missing. Nine were taken to a hospital.

The rescued told hospital authorities that the missing passenger was an old man and that he went down with the plane.

Members of the rescue party said the plane went into a steep dive when the pilot sought to drop below a fog bank. The plane plunged into the sea and the passengers clung to the tip of a wing which extended above the water. The pilot dove under water struggled desperately until he brought it to the surface. The passengers scarcely had transferred their grips to the floating pontoon when the wreckage of the plane disappeared beneath the sea.

For nearly two hours the party clung to the pontoon until they finally were sighted by the Nova Julia.

Girl Killed by Propeller.

New York, Aug. 27.—[Special.]—Returning from a short airplane ride with a friendly pilot at Roosevelt field, Miss Eleanor Matthews, 23, of Roosevelt, L. I., was killed when she walked into the still whirling propeller of the ship as she alighted.

DOCTOR KILLED AS AUTO LEAVES ROAD, TURNS OVER

Dr. W. C. Parker, 258 North Hamlin avenue, was killed yesterday when his automobile overturned after plunging into a ditch on route 23 between DeKalb and Sycamore. Daniel G. Himes, 4024 Washington boulevard, who was riding with the physician, escaped serious injury.

Himes said that Dr. Parker, who had offices at 17 South Crawford avenue, had swerved his automobile in an effort to avoid a hay wagon which was without lights.

Two deaths in Cook county yesterday brought the toll of automobile fatalities since Jan. 1 to 749. The victims:

Harry Hurwitz, 55 years old, 6328 North Mozart street. Died in the Northwestern hospital, Des Plaines, from injuries suffered on Aug. 23 when he was struck by an automobile at Rand and River roads. The driver was Robert Wilson, 1225 Greenleaf avenue.

Charles Jones, 38 years old, colored, 121 West 27th street, a junk dealer. Died in the county hospital from injuries suffered on Aug. 18 when he was run down at 30th and State streets.

Mrs. Harriet Beal, Widow of M. E. Clergyman, Dies

Whiting, Ind., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Mrs. Harriet Beal, 81, mother of Miss Julia Beal, religious worker and widow of the Rev. J. Ellery Beal, who preached for thirty-four years in the Rock River conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, died today. She will be buried in Sandwich, Ill.

LEONARD WOOD, SON OF NOTED GENERAL, DEAD

New York, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Leonard Wood Jr., son of the distinguished major general, whose 39 years encompassed a series of tragic incidents that finally led him to polishing brass rails on a harbor boat, died in a hospital today.

Weakened by an attack of influenza four years ago, the son of the former governor general of the Philippines succumbed to a sudden onset of loban pneumonia in Bellevue hospital.

In a comparatively short life Wood experienced the first warm glow of success as a writer and then plunged into bankruptcy.

When the world war started young Wood was a student at Cornell university. Late in 1916 he joined the British army, and when the United States entered the war he transferred at once. He emerged as a lieutenant in the ambulance service.

In 1924 he engaged briefly in banking and became head of the Acme Production corporation, an oil company which came under investigation by the postoffice department. The following year he was adjudged bankrupt with liabilities of $14,585 and assets of $842.

His much publicized brother, Brig. Gen. Osborne C. Wood, now adjutant general of New México, was en route by airplane from Santa Fé to attend the funeral services. Other survivors include his mother, Mrs. Louise Wood, and a sister, Miss Louisita Wood, both of whom are in Germany.

DISCOVERER OF HOOKWORM ENDS GREAT LIFE TASK

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Dr. Charles Wardell Stiles, the man who discovered the hook worm, and differentiated it from malaria, today finished a stupendous life work.

He shut up shop at the National Institute of Health by sending to press large file boxes crammed with manuscript, the last volumes of a compendium titled "Complete Catalog of the Parasites of Men and Animals."

Its collection had occupied his spare moments since he was 21. He is now 64. Its worth to medical zoology was estimated at $1,000,000 by Dr. Stiles' colleagues. It indexes the entire parasitical literature of the world in every modern language and ancient Latin.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

TWO SEIZED FOR TAKING $33,000 OF COMPANY'S FUNDS

Thomas Patterson, 24 North Albany avenue, cashier for Peabody & Co., investment bankers at 10 South La Salle street, and his assistant, Raymond Maguire, 1331 North Austin boulevard, were arrested yesterday on charges of embezzling $33,000 from their employers.

Patterson, who got the bulk of the money, admitted to police that he had lost it playing the horse races. He bet $700 a day over a considerable period at race tracks or with bookmakers, he said.

Maguire confessed, police said, that his share of the embezzled money, $550, was the result of a shakedown of Patterson.

CENT. REPUBLIC BANK DIVIDEND IS $12 A YEAR

Initial Payment of $3 Is Voted.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The new $350,000,000 Central Republic Bank and Trust company, which resulted from the recent merger of the Central Trust company of Illinois and the National Bank of the Republic, has placed its stock on a $12 annual dividend basis, the initial quarterly dividend of $3 a share will be paid on Oct. 1 it was announced yesterday. Plans were made last night by Philip R. Clarke, president, council formally with the action set out of a letter to the stockholders.

PHILIP R. CLARKE.

"While a careful analysis of the positions of the new bank indicates a earning power that would permit of a larger dividend disbursement," Mr. Clarke says, "the officers and directors believe in the wisdom at this time of retaining a very substantial portion of the net income for surplus, reserves, and undivided profits. Earnings thus withheld will, of course, be eventually adding to the book value of the capital stock.

Comments on Operations.

"The bank is in a strong, liquid position and its first month's operations proved very satisfactory. The internal control functioned with the facility of a seasoned institution, a gratifying amount of new business was obtained, and innumerable comments were received from old customers expressing satisfaction with the excellent service being rendered them.

"These conditions, supplemented by a conservative administrative policy, of which the above described dividend action is a reflex, bespeak, in my opinion, a very favorable future for the Central Republic Bank and Trust company."

BROKERS' LOANS EXPAND

In view of the reaction in securities prices in the last week, an increase of $1,000,000 in brokers' loans, reported by the federal reserve board, proved a surprise. However, the expansion was nominal, and total loans now are only $1,340,000,000, compared with $1,350,000,000 a year ago, marking a decline of $1,753,000,000. The New York banks expanded their own loans by $18,000,000, interior banks withdrew $6,000,000, and nonbanking lenders furnished $1,000,000 additional.

The federal reserve system continued to inject credit into the open money market in the last week, probably with the twofold purpose of making money rates as low as possible to help autumn recovery of trade and to facilitate the government's September refinancing operations.

Deposits Up $28,091,000.

The reserve banks purchased an additional $25,890,000 of bankers' acceptances and the member banks increased their borrowings from the reserve banks by $11,109,000, bringing this item to $645,718,000. Federal note circulation expanded $43,663,000, probably from the need for currency in the week which have had bank troubles. Gold reserves expanded $28,091,000. Gold and total reserves increased $12,685,000 and $16,171,000, respectively. The ratio of reserves to liabilities eased to 73 per cent, compared with 80.8 per cent last week.

The New York reserve bank made a change in its 1½ per cent rediscount rate. Its statement showed an increase of $5,652,000 in bankers' acceptances and $5,000,000 in government obligations. The member banks showed an additional $9,591,000, bringing the total to $48,866,000. Deposits expanded $16,889,000. Reserves totalled $4,459,000 and the reserve ratio fell to 81 per cent, compared with 82.6 per cent a week ago.

The Chicago reserve bank bought an additional $5,460,000 of bankers' acceptances and the member banks borrowed an additional $1,625,000, making a loss from $16,570,000. Deposits expanded $17,865,000. Reserves increased $16,000, but the reserve ratio eased to 73 per cent, compared with 87.9 per cent last week.

Private Discount Rates Again Quoted in Berlin

BERLIN, Aug. 27.—(AP)—For the first time since the boerse closed in July, private discount rates were officially quoted today. Call money and time term, as well as short term, private discount rates were from 9½ per cent to 10 per cent. The last rates prior to the closing were 8 per cent for call money and 8 to 9 per cent for private discounts.

Warns Against Excessive Expansion in Hog Raising

"There is danger that the expansion in the swine industry will be greatly over done, especially in the western areas where feed supplies are not always dependable and transportation costs are high," C. B. Denman, member of the federal farm board, said last night in addressing the National Swine Growers association at its annual meeting in Springfield, Ill. "An abundant supply and the present price of feed grains are the principal factors responsible for the marked increase in hog production now getting under way," he added.

"The June pig survey made by the United States department of agriculture indicated the 1931 spring pig crop for the United States as a whole to be 2.5 per cent greater than that of 1930, the western states showing an increase of over 15 per cent," Mr. Denman pointed out. "Likewise, reports on the number of sows bred or to be bred for farrowing this fall pointed to an increase of 37 per cent for the country as a whole and over 60 per cent for the western states, compared to a year ago. On the basis of comparisons of intentions to breed and fall farrowing during past years, the pig crop this fall for the United States will be about 18 per cent larger than it was in the fall of 1930.

Export Demand Seen Limited.

"At this time when the stage is all set for a rapid increase in swine production, the consumptive outlook for American hog products continues to be limited, especially in foreign markets. Consumer purchasing power in the European countries, which normally take large volumes of our hog products, has been reduced even more than in this country, and as yet, no evidence of material improvement is in sight.

"The hog has rightly been named the 'mortgage lifter,' but his lifting power is no longer proportionate to his weight. Hogs weighing from 200 to 220 pounds offer the producer the best chances for success in swine growing, principally because they yield a high percentage of cuts of the type, quality, and average weight most definitely suited to consumer demand. Change in size of family and in habits of eating, and more work by brain, and less by brawn, have lessened the demand for fat cuts of pork and have increased that for smaller and leaner ones, thereby restricting the heavy hog yielding a large proportion of lard and fat cuts."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—[Special.]—Loans for the purchase of feed for cattle, sheep, and horses will be made to farmer in eight western states hit by the drought this summer. The areas to which loans will be made include the northwestern part of Nortah Dakota, the southwestern part of South Dakota and some counties north and east of the Missouri river, a fef counties in northeastern Nebraska, the eastern half of Montana, a part of Utah, part of Idaho, section of Wyoming, and four east central counties of Washington

No Fall Seed Financing

Secretary of Agriculture Hyde stated that it will be impossible for the government to assist in financing fall sown crops. He disclosed also that the government had been unable to aid farmers in the grasshopper area by making funds available for the purchase of poison to destroy the invading insects.

The secretary announced that the department would support legislation this winter authorizing loans for seed for spring planting. He added that the department is coöperating with state and local agencies in a survey to determine the localities in which grasshopper egg masses are most numerous and will recommend to congress an appropriation for the purpose of coöperating with state and local agencies in a control campaign next spring in areas where infestation promises to be severe in 1932.

Feed loans will be granted at the rate of not to exceed $3 per head per month for cattle and horses and 30 cents per head per month for sheep, covering a feeding period of not to exceed six months. The loan to any individual will be limited to the amount necessary for the feeding of 40 cattle, 6 horses, and 200 sheep, and in no case is it to be in excess of $1,000. Borrowers will be required to give a lien on their live stock to secure the repayment of the obligation, the notes maturing Oct. 1, 1932.

EASTERN CUBA CANE SUGAR WILL DEFAULT ON 7½ PER CENT BONDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 27.—The Eastern Cuba Cane Sugar corporation, subsidiary of the Cuban Cane Products company, has notified the Stock exchange that it is unable to pay the interest due Sept. 1 on its 7½ per cent mortgage bonds, of which $7,500,000 are outstanding.

Cuban Cane Products, successor by reorganization to the Cuba Cane Sugar corporation in 1930, guarantees principal and sinking fund on the Eastern Cuba bonds. Cuban Cane itself has $25,000,000 of twenty year debentures outstanding, on which interest up to 6 per cent, to the extent earned, is payable Jan. 1.

Holders of Eastern Cuba Sugar bonds will be asked to exchange obligations for income bonds and to have sinking fund requirements, amounting to $500,000 annually. Interest and sinking fund would be made payable if earned. The bonds here were issued in 1922 by J. & M. Seligman & Co. and Hayden, Stone & Co.

A committee consisting of Charles Hayden, of Hayden, Stone & Co., chairman; Earle Baillie of J. & W. Seligman & Co., and Eugene M. Stetson of the Guaranty Trust company has been formed to represent bondholders in connection with the proposed plan of revision.

Arrangements have been made with the banks, the company states, to provide for funds for the coming dead season, under certain conditions. The Cuban Cane Products debentures are specifically subordinate, as to principal and interest, to full payment of loans for dead season expenses and certain cost items.

National City Bank Last to Yield; Cuts Thrift Rates

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 27.—The decision of the National City bank to cut the rate of interest paid by its compound interest department means that the last of the big New York banks has yielded to the pressure of low money market rates in reducing the return paid by it to small savers. Effective Sept. 1, the rate of interest paid by the National City bank on "thrift" accounts will be reduced from 3 per cent per annum to 2 per cent per annum. As heretofore, interest will be compounded monthly.

Starts Movement.

The downward movement of "thrift" account rates was begun early in the year by the Corn Exchange Bank Trust company which lowered its rate from 3 per cent to 2½ per cent. Last May a group of commercial banks announced that from June 1 on they would pay only 2 per cent on special interest deposits instead of 3 per cent. These included the Chase National bank, the Irving Trust company, the Chemical Bank and Trust company, the Bank of Manhattan Trust company, and the Brooklyn Trust company.

Their action paved the way for a reduction in the rate of interest paid by mutual savings banks and on June 22 last, four of the largest of these institutions, the Bowery Savings bank, the Dry Dock Savings institution, the Emigrant Industrial Savings bank, and the Union Dime Savings bank announced a reduction in their rates to 3½ per cent. Subsequently the Corn Exchange Bank and Trust company, which had begun the movement among the commercial banks, effected another cut in its rate to 2 per cent.

The National City bank has the largest volume of "thrift" deposits of any of the commercial banks. Its decision to cut the interest rate on these deposits will affect more depositors than did the reductions by any of the business banks which took the step early in the year.

Lowest Rate in Ten Years.

Rates on commercial deposits have long since been reduced to the lowest levels on record at ½ of 1 per cent, while the current rate of 3½ per cent being paid by savings banks is the lowest in 10 years.

The general reduction of interest rates on deposits has been dictated by the decline in the earning power of money held by the banks.

Directors of the Public National Bank and Trust Company of New York decided today to halve the dividend rate on the stock of the institution by declaring a quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share, payable Oct. 1 to holders of record Sept. 19. This established the stock on a $2 annual dividend, against $4 a year previously. The organization is the first in the banking field to announce a reduction of dividends in several months.

RESERVE BANK POINTS TO SLACK PERIOD IN JULY

Summer always brings slackening in industrial operations, and it was inevitable that this summer, which is generally regarded as marking the bottom of the current depression period, should accentuate the seasonal trend. This situation is set forth in the monthly review of the Chicago Federal Reserve bank.

"The usual midsummer slackening of industrial activity gave rise in July to the sharpest recession in employment and pay rolls in our records for Seventh district industry," the review says.

"As a result of declines in nine of the last twelve months, manufacturing employment and wage earnings for July were approximately 18 and 29 per cent lower, respectively, than in July, 1930.

"The only significant increases recorded were in food products, due to seasonal activity in fruit and vegetable canning, and in leather products, contributed to by moderate gains in shoe manufacturing. Paper and printing recorded no change in number of men and a small decline in their pay; longer hours in the men's clothing and hat industries offset losses in other branches of the textile group, producing a fractional increase in pay roll amounts, combined, however, with a loss in number employed.

"The upward trend of recent months in non-manufacturing employment was reversed in July, each of the four groups falling off in both men and pay rolls. Coal mining, contrary to the usual trend, registered the largest declines, while merchandising, particularly retail trade and department stores, and construction work had seasonal losses."

WEEKLY INDEX OF FOOD PRICES SHOWS DECLINE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 27.—Bradstreet's weekly food index is again lower, being 5 cents off from last week and equaling the low point on mid-June, when the index reached the lowest level since it was started in 1916.

The index number for this week, $2.14, shows a drop of 2.3 per cent from the previous week and a like decrease from a month ago. Compared with the corresponding week of last year the decline is 23 per cent.

Weekly price changes in Bradstreet's list of 37 selected commodities shows that 13 were higher than last week, 20 were lower, and 54 remained unchanged. In the preceding week there were seven advances, 24 declines, and 56 unchanged.

Missouri Pacific Makes Changes in Personnel

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Several changes in the operating personnel of the Missouri Pacific lines were announced here today effective Sept. 1. Exchange of territory by R. C. Williams, superintendent of the Memphis division, with headquarters at Wynne, Ark., and H. Schenti, superintendent of the Missouri-Illinois railroad and that portion of the Illinois division of the Missouri Pacific lines east of the Mississippi river, with headquarters at Bush, Ill., was announced. C. C. Chapman, superintendent of the Missouri division, with headquarters at Poplar Bluff, Mo., will also have charge of that portion of the Missouri-Illinois railroad west of the Mississippi.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 27.—The share market was extremely weak today. External influences were lacking, the bankers' support which was supposed to be forthcoming last week was not in evidence and the general public stuck to the gallery and viewed the give-and-take routine of the professionals with eyes grown weary from protracted cynicism.

The market in most issues was so thin one could see through them without a binocular. Just how general this condition was was shown by the fact that a vast majority of the stocks which moved more than a point in either direction did so on a handful of transactions—some of them on as few as one or two sales. In the first two hours of trading exactly half a dozen issues managed to run up a turnover of 10,000 shares. The total for the full five hours was about 800,000.

During the greater part of the session prices merely backed and filled, and went about it very lazily, at that. Toward the close, however, enough selling developed—part of it by way of profit taking by speculators who had become convinced that the little rally set in motion yesterday afternoon was not to be extended, and some of it by professional bear interests—to turn the list irregularly downward, recording net losses of from a fraction to 2 points or so on the day.

Weakness in a few issues with foreign connections such as Kreuger & Toll, International Match preferred, American and Foreign Power, and International Telephone and Telegraph, stood out prominently. The first named slumped to a new low for the bear market in continuing its steady slide, suggesting that adverse political developments abroad, especially in Germany and South America, are exerting more than a minor influence in Kreuger's extensive holdings. The company has participated in a number of loans to foreign governments. Formerly it relied a good deal on the American market for new funds, but this source of capital has been closed to it since the foreign bond market became so unsettled.

Rail Shares Soft.

Railroad shares were again soft. Their failure to attract a better demand in the wake of yesterday's little bull demonstration helped to chill speculative sentiment in the early dealings. No doubt it would help the case as much as anything else with the chart followers if the carrier stocks could shake off their anchor just now. The decision of the inter-

MERGER OF MAIL ORDER HOUSES IS SEEN NEARER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 27.—Prospects for a successful conclusion in negotiations for a merger of the country's two leading mail order houses, Sears, Roebuck & Co. and Montgomery Ward & Co., have brightened in the last day or two, Wall street understands.

Conferences of representatives of the two firms were resumed with strong banking interests here today, it was said, leading to the suggestion that concrete proposals might be reached to be placed before directors at an early date. Discussions of the consolidation have been held intermittently for several years, but thus far have not reached the point where terms have been proposed.

ROCK ISLAND REPORTS JULY NET OPERATING INCOME AHEAD OF '30

The first 54 railroads to report July results had net operating income aggregating $43,715,000, a decrease of 32.4 per cent from $64,722,000 reported for July last year. The same roads in June showed a decline of 25.3 per cent from June of 1930.

A favorable report was made by the Rock Island, which showed a net operating income for July well above that of July, 1930. The road reported gross operating revenues of $11,198,856 for July, as compared with $11,586,362 for the same month in 1930. The net operating income, after deduction of operating expenses, taxes, uncollectible items, and rents, was reported at $3,167,981, a gain from last July's net of $2,604,248.

The Illinois Central system reported railway operating revenues for July of $9,612,572, a decrease of $1,757,545 compared with the same month last year. Net railway operating income, after deducting operating expenses, taxes, equipment, and joint facility rents, was reported as $1,116,615, a decrease of $200,398.

For the seven months ending July 31 the railroad reported railway operating revenues of $70,445,557, a decrease of $19,357,763, and net railway operating income of $4,509,384, a decrease of $6,833,066.

WILLIAM MOORE IS ARRAIGNED IN NEW YORK COURT

New York, Aug. 27.—(AP)—William J. Moore, former president of the American Bond and Mortgage company, and Charles C. Moore, his stepson, who were among those indicted two days ago for mail fraud and conspiracy in the sale of $56,000,000 worth of securities, were arraigned before Federal Judge Anderson today.

Both pleaded not guilty and were held under bail of $5,000 each for trial.

Harold and Kenneth Moore, sons of William J. Moore, and Hayden W. Ward, who were also indicted, are expected to arrive from Chicago later this week or early next week for arraignment. Charles C. Moore resides in New Rochelle, N. Y., and Ward in Forest Hills, Queens. The remaining defendants are residents of Chicago.

Plans Offering of New Trust Shares to Public

Announcement was made yesterday by the Administrative and Research Corporation of New York, sponsors of Corporate Trust Shares, that a new trust is shortly to be offered to the public, and that issuance of additional shares of the old Corporate Trust Shares would be discontinued as soon as the total issue reached 20,000,000 shares. At present, approximately 19,000,000 Corporate Trust Shares have been issued, according to John Y. Robbins, president of the corporation. Of these only 22,000 shares have been liquidated and over 17,000,000 of them have been sold in the eighteen months ended Aug. 25. Mr. Robbins stated that his concern will also immediately offer the remaining issue of Five Year Fixed Trust shares.

Chicago Wholesale Trade Is About Even with 1930

Wholesale trade in the Chicago market area this week has held at about last year's levels as a result of large volume of orders from rural retailers, though wholesale volume within the metropolitan area was less than in the previous week, according to R. G. Dun & Co.

Retail trade showed a gain in the loop district due to buying of fall school supplies, but neighborhood shopping centers reported smaller business.

Oil Industry Observes Its 72d Anniversary

Titusville, Pa., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The oil industry was 72 years old today. There was no fanfare to the celebration, but up here in the Alleghany mountains, where the first well was brought in, old residents discussed that evening when Col. Edward Laurentine Drake completed a 69 foot hole and brought forth a rich grade of crude oil.

Samuel B. Smith, 88, who lives near the site of the first well and who as a boy of 16 helped to bring it in, was kept busy spinning yarns of the boom that followed the oil discovery and the opening of other wells in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and New York.

Illinois Bell Telephone to Spend $355,575 in State

Directors of Illinois Bell Telephone company have approved the expenditure of $355,575 for additions to plants in Chicago and $127,215 for Illinois outside of Chicago. This brings total expenditures approved so far this year to $13,818,609.

American Radiator Co. Gets Radio City Order

The American Radiator company has received an order for 20,000 cast iron radiators from the Radio City Development in New York City. The National Tube company has been awarded a contract for all steel and wrought iron pipe and interior electric conduit pipe.

Peter & Paul, Consolidated

You have heard of people who "borrow from Peter to pay Paul" . . . you may not know that people borrow from Paul (or even Tom, Dick and Harry) to repay Peter.

THIS bank is in position to see a considerable amount of "round robin" borrowing and the inevitable result of coming to the end of the rope . . . We have chosen it as our business to make small loans, offering the best plan ever devised to meet the situation of people not quite within the lending scope of commercial banks . . . But we always try to dodge the fellow who may look upon us as just another place to borrow money . . . We will and do lend to the man who may be somewhat "spread out" . . . if he will resolve to consolidate his bills to both Peter and Paul . . . and will stick it out, pay up his loan, and not yield to the many, many and easy ways to fall in again. ✧ ✧

$50 a month will pay out a "consolidated" loan of $600

BENDIX SHARES ARE POPULAR IN CHICAGO TRADING

Prices of shares on the Chicago Stock exchange closed irregularly lower yesterday following what appeared to be the beginning of a bulge along about the middle of the session. However, selling developed toward the close which ended hopes of an upturn for the day. The volume was slightly under that of the previous day.

Bendix continues to provide the chief interest. Sales yesterday amounted to 29,800 shares, but the close found the issue off a point from Wednesday at 23. There was a report that the company had entered into a deal with a large automobile manufacturer to supply its new vacuum clutch. Borg Warner also was fairly active, gaining ¾ on a turnover of 11,200 shares.

Q. R. S. was active again yesterday, but was off ¼ from its previous close. Interest in this issue was attributed yesterday to changes in the management, report of profit in a certain line manufactured by the company, and to reports of economies effected in operation.

Public Service Off 6 Points.

Utilities were slightly less firm than customary. Commonwealth Edison at 198 lost a point and Public Service, on a small transaction, lost 6 points in selling at 204. Cities Service was down a minor fraction on a turnover of 2,450 shares. Middle West Utilities was ¾ lower on a small volume of sales.

In the report on the earnings of the North American Car corporation published yesterday it was stated that the net income of $115,838 was before all charges. The net income should have read after all charges but before preferred dividend requirements.

A sharp drop in earnings was shown by the Keystone Steel and Wire company for the year ended June 30. The firm reported a net profit of $196,575 after all charges, including depreciation, interest and federal taxes, equal after preferred dividends to 18 cents a share on 202,284 shares of common stock outstanding. This compares with a net income of $585,900, or $2.20 a share on the common stock outstanding in the previous fiscal year.

Shows Balance Sheet.

As of June 30, 1931, the balance sheet shows current assets of $3,450,072 and current liabilities of $327,563 in comparison with $3,824,951 and $485,714 as of June 30, 1930. Profit and loss surplus totaled $3,039,090 in comparison with $3,032,275 at the close of the previous fiscal year.

United States Radio and Television in the radio division slipped ⅝ to close at 29¾. The volume of trading in this issue has been falling off, yesterday's turnover amounting to 2,580 shares. Thompson lost a point from its previous spurt, closing at 24. Other shares on the list found themselves at the close within fractions of the previous finish.

Altorfer Brothers company, whose factory is at Peoria, announced yesterday the appointment of radio distributers in Newark, Syracuse, Omaha and San Francisco to distribute their home ironers, washers, etc.

CLEVELAND BANK SAYS WORLD CONDITIONS MAKE FOR DEBT CUTS

Cleveland, O., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The Midland Bank of Cleveland in a brochure issued today, entitled "Can America Collect Her Foreign Debts?", declares that world economic conditions are pressing for a scaling down of war reparations, but adds that any scaling down should be accompanied by a world-wide armament reduction.

The brochure discussed United States war loans to the allies amounting to $22,000,000,000 principal and interest, as well as American private loans and investments abroad amounting to about $17,500,000,000. The bank said that America's war loans and German reparations are inseparably interwoven, Germany's reparation total of $26,000,000,000 approximating the total of the allies' war debt to America.

"Continual borrowing by Germany obviously will not settle the question. Indeed, it is likely to lead to the point where we are lending Germany money to pay the allies to pay us," the bank said.

"In return for scaling down war debts and reparations, the United States could demand at least partial disarmament on all sides. A 25 per cent reduction in military expenditures in the United States in 1931-'32 would cause a reduction in income of $64,000,000, making a net gain of $108,000,000. Similarly France would gain $94,000,000, England $151,000,000, and Italy $59,000,000."

Consolidated Textile.

Since 1920 the company has suffered a loss every year except 1923 and 1927. Loss of $2,411,199 in 1930 was the largest in the last eleven years. For 1929 loss was $928,627, against $475,632 in 1928. Profit of $152,994 in 1927 was nominal.

Overproduction, inventory losses, price cutting, changing style trends, current depression, etc., were responsible for the unsatisfactory results.

For the six months ended July 4, 1931, net loss was $500,370, against net loss of $1,373,789 for the six months ended June 28, 1930.

On Jan. 3, 1930, current assets were $4,501,946, and current liabilities were $982,682. Cash was $733,064, against $803,958 on Dec. 28, 1929. Working capital in 1930 dropped to $3,519,263 from $5,714,881. Funded debt was $9,342,000, and notes payable to bank were $150,000.

Seven of the company's plants were closed down in 1930 and in 1931 one was sold.

Interest on the 7 per cent notes and 8 per cent first mortgage bonds has not been paid since June 1, 1930.

Wisconsin Hydro-Electric.

Have you any information on Wisconsin Hydro-Electric company of Amery, Wis.? Is its 6 per cent preferred stock a good investment? Thank you.—M. G.

GRAIN PRICES DECLINE AFTER ONE DAY CLIMB

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Traders who had visions of a straightway advance in the grain markets as the result of the sharp bulge of Wednesday, were greatly disappointed yesterday. At no time were prices of wheat, corn or oats above the finish of the previous day and there was a lack of the aggressive buying and bullish sentiment noticeable when the market was on the upgrade.

"While sentiment remains rather friendly to the buying side of all grains, there was sufficient bearish developments in the foreign wheat situation, including better weather conditions on the continent and exports of 5,800,000 bu from Russia in the last week, to take the edge off the market.

Some of the operators who were on the buying side on Wednesday sold out their lines, and wheat at the inside was 1@1¼c under the previous close, and finished within a fraction of the bottom with net losses of ⅝@1c, the latter on May which was affected by spreading operations with Kansas City, September being bought in the latter market, and May sold here. September closed at 47⅛@47¼c, December, 51¼c, and May, 56⅝ to 56¾c.

Cash Interests Active.

Cash interests were decidedly active in the wheat market and furnished a liberal percentage of the business, the bulk of it representing changing over of hedges, and spreading between here and the northwest. There was some selling of May which was regarded as hedging operations for the Pacific coast. Winnipeg failed to fully reflect the decline in Chicago and closed ⅝@⅞c lower with October at 55¼c. Heavy rains were reported at some points in the prairie provinces, and in addition there was a fairly active export demand with sales of 500,000 bu Manitobas claimed in all positions. Germany was credited with having bought a little hard winter.

In addition to exports of 5,800,000 bu wheat from Russia during the last week the latter was said to have sold three full cargoes to Japan at 39c per bu, duty paid, the ocean rate from the Black sea being reported at about 11c per bu for the 8,000 mile voyage. Floor reports from parts of Germany and Belgium were ignored as market influences. Liverpool was ⅛@¼d lower for the day with the October closing at equal to 56p per bu.

The government report on farmers' intentions to plant winter wheat for the crop of 1932 was not issued yesterday, but will be given to the trade today at 3 p. m. Chicago time.

Better Cash Corn Demand.

Technical position of the corn market seemed to have been considerably weakened by the bulge of 4½c from the low of Tuesday to the high of Wednesday, and a return of selling pressure yesterday caused a recession of 1⅝c from the finish of the previous day. There was no liquidation of consequence, however, on the way down, while holders of bids were buyers on the break. Final trades were 1c lower at 42½c to 42¾c. New crop months received fair support and were ⅝@¾c lower at the last with December, 38⅝c to 39c, and May, 43¾c.

A much better demand was reported for cash corn with sales here of 104,600 bu to the east, and it was claimed that some business was put through with Ohio points, although of late the latter state and Indiana have been selling grain to the east at below a Chicago parity. Country offerings to arrive were fair with purchases to come here of 46,000 bu. A bullish construction was placed on the Iowa weekly weather crop report which claimed that state would ship little grain during the coming season owing to the heavy damage in the northern third of the state.

Announcement that the government would make loans for feeding live stock in the drought stricken areas in the northwest caused some comment as it was taken as indicating that considerable feed grain might be shipped in.

Oats Show Strength.

Oats market again showed independent strength as compared with corn, and closed ¼@⅝c lower with September, 21¾c; December, 22⅝c and May, 25⅝c. Owing to the unusually low weight of the cash grain this season it is claimed a leading industry has been buying heavy grain to some extent in Illinois and shipping it to its mills in Iowa. Economic necessity is regarded as increasing the use of horses on the farms and heavier consumption of grain is likely.

Houses with northwestern connections were persistent buyers of rye and the finish was unchanged to ⅝c lower in the face of the sharp recession in wheat. September closed at 33⅝c; December, 36¾c and May, 40⅝c.

CASH·GRAIN NEWS

Break in wheat futures yesterday resulted in a fairly liberal export business being put through in Manitobas, and sales were finally estimated at 500,000 bu in all positions, mainly No. 1 and No. 2 northern. Germany was reported as actively inquiring for kaffir corn and milo maize at the Gulf, but offerings were small. Basis on No. 1 hard winter at the Gulf was steady at 1@1½c over Chicago September.

Local handlers sold 18,000 bu wheat, 104,000 bu corn, and 20,000 bu oats to the domestic trade with 8,000 bu wheat, 40,000 bu corn, and 2,000 bu oats bought to arrive.

Choice cash wheat in the local sample market was somewhat firmer as compared with futures and other kinds were steady. No. 1 red was 1¼@1½c over, No. 2 red 1c over. No. 3 red September price to ¼c over, No. 1 hard 2½c over, No. 2 hard 2c over, No. 3 hard 1c over, No. 2 yellow hard ½@¾c over, and No. 2 mixed ⅜@1c over the September.

Offerings of cash corn remain small, and the basis here was ⅛c higher. Premiums as compared with September follow: No. 1 mixed and No. 1 yellow 1½c, No. 2 mixed 1@1½c, No. 1 white 1¾c, No. 2 white 3½c, No. 3 mixed and yellow 1c, white 2c.

Basis on cash oats was ⅛c higher to ¼c lower with No. 2 white 1@1¼c over September with choice at 2c over, while No. 3 white was 1c under to 1¼c over the future. No. 3 rye sold 2c@4½c over September and No. 3 rye 3½c over.

GOOD UPTURN IN LARD

A more interesting trade was on in lard yesterday with a fair business in buying for distant futures and selling September by commission houses, while packers took the other side of the trade. There was not particular selling pressure, with offerings of all futures picked up on the breaks and the close was at net gains of 7½@11½c, the latter on September. Liverpool lard was 3d lower to 3d higher, except on October, which remained unchanged.

Sales of 927,300 lbs and bellies 12,500 lbs. Although there was practically no trade in September bellies the price of both July and September was steady at $6.25. Hog prices were higher with receipts larger than a week ago but considerably less than last year. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Russia upset the world's wheat markets yesterday by its large exports and its low price, 39 cents a bushel, made to Japan. Buyers of Wednesday were among the best sellers yesterday, although the market is receiving special attention of the cash interests here and in the northwest, who are said to be turning over their hedges, and by spreaders who are operating between Chicago, Minneapolis, and Winnipeg. The trade in all has a feeling that it is best to go slow on the buying side except on breaks. It was also said that speculators who have believed that wheat was worth present prices, but who failed to get in at the recent level, absorbed considerable wheat yesterday on the break. Until the elevator and milling interests are through changing their spreads traders do not look for the market to do very much in either direction.

There are indications of an improved tone in the cash corn situation, as eastern buyers who have been supplied from Indiana and Ohio have come into the market and bought moderately. Ohio points also have taken a fair quantity of cash corn from Chicago in the last few days. As there has been practically no new corn bought to arrive, every sale of December and May is a short sale and will have to be covered later. Prices are said to be getting down to a level where it is dangerous to be short, as the crop is approaching the frost period, when the crop might be damaged by severely low temperatures. The crop, however, in a good many sections of the belt is denting and glazing around two weeks earlier than usual.

The government report on farmers' intentions to plant wheat on the 1932 crop was not issued yesterday afternoon, as scheduled, but is due in Chicago today at 3 o'clock. Expectations are that it will show a moderate reduction in acreage as compared with last year.

Corn traders have decided that action of the September corn will depend upon what the leading holder of the cash grain will do next week. It is said that should the corn be delivered it will have a weakening effect.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Butter market showed an easier undertone with prices unchanged to ½c lower. Receipts, 7,963 tubs. Fresh eggs were unsettled and unchanged to ½c lower. Receipts, 7,019 cases. Live hens and broilers and fryers were 1c lower, while leghorn hens were off ½c. Rock springs were steady to 1c lower and broilers and fryers 1c lower. Old roosters advanced 1c and heavy white ducks were also 1c higher. Receipts, 2 cars and 42 trucks. Potatoes steady. Receipts, 82 cars, with 251 cars on team track.

BREAK IN COTTON PRICES

Buying of cotton, attributed to trade interests, was good in the early part of yesterday with prices higher. Increased offerings later developed an easier feeling and with a mixed speculative trade of moderate proportions, prices yielded toward the last with a finish around the day's lowest figures. Chicago and 10@15 points in other markets. A drop of 15 points was made in spot cotton, following an advance of 20 points the previous day, with New York 7.05c, New Orleans 6.75c, Galveston 6.85c, and Houston 6.80c. Liverpool was steady and Houston prices there closing 2 points higher, with spot sales of 3,000 bales.

The Louisiana legislature has passed a law prohibiting cotton planting next year if a sufficient number of states follow suit. The law provides for a fine of $100 to $500 and imprisonment from 10 to 60 days or both, however, had little or no effect on prices, reported through the far east. Rains fell in the central areas and in south Texas, which interfered with picking. Prices follow:

WET HARVEST IN FRANCE

In France large quantities of wheat are lying in the fields, too wet to thresh, especially in the western and northern districts, says Broomhall. Two-thirds of the oat and wheat crops have been washed out in Belgium and Germany, where there has been three weeks of continuous rain. Berlin reports grain rotting in the fields everywhere in southwestern Germany.

OFFICIAL WEATHER FORECAST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—The existence of a $15 checking account maintained by Claudius H. Huston during the 1928 campaign and the donation of $5,000 of the fund, through Bishop James Cannon Jr., to the anti-Smith Democrats of North Carolina, were disclosed today by witnesses before the senatorial campaign investigation committee.

CLAUDIUS HUSTON [U. & U. Ph.

During the time that he disbursed $150,000 from account in the International Ger Bank of New York Claudius H. H and Horace Mann were in charge the Hoover campaign in the sou Huston later was made chairman the Republican national commi sity to retire under fire of last yea senate lobby committee, which char him with having used political in the conduct of personal deals.

G. O. P. Money Traced.

Under the guidance of Chairm Gerald P. Nye (radical Rep., N. the campaign funds committee a large portion of the day dem sisting that Republican support Republican funds had been bac the Democratic movement of Bishop Cannon was leading spi defeat Al Smith in the southern s

In the committee's zeal to political paths, the complex finan transactions of the bishop were forgotten, however. One witness, example, testified that the bishop h used funds from a political account make a payment in settling estate of a widow, for whom he w executor.

Another, W. C. Gregg of Hack sack, who gave $1,250 to Bish Cannon for the anti-Smith campai told of a letter from the bishop t ing him how these political contri tions might be hidden and yet att the same result by giving them to church organization of which B Cannon is head.

Offers to Cover Up Contribution.

Written, Sept. 15, 1928, follo Gregg's first gift of $500, the said:

"Referring to the fact that funds which are used under auspices of the anti-Smith Dem must be reported by our treasur used for political purposes I say that if you prefer that you tribution should not appear in t port of the committee, it can utilized in the literature campaign the board of temperance and service of the Methodist Ch South, which can concentrate to extent to the amount of $500 daily in Tennessee."

The board, said the bishop, carrying on one branch of the wo the anti-Smith committee the oth Henry G. Luhring of Norfolk, man of the anti-Smith Democra the Second congressional distri Virginia, said that the only fina help received from Bishop Cannon headquarters committee in Richmo was $300. A year ago, while und investigation by the lobby committ Bishop Cannon had stated pub that $4,500 of the $65,300 given by E. C. Jameson of New York not reported to the clerk of the hou had gone into the Second Virgin district.

Cannon's Aids Won't Testify.

In the intervals between the di sures, political and financial, hearing was enlivened by the re of two of Bishop Cannon's forme workers to testify. Gazing con stedly out from under a close bro hat, Miss Ada L. Burroughs, form treasurer of the anti-Smith Dem state headquarters committee, clared, "I decline to testify in t case." Peering over gold spectac which drooped far down his no porty Dr. J. Sidney Peters, "a m ister of the gospel" and former sec tary of the committee, droned, must respectfully decline to answe with much emphasis on the "respe fully."

It was Miss Burroughs' seco defiance of the committee. Both we warned that they might be held contempt.
